HYDE DIDN'T STOP AT ST. AUGUSTINE

City Chamberlain Was Expected at the Ponce de Leon, but May Have Gone Further South.

HE HAD ROOMS ENGAGED

Mayor Declines to Discuss the Remarkable Disappearance—Graft Committee Will Ask Extension of Life.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 11.—City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde of New York had rooms reserved at the Ponce De Leon Hotel for to-night. If he was on the train he did not get off, and possibly went further South.

City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde kept as effectually out of sight yesterday as he has done every day since Dec. 1, when he was reported to have gone South on a duck-shooting expedition. If he has stayed away from New York with the idea that the Legislative Investigation Committee, which looked into the alleged use of large sums of money at Albany in the attempt to defeat the anti-race track gambling bills, will pass out of existence on Jan. 15 and therefore will not have an opportunity to call him as a witness, he will probably be doomed to disappointment.

The members of the committee met yesterday at the Murray Hill Hotel and decided to ask the Legislature to extend their commission for a year so that Mr. Hyde can be subpoenaed to testify when he does return. The members, it was said, also want to get other evidence that bears upon the graft situation.

There are two ways, according to the committee, in which it lease of life can be extended to accomplish the examination of the missing City Chamberlain. One is to renew the joint legislative resolution by which it was created, in which case the places of Senator Alexander Brough and Assemblyman Frederick Toombs, who were not re-elected last Fall, could be filled by appointment. The other is the creation of a State Commission to continue the investigation which has been in progress. In the event of this latter plan being decided upon no new appointments would be necessary.

Mayor Gaynor refused yesterday to discuss the absence of the City Chamberlain. When asked if he had any comment to make regarding the situation, he replied with some annoyance that he was not ready to discuss the case at all, and added that the public would have to wait until he had made up his mind to discuss it.

So far only one citizen, Lawyer Alfred Epstein of 320 Broadway, has petitioned the Mayor to investigate Mr. Hyde's absence with a view to having him removed from office, but according to a well-defined rumor yesterday various civic organizations will file a protest with the Mayor within a few days. One of those organizations will be the Merchants' Association. Mr. Epstein said yesterday that he had heard nothing from the Mayor regarding the charges he filed against Mr. Hyde. He wrote this letter to the Mayor on Jan. 9:

> Hon. William J. Gaynor, Mayor of the City of New York, City Hall, New York City.
>
> Honorable Sir: In relation to the charges, which I have filed with your honor, requesting the removal of Mr. Charles H. Hyde as Chamberlain of the City of New York, I desire to take this occasion to state that I am not actuated in so doing by any personal feeling or animosity against Mr. Hyde. I bring these charges as a citizen, and honestly feel that Mr. Hyde has not properly attended to his duties, and that there is and has been grave danger of the city's moneys being lost, through the failure and closing down of two banks, and by reason of the continued absence of Mr. Hyde from his office.
>
> Before bringing these charges, I have taken occasion to interview a number of my clients and business men of this city, and in every instance found them quite indignant over the situation, and a number of them have even gone so far as to characterize his actions as outrageous, and that he should be removed from office, solely by reason of the fact (if for nothing else) that he has absented himself from his duties for the greater part of the year 1910.
>
> In conclusion, I again state that I am sincere in my belief that Mr. Hyde has forfeited his right to hold the high office of City Chamberlain of the City of New York, and that it is out of pure public spirit that I am actuated in presenting the charges.
>
> I would urge that your Honor give this matter a speedy hearing, as any delay might tend to reflect upon your administration.
>
> Very respectfully yours,
>
> ALFRED EPSTEIN.

The report that the missing Chamberlain's wife and children had left their home at Roslyn, L. I., and were on their way to St. Augustine , Fla., to join Mr. Hyde, was corroborated yesterday by Mr. Hyde's secretary, John V. Smith, and by Stephen C. Baldwin, his counsel.

"As soon as I heard that Mr. Hyde's family had gone South to meet him," said Mr. Smith, "I called up the Hyde home on the telephone and was informed by a servant that Mrs. Hyde and the children had really left. They did not communicate with me before leaving, and of course I do not know where they have gone. I have not heard from Mr. Hyde himself, and I do not know where he is. I am positive, however, that he has not been in the city or anywhere near it since he went away.

"It has been rumored that Mr. Hyde returned to New York after leaving his houseboat at Beaufort, N. C., and visited his Long Island home. There is no truth in the report. He has not been here since he went away. If it is true that he intends to meet his wife and family at St. Augustine I think he will communicate with me as soon as he gets in touch with a telegraph office."

"Mrs. Hyde and her six children left here on Monday for Palm Beach, Fla.," said Mr. Baldwin. "She had planned to leave on that date several weeks ago. She may have stopped off at St. Augustine, for that is where her folks live, and I presume that she will visit them and even remain there until the season at Palm Beach opens. I believe it was all planned long ago that the family should go South and there meet Mr. Hyde after he finished with his hunting trip.

"He has been away so long now without communicating with his friends that we are becoming somewhat worried about him. He may have met with an accident. Certainly, if he has seen the newspapers lately, he would come back. I do not believe he knows anything about the excitement his absence has caused, and as soon as he does learn of it I am sure he will drop everything and hurry back.

"I do not believe that he would return just because the Graft Investigating Committee wants him, for he didn't go away until he felt sure that he wasn't wanted. But these developments in regard to the banking situation are different. I believe he would consider them too serious to be ignored."

One of the first things Mr. Hyde will

WIFE SUES CHIEF CROKER.

Seeks a Separation Following a Long Estrangement.

It was learned yesterday that papers in a suit for separation brought by his wife were served on Fire Chief Edward F. Croker of this city on Monday. The action is based on charges of abandonment, insufficient support, and incompatibility.

The suit grows out of misunderstandings between the couple which first attracted public notice in 1908. Chief Croker then advertised that he would not be responsible for his wife's debts. The Fire Chief later sued his wife to regain possession of their Summer home in Good Ground, L. I., which he had made over to her. Croker declined to discuss his wife's action last night beyond saying that he had given her all of the Good Ground property in the hope that it would settle their differences.

PRESCRIPTION BY WIRELESS.

Ship Captain Saved by Message Sent 800 Miles Over Sea.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 11.—Capt. Arthur N. McGray, master of the tramp steamer Herman Frasch of New York, which arrived here to-day with a cargo of sulphur from a Gulf port, to-day told how he had been saved from death by a prescription sent by wireless.

Just after the Frasch left Sabine Pass on Jan. 2 Capt. McGray was taken ill with ptomaine poisoning from eating canned salmon. Within thirty-six hours later he was writhing in his bunk. There was no surgeon aboard his vessel, but he sent a wireless message to the physician at the Government naval station at Dry Tortugas, which was then about 100 miles distant. This message was also caught by the operator on the Ward Line steamship Merida, which was then at Progreso on the coast of Yucatan, 800 miles away. The surgeon on that ship sent a prescription and rules for treatment back to the Frasch an hour before the message from the naval station was received. The necessary medicines were aboard, and McGray was soon out of danger.

TO CHANGE LAW FOR DE KAY.

As Military Secretary to Dix He'll Have a Naval Title.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 11.—In order that Lieut. Eckford Craven De Kay may be appointed military secretary to Gov. Dix and retain his connection with the Naval Militia the military law is to be amended as soon as the legislative formalities can be complied with. Lieut. De Kay is now serving as military secretary on detail from the Naval Militia in New York.

Any man in or out of the military service may be appointed to the position of military secretary, but when the appointment is made the incumbent must under the existing law have the grade of Major. Lieut. De Kay, as a Naval Militia officer, does not care to assume an army title, therefore the law is to be amended so that the military secretary may have either the grade of Major or Lieutenant Commander, the corresponding rank in the Naval Militia. The amendment passed, Mr. De Kay will receive the rank of Lieutenant Commander and will be regularly appointed to the position he has been filling under the detail since Jan. 2. The military secretary is a member of the Governor's staff and is not connected with the National Guard.

BOMB FOR CHICAGO JUDGE.

Found in the Entrance of His Home with the Fuse Half Burned.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—A dynamite bomb was found to-day in the vestibule of the home of County Judge John E. Owens, recently elected on the Democratic ticket. It was about seven inches long and an inch in diameter, lead covered. Its fuse had been lighted, but had burned out.

Miss Ida Owens, sister of the jurist, found the bomb and carried it into the house, where the Judge unwrapped it from the wet newspaper with which it was encased. It was beside the wall of his library, where he was accustomed to spend part of his evenings.

"I thought first it was a joke," said the Judge to-day. "When I saw the fuse had been lighted I thought I had better turn it over to the police. I can't imagine what would prompt any one to blow up my house, and I think it will be found to have been a joke."

When the lead casing of the bomb had been cut into by the police it was seen to contain a coarse, reddish powder, which was wet. It was believed by the police to be high-powered blasting powder.

GOMPERS ASSAILS TAFT.

Declares Bill He Favors Will Not Cure Injunction Abuses.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 11.—Samuel Gompers, in to-morrow's issue of United Mine Workers' Journal, will criticise the President for his advocacy of the Moon bill bearing on injunctions.

"In the Federal courts Judge Taft long ago paved the way and built the foundation for the abuse and perversion of the injunction writ," he will say. "He issued this species of injunction while Judge, he defended it during his Presidential campaign and in his inaugural address, in his speeches at Worcester, Mass., and Passaic, N. J., this year, and again in his message to the present session of Congress.

"The fact of the matter is that the Moon bill, the enactment of which the President urged, would not remove one wrong or rectify one jot of the injunction abuse and perversion. Its enactment would simply have this one effect, it would legalize and give statutory authority for the issuance of these injunctions. It would put on the statute books in the form of a law what is now simply judicial invasion, court-made laws."

Dr. Cook's Old Home Sold.

The old home of Dr. Frederick A. Cook of gumdrop and purple snow fame, at Bushwick and Willoughby Avenues, Brooklyn, has been sold to Max Lacher of Brooklyn by the Ladies' Hebrew Home for the Aged Society. It is understood that Mr. Lacher will occupy the house, a large four-story brick structure, as a residence. The property was bought by the society about two years ago from Mrs. Cook, the wife of Dr. Cook.

PEARY WAS WITHIN 1.6 MILES OF THE POLE

Experts of Coast and Geodetic Survey Who Examined His Records Believe He Succeeded.

EXPLORER CROSS-EXAMINED

Searching Questions Put to Him by Members of House Committee—Two of Them Still Skeptical.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Capt. Peary's claim to having reached the north pole was to-day for the first time publicly supported by independent evidence. According to this, Peary went within a mile and six-tenths of the pole.

Hugh C. Mitchell, a computer of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, told on the witness stand how he and Charles R. Duvall, also a computer on the survey, had extracted from Peary's records two sets of observations, taken six hours apart each day at Camp Morris K. Jesup and at the place where Peary made his highest northern point. Each computer took these data, and, working separately and by independent methods, determined the latitude and longitude of Camp Jesup and also the course from there over which Peary said he walked on alone eight miles. Mr. Mitchell said that if the data were accurate, and he believed they were, Peary went four and six-tenths miles past the pole on the east side of it.

Mr. Mitchell said that the computations were at first made without having the ratings of Peary's chronometers by the New York firm which took them before and after the expedition. When the ratings were received the computations were made again, and an error was found, amounting to about 500 feet. The chronometers were rated before Peary went north to make a predicted loss of two-tenths of a second a day, but as a matter of fact when they were again tested after the expedition they turned out to have made a gain of twelve minutes in the whole period of a year and a half. This was nothing unusual, as chronometers had the habit of changing in consequence of temperature conditions or other causes.

Mr. Roberts of the Congressional subcommittee was anxious to know if the observations could have been "faked."

"The observations could have been set down here," said Mr. Mitchell. "We had to take Capt. Peary's word for their truth and accuracy. But I will say that it would be very difficult for any one to make 'fake' observations that would not be detected in the course of the computations. Mr. Duvall and myself worked independently, and our results came out practically the same. The difference was negligible."

Mr. Mitchell said he had done the work within the past month, and that the rating of the chronometers by the New York firm was done, not for the purpose of the computations with regard to Peary's course, but for use in connection with work on the soundings made during the expedition.

Several members of the committee examined the witness at length, and most searchingly. He answered all questions with the precision of a scientist and the practical common sense of a man long accustomed to deal with just such problems.

Prof. Tittman, the Superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, testified that Mitchell and Duvall were among the best computers to be found anywhere in the world.

Most of the day was spent in a direct examination of Peary himself by Representative Macon of Arkansas, who has, from the first consideration of the matter of recognition, assumed that Peary's claim was based entirely on guesswork. Mr. Macon conducted a carefully prepared series of inquiries, being at times himself badgered and baited by other members of the committee, who seemed, much to Peary's apparent disgust, to be bent on having some fun out of the occasion.

Capt. Peary answered all questions with dignity and clearly until he was asked a question connected with Dr. Cook or with his conferences with the committee of the National Geographical Society. Then he uniformly tried to escape going on record. Mr. Macon asked him why he said in his book that it was a calm, clear day when he arrived at the pole, and yet the photographs in his book showed his flag set up on the alleged pole standing out straight in the breeze. Peary said there was a slight breeze. Macon thought it must have been more than a breeze.

Macon asked Peary why it was he would not let a white man go to the pole with him for fear he would have to share the glory with others, when Columbus had white men with him when he discovered the West Indies; Amerigo Vespucci had white men with him when he discovered the American mainland; De Soto had white comrades with him when he discovered the Mississippi; Magellan had white compatriots with him when he discovered the straits that bear his name; and other explorers had not shown this singular fear of losing their just and fair measure of fame when making great discoveries.

"Why, Sir, did you choose to take a nigger and two Eskimo with you and send Bartlett back?" demanded the persistent Arkansan.

"I felt that others would necessarily share the discovery with me," replied Peary.

Mr. Roberts, in examing the record book to read the observations made during the dash from Camp Bartlett, remarked that the pages were not soiled and the whole book looked very clean—too clean to accord with the conditions that are said to attend arctic travelers. The books were passed around, and the same view was taken by the various members.

Capt. Peary did not seem to regard this as a very important matter.

Mr. Roberts also wanted to know why it was that when Peary got back to the Roosevelt he did not let Harry Whitney know he had found the pole.

Peary said Whitney was to go back sooner than he could get back himself and would beat him with the news. He told Bartlett that he had been to the top of the world. He was himself under contract to write an account of his discovery for a magazine and for newspapers, and he did not think it best to allow the news to be told in advance of his return to the United States.

Mr. Roberts referred to the last five marches to the pole, in which Peary made 133 geographical miles, and, footing up the number of miles made each day as set forth in Peary's first pamphlet account of the journey, found that the total was only 120 miles.

Peary said that the distance for the third day as given in the pamphlet was a typographical error, and should be twenty-five miles.

"Well," said Roberts, "that leaves you eight miles short of the pole."

Copies of letters from the President of the Royal Geographical Society stating that the society had made computations from Peary's furnished data and recognized his claim to the discovery of the pole were produced. No point was made before the committee of the fact that these were the same data that a year ago Peary refused to give the committee.

The inquiry will continue to-morrow. Mr. Macon and Mr. Roberts were unconvinced by the testimony produced in favor of Peary to-day, and Mr. Macon said to-night that he would thresh it all out on the floor of the House when the proper time came.

STEAMSHIP MEN MAY DISSOLVE THEIR POOL

Contracts Between Members Soon Expire and Prosecutions Hold Off Renewals.

READY TO LET RATES GO

Atlantic Conference Willing, It Is Said, to Cancel Agreements if Trial of Suits Is Not Forced.

Officials of the big steamship lines in this city belonging to the Atlantic Conference, which is now being prosecuted by the United States Government under the Sherman anti-trust law, are wondering what is going to happen next month, when the contracts between them giving the rates of cabin and steerage passage expire.

These contracts are signed for three years, and it has been customary as the expiration of the term draws near to hold conferences in London or Paris, to decide what changes are to be made in rates. So far no notices have been issued regarding a conference, and it is considered probable here that the contracts will not be renewed until the result of the action taken by the Government has been made known.

Agents and officials of the lines were willing to talk yesterday with a TIMES reporter on the subject, but they did not wish to be quoted at such a critical period. A report, which was said to have emanated from London, was circulated in shipping circles to the effect that the Atlantic Conference would cancel its contracts with a view to settling the dispute as regards the legality of its business methods, and preventing the suit from coming to trial.

A steamship manager said this:

"I do not think there is any truth in the report concerning the cancellation of the contracts. It is possible that the newspapers on the other side have got the word cancellation confused with expiration.

"Although I have not received any news from Europe regarding the future actions of the Atlantic Conference I do not think it likely that any contracts will be renewed while the matter is pending in the courts. The Conference offered last Spring to cancel its agreements if the United States Government considered them illegal.

"During the last three years there has been considerable new tonnage added to the Atlantic passenger trade, and this year it will be further augmented by the Olympic and Titanic. This means that before any new contract could be signed there will have to be, perhaps, four or five meetings in London or Paris to adjust the rates for the older ships and fix the fares of the new ships coming out this year and also for the Hamburg-American liner Europa and the 50,000-ton Cunarder, which are under construction. Notices for these meeting should have been issued by this time if they were to be held in the near future, as representatives are sent from this side to take part in the discussions."

"Do you think that a rate war will ensue if the contracts are not renewed?" he was asked.

"Not necessarily, as the various lines are on the most amicable footing and there is no reason why the rates should not remain as they are. Fighting each other would be a suicidal policy."

Another manager explained that the rates for passage twenty-eight years ago were higher than they are to-day with less than 10 per cent. of the comfort on board ship. The books of the lines would demonstrate that they made more money, he said, for the first fifteen years of that twenty-eight than they have since. The recent big ships added to the Atlantic fleet, including the Lusitania, Maurentania, Olympic, and Titanic, averaged nearly $12,000,000 each, which was an enormous outlay in any business, and especially when it was taken into consideration that ships began to depreciate in value from the time of their maiden voyage. Twenty-eight years ago the rate for saloon passengers was $102.50 minimus, inside or outside cabin. There was no second cabin, and the steerage rates were $40, without bedding.

The dining saloons were illuminated with oil lamps and the staterooms with candles. In view of the great difference between liners like the Alaska, Arizona, Gallia, Britannic, Spain, City of Chester, Mauretania, Kronprinzessin Cecilie, Adriatic, Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, Provence, Rotterdam, and Minnewaska and other liners of the present day, there was nothing exorbitant, he thought, in the average charge of $72.50 to $125 minimum saloon and from $30 to $38 for steerage rates without comparing the food, comfort, and general equipment of the modern floating hotels over the crack liners of a quarter of a century ago.

GIRL ESCAPES DEATH CHAIR.

Rose Picchiono, Who Killed Husband, Found Guilty of Manslaughter.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 11.—"Thanks be to God for the verdict. Blessed be the jurymen."

These were the words uttered between loud sobs by Rosa Picchiono, the 17-year-old bride of a few months, who shot and killed her husband last Columbus Day at New Rochelle, when a jury in Part I. of the Supreme Court at White Plains this afternoon found her guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. The maximum penalty is twenty years.

Justice A. S. Tompkins said he would defer sentence until Friday morning.

The young prisoner, just before the jury returned, had been clasping her baby in her arms in the ante room. When she entered the courtroom her face was blanched and she trembled violently as the foreman told Justice Tompkins that a verdict had been reached.

"We find the defendant guilty of manslaughter in the first degree," the foreman said.

The girl gasped and seemed about to faint. Then when she realized that she had escaped the death chair she made the exclamation quoted above.

The charge of Judge Tompkins was considered a masterly one and was commented upon by lawyers. He gave a résumé of the evidence and cited the law governing homicide cases.

Charles H. Noxen, who defended the young girl, fought hard to have her acquitted on the ground that she shot her husband in self-defense. Rosa is the first female to be tried for murder in the history of Westchester County.

LITTLE BOY POISONED; LEFT DEAD IN SWAMP

Found Near Albany with Face Burned by Acid He Was Forced to Drink.

BOTTLE AND CANDY NEARBY

Police Believe Child of Rich Parents Was Taken There in Auto and Killed by Kidnappers.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 11.—In returning from a hunting trip Henry Sprackland discovered to-day the body of a boy, about 5 years old, in a swamp 200 yards south of the Schenectady Road, a thoroughfare for touring automobilists, and about opposite Stop 35 on the Schenectady Trolley Railroad.

The body was hatless and shoeless and was dressed neatly in a white percale suit, with sailor collar, a blue silk scarf, and black stockings. The body was well nourished, but the face was distorted from burns, which scarred the cheeks and lips. Near by the body was a bag of chocolate cream candy, and under the body a two-ounce phial of carbolic acid, frozen, from which but little had been removed.

From the indications of the scars on the face the boy had the acid forced into his mouth while being held from behind, and he had ejected as much of it as he could. The label bore the name of a Madison Avenue pharmacy and appeared to have been placed on the bottle recently. Frank E. Lewis, the proprietor, stated to-night that he had no recollection of having sold the poison.

Madison Avenue, on which the drug store is located, leads into the great western turnpike, a mile from the Schenectady Road. The body was found about 2½ miles from the drug store.

The boy's stockings were not soiled, showing that he either was carried to the place after the poison was administered or that he walked there, his shoes being removed after he was murdered. Chief of Police James W. Hyatt believes this theory true, for he does not believe a boy of that age would commit suicide or that if the acid was forced into the boy's mouth elsewhere that the perpetrator would have carried the body to the swamp.

Harry Frost, an eleven-year-old boy residing in the vicinity, said that he saw a pair of child's button shoes at the side of the road on Monday near the place, but that they have disappeared. The fact is established that the body was put in the swamp since Sunday night. There was a heavy rain during that evening, followed by a high wind, but the white suit the boy wore was not soiled, and had not been wet.

The body was frozen so hard that an autopsy was impossible to-night.

The small amount of carbolic acid used led the police to believe that other poison had been used first, but this cannot be ascertained, however, until to-morrow.

Chief Hyatt believes that the boy was taken to the swamp in an automobile from the east or south. One mark which may lead to the boy's identity is an anchor and star embroidered with light yellow silk in the front of the suit. The child had very light brown, straight hair, and blue eyes.

The police believe the child was of wealthy parentage. Kidnapping or desiring to get rid of the child through revenge or to remove the possibility of an inheritance are suggested as the motives.

LONG BATTLE WITH ICE.

Three Mail Carriers Rescued After a Terrible Experience.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 11.—After battling for hours with shifting ice, William Ermich, William Otto, and Frank Robel, mail carriers from Marblehead, were picked up to-day three miles east of Kelly's Island.

They owe their lives to William Griesser, who has charge of the Marblehead Life-Saving Station. Griesser, who had enlisted the aid of volunteers, fought against the running ice until he, too, was almost exhausted and in danger of losing his life.

The three rescued men left Kelly's Island yesterday for the mainland at Marblehead. They carried the mail and some small articles of commerce. Dragging their boat on the shore ice, they began their journey.

Before they had proceeded far they encountered running ice.

Griesser has always taken interest in the island mail carriers. He was informed of the time when the carriers left Kelly's Island, and when hour after hour passed and they did not arrive at Marblehead he grew anxious. Late in the afternoon he made up his mind to act. He had none of the crew of the life-saving station to help him, since the station had been closed for more than a month and the men were off duty.

Calling for volunteers, in a short time he was at the head of a rescue expedition. For hours the life savers struggled, while the mail carriers, now almost unconscious, fought on. After a battle which lasted until early this morning all were landed safely at Marblehead.

Herr Puricelli's Heir May One Day Be Imperial Chancellor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 11. — Comparatively unknown outside his immediate neighborhood, Commercial Councillor Puricelli of Bingen-on-the-Rhine was buried to-day. He leaves a fortune of $50,000,000, mostly in vast vineyards and forests.

The bulk of the fortune will be inherited by a distant relative, Baron von Schorlemer, who is new Prussian Minister of Agriculture and is said to be a favorite with the Kaiser for the Imperial Chancellorship in the future.

One touching feature of Herr Puricelli's funeral was the participation in the procession to the graveyard of hundreds of inmates of the asylum for the blind, which he founded.

BOSTON IGNORES ROOSEVELT

None Recognizes Him as He Goes to Attend Harvard Overseers' Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—Not one in the throng in State Street recognized Col. Roosevelt as he left a cab to-day to attend the annual meeting of the Board of Overseers of Harvard College.

The former President opened the door of the vehicle himself, and after he had paid the driver looked about for a moment and entered the building. The Colonel said after the meeting that he hoped, prayed, and believed that Henry Cabot Lodge would be returned to the Senate.

NOT DEAD, BUT LOST OFFICE.

Untimely Report About Buffalo Man Diverts His Place to Another.

ALBANY, Jan. 11.—When the name of Napoleon Mosher of Buffalo appeared on the slate laid before the Democratic Assembly caucus last week for second assistant doorkeeper, it developed that nobody there knew him. Finally it was reported that Napoleon Mosher was dead, and the legislator who proposed him had to stand considerable chaffing.

Now Napoleon Mosher has appeared here and proclaimed himself alive and able to act as doorkeeper. But the Assembly gave the place to another Erie County man, Edward Murphy.

Mr. Mosher may be given some other place if it is not too late.

COLLEGE VERSUS MARRIAGE.

Fewer Than a Third of the Wellesley Graduates Have Become Wives.

Special to The New York Times.

WELLESLEY, Mass., Jan. 11.—In the Wellesley College Alumnae Register, just issued, the remarkable fact is brought out that fewer than one-third of the alumnae have married.

The graduates of the college number 3,849, of whom 1,173 have married; 37 have become physicians. The degree of Master of Arts has been awarded to 143 graduates, while 40 have received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy; 125 have died.

GRACE'S AEROPLANE FOUND.

Wreckage of American's Machine Washed Up on Belgian Coast.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 11. — The Chronique says that the wreckage of Cecil Grace's aeroplane has been washed up on the beach at Mariakerke, Belgium.

An aviator's cap and glasses, supposed to have belonged to Cecil Grace, were picked up in the North Sea off Mariakerke about a week ago.

Grace has not been seen or heard from since Dec. 22, when he was lost while attempting (in an effort to gain the Michelin Cup) to cross the English Channel from Calais to Dover, after a successful crossing in the opposite direction. It is believed that he lost his way in the fog and dropped into the North Sea. He had been strongly urged not to undertake the return trip.

Mr. Grace was a nephew of the late ex-Mayor Grace of New York.

MURPHY OPENLY FIGHTS SHEPARD

In Spite of Gaynor, Who Again Indorses Brooklyn Man, He Leads Albany Opposition.

ASSERTS HE SOUGHT MAYOR

Democratic Leaders Dine with Sheehan—All Talk Points to Him as the Next Senator.

DIX TRICKED, IT IS SAID

Mayor Declares It Is Time to Stop Sending Lobbyists and Corruptionists to the Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 11.—Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy reached the capital to-night with his usual retinue of followers. He cracked the whip, and presto! all the talk of the Democratic politicians and legislators about the corridors of the Ten Eyck Hotal, where Mr. Murphy holds court, began to point toward the election of William F. Sheehan as United States Senator to succeed Chauncey M. Depew.

To be sure, Mr. Murphy has not as yet declared openly for Mr. Sheehan, and there are some who look for a compromise candidate at the eleventh hour. But in a statement made to a number of newspaper correspondents immediately upon his arrival at the capital to-night the Tammany boss declared in so many words that Edward M. Shepard, Mr. Sheehan's leading rival in the Senatorial race, should be regarded out of the running for good.

A few minutes later word came from the Tammany leader to the newspaper men to the effect that he wished to have it understood that he had waited until train time for Mayor Gaynor to discuss the situation with him before departing, but that the Mayor had not appeared at the City Hall in time for the desired interview.

This was amplified later by the information that Mr. Murphy in a letter handed to Secretary Adamson had apprised the Mayor that he had been unable to find any Shepard sentiment among the Tammany district leaders, and he had seen them all. Further than this the letter did not go.

Mr. Murphy's anxiety to have this piece of information reach the public was not understood until later, when a friend of Mr. Shepard declared in the most positive manner that in declaring against Mr. Shepard as he did the Tammany leader had violated an understanding he had both with Mayor Gaynor and Gov. Dix.

"The understanding with Gov. Dix in particular," said this informant, "was ironclad and to the effect that the Governor should be consulted before Mr. Murphy took any stand on the question of who should be Senator Depew's successor."

Diners at the Ten Eyck.

To-night Mr. Murphy and his cronies, together with John H. McCooey, the Democratic leader of Brooklyn, who recently declared for Shepard; Joseph Cassidy, the Democratic leader of Queens; and Democratic State Chairman Winfield A. Huppuch, took dinner at a table where apparently Mr. Sheehan presided as host. At an hour when the dining room at the Hotel Ten Eyck was cleared of all other diners Mr. Sheehan and his company still remained at the table, while to secure absolute privacy waiters placed screens in front of the glass partition through which a view could be obtained of the dining rooms by loiterers in the lobby. When they finally left the table, toward 10 o'clock, none of the party would speak of the subjects discussed or tell whether they had reached any conclusion.

A copy of Mayor Gaynor's letter, indorsing Mr. Shepard, was shown to Mr. Murphy when he came out from dinner.

"A letter from the Mayor, eh?" said the Tammany leader with every show of interest. "Let me see it."

He adjusted his spectacles and read the letter with its reference to "lobbyists and political corruptionists," as representatives of this State in the Senate, and the necessity for a change, with knit brows.

Mr. Sheehan stood by at the time. After he had read the Mayor's communication to Senator Loomis, he thrust the letter abruptly into the hand of the reporter from whom he had received it, and said:

"So that is the Mayor's letter—huh." He would make no comment on its contents, nor would he say what the members of the dinner party had talked about.

Some members of the party admitted that the Senatorial contest has been mentioned casually, but Mr. Sheehan was not willing to admit even that.

Meantime the Shepard forces, headed by Forest, Fish, and Game Commissioner Thomas Mott Osborne, were preparing to lead to the bitter end the fight which even by them seems to be regarded as a forlorn hope. Not a few of Mr. Shepard's friends here to-night are voicing their regret and resentment that Gov. Dix, who is known by his friends to favor the election of Mr. Shepard, had not taken advantage of the opportunities his high position afforded to make sure this election. On every hand the assertion is made that if Gov. Dix had even suggested that he preferred to see Mr. Shepard elected to succeed Senator Depew, Boss Murphy would not have assumed the hostile attitude toward Mr. Shepard that his statement to-night indicates.

To-night the feeling at the Capitol is that the Tammany leader's stand will precipitate a fight in the Democratic organization, and that it will tend to alienate the independent element, by the assistance of which alone the victory of last Fall was rendered possible.

The canvass made by Mr. Osborne of the general committeemen of the Democratic League, made up largely of Democrats who had found Murphyism and Connerism too much for them, revealed an overwhelming sentiment for the election of Mr. Shepard. Mr. Osborne wrote all the 150 members of the general committee, each representing one of the 150 Assembly districts in the State. More than 90 per cent. of them came out for Mr. Shepard, with permission to quote their letters, while the remaining 10 per cent. were divided between the other candidates, Mr. Sheehan receiving mention in only two of the letters.

Mr. Osborne, after declaring that the fight for Mr. Shepard would surely be taken into the caucus late this evening, authorized the following statement on behalf of the men who have been actively advocating the election of Mr. Shepard:

Shepard Men's Statement.

With reference to the statements attributed to Mr. Charles F. Murphy to the effect that the Democratic organization in the County of New York is opposed to Mr. Shepard for Senator and that consequently he is eliminated as a candidate so far as New York County is concerned, the Shepard Committee has reason to believe though it is difficult to believe of a politician as experienced and as astute as Mr. Murphy, that this announcement was made without previous conference with the head of his party in the State, the Democratic Governor of New York.

Though Mr. Murphy, as head of his county organization, may be the best judge of the wish and determination of that body as to its rejection of a candidate for this high office, recommended by the adjoining county, in which the candidate resides, it would not seem that his position is one to justify such a summary and final announcement, even for his own county, of the elimination of the candidate publicly proposed and earnestly supported by the Democratic Mayor of his own city.

The Tammany leader, powerful as he is, does not yet, despite Republican predictions, speak for the whole State, nor is his announcement decisive of the contest.

The County of New York, by and of itself, does not represent or control a majority of the Democratic legislators who are to vote for Senator, and Mr. Murphy's declaration in curt disregard of the Democratic Mayor and without prior conference with the Democratic Governor, may not prove acceptable to the majority of Democratic legislators of the State as sounr party policy, or proper party decorum. Other counties and other leaders are yet to be heard from, and it may be that they are not all as indifferent as Mr. Murphy seems to be to the votes of those who have not voted the Democratic ticket before the last election.

Democrats whose regularity and constancy are beyond question are supporting Mr. Shepard in great numbers, and they resent any imputation upon their political fidelity. But they believe that such fidelity does not require them to ignore the value of enlarging the party by attracting to it those who have not heretofore voted with it. The policy of repelling such voters has been pursued for too many years, with the result of keeping the party out of power. Its return to power has been effected and should be continued by the policy of attracting support, which is offered by the candidacy of Mr. Shepard more than by that of any other candidate yet suggested.

If, however, such a policy of repulsion is to be adopted, it should not have been announced without full and frank conference with the two principal Democrats in responsible official positions, the Mayor of the City of New York and the Governor of the State of New York. The end is not yet.

William F. Sheehan preceded Mr. Murphy to Albany, but kept to his apartments at the hotel until after the Tammany leader's arrival. Then he suddenly made his appearance in the hotel lobby, smiling and serene.

He would make no statement for publication, but to his friends he expressed the greatest assurance that he would be elected to succeed Senator Depew, and thus realize a dream which he has nourished for twenty long years, or practically since he entered public life.

Mr. Murphy's Interview.

Mr. Murphy reached Albany shortly after 6 o'clock this evening. With him came his lieutenant, Daniel F. Cohalan, and Secretary Thomas F. Smith of Tammany Hall. J. Sergeant Cram, on the other hand, was missing. Leader McCooey of Brooklyn came up on the train that brought the Tammany chieftain. Mr. Cassidy of Queens had spent the day at the Capitol hunting patronage. News of the statement made by Mr. Murphy before he left New York had preceded him.

"It is understood, Mr. Murphy, that you have declared against Mr. Shepard on the ground that the organization is opposed to him," was the first question asked him.

"Well, there is not the slightest sentiment for Mr. Shepard among the Tammany district leaders, and if the organization is against him I must be," was his reply.

"Does that eliminate Mr. Shepard as a candidate for United States Senator?"

"As far as the organization is concerned, it lets Mr. Shepard out," said Mr. Murphy.

"There is absolutely no sentiment for Mr. Shepard, none at all among the Democrats," Mr. Murphy added with much spirit. "His only friends and advocates are men who generally vote the Republican ticket and only occasionally vote for a Democrat."

"Are you for William F. Sheehan," Mr. Murphy was next asked.

"We haven't come to that yet," said the Tammany chieftain.

"The friends of Mr. Shepard declare that they are going to fight on; won't that mean trouble?" asked one of the newspaper men.

"Fight? Whom? Where?" asked the Tammany leader. "We are not going to fight anybody, so I don't see where there will be any trouble."

"Mr. Murphy, it has been reported from New York that you said there in reply to a question that if Mayor Gaynor wanted to fight he knew where to find you," suggested one of the correspondents.

"There is absolutely no truth to that statement; I did not say that. The question was never asked," said Mr. Murphy.

After this interview Mr. Murphy and his followers retired to their apartments to prepare for dinner.

Shortly after Tammany Leader Murphy had made his statement brushing aside the candidacy of Mr. Shepard Joseph Cassidy, the Democratic leader in Queens, came out in an interview declaring that the members of the Legislature from that borough would under no circumstances vote for Shepard.

"For whom will they vote?" Mr. Cassidy was asked.

"The members from Queens," said Mr. Cassidy with an air of absolute authority, strikingly in contrast with the hesitant manner which legislators from that boss-ridden borough use when questioned on the Senatorship, "the members from Queens will vote as Tammany wants them to vote."

John H. McCooey, before he joined the dinner company at Mr. Sheehan's table, was asked by a TIMES correspondent whether there had been a change in his attitude on the Senatorship question.

McCooey Still For Shepard.

"No," said Mr. McCooey, "I can only reiterate what I said yesterday, that I am for Shepard and have been for him from the start."

"That mean that the Brooklyn Democrats in the Legislature will vote for Mr. Shepard?" Mr. McCooey was asked.

"I do not assume to speak for them, they are free agents," said Mr. McCooey.

One of the legislators from Kings said later that while no caucus action had been taken, the Democratic members from Kings without doubt would vote as a unit for Mr. Shepard on the first ballot.

Gov. Dix, when he received the newspaper correspondents this afternoon, was questioned regarding his attitude on the Senatorial contest. This was before the arrival of Mr. Murphy.

"My position has been one of non-interference with the Legislature," said the Governor. "It would be assumption on my part to express myself in favor of any one candidate."

"Word has come from New York that Mr. Murphy has come out in favor of William F. Sheehan," the Governor was told.

"Mr. Murphy has a perfect right to do so as an individual," said the Governor. "But nothing has occurred, nor could anything occur, to bring about any change in my attitude."

"Are you a member of the Democratic League?" the Governor was asked.

"I am unless my election to office should disqualify me for membership," was his reply. "But I will say that in the canvass made by Mr. Osborne and his friends no communication was sent to me asking my opinion, and I have expressed none."

Chairman Huppuch said: "It would never do for me to express an opinion; I am in too delicate a position. No, I must not be dragged into this. I am so close to the Governor politically, socially, and in business that what I may say might be regarded as reflecting his attitude."

"Well, friends of Gov. Dix declare that he favors the election of Mr. Shepard," said THE TIMES correspondent.

"The Governor has no preference in the matter," said the State Chairman.

Some friends of Mr. Murphy admitted to-night that there might be conditions to-morrow to change the outlook which to-night points so emphatically toward Mr. Sheehan's election. Daniel F. Cohalan and Justice James W. Gerard are mentioned as compromise candidates. They professed to be greatly perturbed over the attitude of Mayor Gaynor as reflected in his letter, a copy of which was telegraphed to the Capitol to-night.

"But I doubt," said one of these friends, "whether the boss will back down this time as he did in connection with the Grady matter. He does not as a rule get cold feet very easily after he once has made up his mind. There are things we want from Mayor Gaynor, of course; there is the place at the head of the Ashokan Dam project, for instance. But it is my opinion that Murphy will stick it out."

Another man expressed the opinion that Murphy had taken the bit in his teeth and that he would permit nothing to swerve him from his course.

Many Delayed Appointments.

It was the general opinion among those familiar with what has been going on in the Tammany camp in connection with the Senatorial contest that Mr. Murphy would settle the matter in his own way, and that while it might not be Sheehan it would be some one whose selection would be even more pleasing to the Tammany chieftain and his flock. There is no doubt that Mr. Murphy will command the necessary votes.

An interesting feature in connection with the present situation is the fact that contrary to precedent the committee assignments in the Legislature will not be announced at the session to-morrow night. There are only two occasions in the forty years when precedent has been set aside—in 1869 and in 1881—and in both years there was a Senatorial contest on. Chairmanships of important working committees of the Legislature are much sought after by legislators, and it is regarded here as more than a coincidence that the committee designations are not to be announced this year until after the Senatorial contest has been settled.

It is also a fact, and one which is regarded as of peculiar significance in view of the present situation, that many appointments in the Controller's, State Engineer's, and State Treasurer's department—these officials being counted very close to Mr. Murphy—have been deferred much beyond the usual harvest season for political plums.

Some evil-minded persons are insisting that the Chairmanships of legislative committees and good jobs in certain State departments are being used as bait with which to catch votes in the fight against the election of Edward M. Shepard for United States Senator.

The Senatorial fight, unless settled before that time, will come to a head in the joint Democratic caucus which is scheduled for next Monday night. Fifty-eight votes will be a majority in the caucus. The friends of Mr. Sheehan have already arranged that Dr. Robert P. Bush of Elmira, a former Speaker, who served with Mr. Sheehan when he was a member of the Assembly, shall present his name to the caucus, and that his nomination shall be seconded by Assemblyman Edward D. Jackson of Erie, who knew Mr. Sheehan when he was a political boss in Buffalo and even before the days of his political prominence.

Mr. Osborne said late to-night that it had not been decided whether the friends of Mr. Shepard in the Legislature would enter the caucus at all. The matter is to be discussed at a conference to-morrow after the legislators have arrived at the Capitol for the evening session.

GAYNOR INDORSES SHEPARD.

Says State Has for 20 Years Been Represented in Senate by Lobbyists.

It was the general impression among the leaders of the local Democratic organization who had not gone to Albany last night that the United States Senatorship question was practically settled, and that William F. Sheehan would be the man to succeed Chauncey M. Depew. Just before taking a train for the capital yesterday afternoon Leader Murphy of Tammany Hall made his first definite statement on the matter in the shape of a declaration against Edward M. Shepard.

"The leaders of the organization are against Mr. Shepard," said he, "and I therefore have to be."

"What about Sheehan?" he was asked.

"That's another matter, and will have to be settled at Albany," he replied.

Daniel F. Cohalan and Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, and several other leaders of the organization went with Mr. Murphy. One of the most important of them said to a TIMES reporter: "It's all over. It will be Sheehan, much as the boss dislikes to give him the opportunity to undermine him and build up a machine of his own. Pressure has been brought to bear."

John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Kings County, and a large part of the legislative delegation from Brooklyn went on the same train with Mr. Murphy. Mr. McCooey said that was still for Mr. Shepard but he would not speculate on the result of the caucus. Several of the individual Brooklyn Senators and Assemblymen expressed their personal preference for Mr. Shepard, but when told of Mr. Murphy's statement were not optimistic concerning his chances.

William Church Osborn, Gov. Dix's legal adviser, and Montgomery Hare, the leaders of the Shepard movement, also went to Albany yesterday. They outwardly appeared as confident as ever.

It is believed that Mayor Gaynor has given up all hope of Mr. Shepard's election, although he sent the following letter to Senator Loomis of Buffalo last night:

> CITY OF NEW YORK,
> Office of the Mayor.
> Jan. 11, 1911.
>
> Dear Senator Loomis: I regret that I was not at the City Hall when you called to see me. I can only say that I am heartily in favor of the election of Edward M. Shepard as Senator. He stands for everything which is best in politics. His election would bring great credit on the State of New York. During a generation the State of New York has been represented in the United States Senate by men who were mere lobbyists from their youth up, or corruptionists in politics. We now have the opportunity to set our face against that. Will we do it? There never was a plainer case, and if it be evaded the bad effect thereof will long survive. Very truly yours,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.
>
> The Hon. FRANK M. LOOMIS, Senate Chamber, Albany, N. Y.

Mr. Loomis is a Shepard man. He called at City Hall last week to see the Mayor while the latter was out.

POMERENE FOR TARIFF DELAY.

Thinks General Revision Should Wait on Report of Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 11.—The election of Atlee Pomerene as United States Senator was formally declared at a joint session of the Senate and House to-day. In an address to the Assembly Senator Pomerene condemned President Taft for approving tariff schedules which, according to his own admission, were indefensible.

"I do not believe that it would be wise for Congress to make a general revision of the tariff now," he said. "It is admitted that the present law is a disappointment to Republicans and Democrats alike. Some of the schedules, notably those pertaining to woolen and cotton manufactures, are too high, but a general revision of the tariff should await a report to be made by a real tariff commission.

"I deny the right of the Steel Trust of Pennsylvania to join hands with the Pottery Trust of New Jersey, and with the Cotton Trust and Woolen Trust of New England, and with the Lumber Trust of the Northwest, and with the Sugar Trust, and prepare schedules to suit themselves and thereby levy unjust tribute upon the vast army of American consumers."

He declared for popular election of Senators.

VOTE ON TENNESSEE SENATOR.

Fusionists Force Joint Session, McMillin and Sanders, Rep., in Lead.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 11.—The Legislature to-day met in joint convention and took a vote on the question of who shall be United States Senator from Tennessee to succeed James Frazier, Democrat. The vote resulted: Benton McMillin, Democrat, 57; Newell Sanders, Republican, 32; G. T. Fitzhugh, Fusionist, 22; James B. Frazier, Fusionist, 18; Luke E. Wright, 2. Gen. Wright had not been nominated, but got two votes from his home delegation, that of Shelby County.

The vote was taken with the Democratic Senators still questioning its legality. The only man nominated by the Democrats was McMillin, Gen. Luke Wright being held in reserve.

The ballot was not especially significant, and is believed to have no bearing on the result.

There is more Democratic talk to-night of electing Hooper if a Democrat cannot win, and also talk of several others considered in the dark-horse class. Among the latter is Speaker Nat Baxter of the Senate, a regular Democrat, but with no political past and on good terms with the men of all parties in his house.

DESTROYERS IN COLLISION.

Paul Jones Rams Sister Ship in Mimic War Tactics Upon Pacific.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Jan. 11.—The torpedo boat destroyer Paul Jones rammed and nearly sank her sister ship, the Stewart, during mimic war tactics in the Santa Barbara channel late last night. The steamer's bow was cut almost off, the water-tight compartments alone saving the little vessel from sinking.

A night attack was made on the cruisers California and South Dakota by nine torpedo boat destroyers, representing the enemy. The cruiser searchlights played incessantly on the channel, finally picking up the Paul Jones, commanded by Lieut. Frank McCommon.

The Paul Jones, thus found by the light, was eliminated by the rules of the mimic war game and sought to cover the advance of the Stewart, commanded by Lieut. William P. Little. Her turn was too short, however, and she crashed into the Stewart.

Perfect order prevailed among the crew, and the Stewart proceeded to anchor under her own power. The Paul Jones was only slightly injured by the collision, which ended the war tactics. The cruisers are under the command of Rear Admiral Chauncey P. Thomas.

SEEKS TO CAPITALIZE LEASED LINE ASSETS

Purpose of the Metropolitan Reorganization Plan Revealed at Public Hearing.

WOULD REDUCE SECURITIES

Bondholders' Committee Hopes to Bring Those Outstanding from $136,000,000 Down to $96,305,000.

The Bondholders' Committee of the Metropolitan Street Railroad, which is charged with the reorganization of that property, began hearing yesterday before the Public Service Commission on the reorganization plan submitted by this committee a fortnight ago. This plan involved a reduction from $136,000,000 securities outstanding against the Metropolitan system as now operated, excluding the Metropolitan Securities Company stock, which does not figure in the plan, to $96,305,000 proposed to be issued by the adjustment of $104,500,000 old securities into $64,850,000, new ones.

While only a start was made in presenting the case of the bondholders, the hearing made it evident that the committee, which is represented by Charles F. Mathewson and Joseph P. Cotton, Jr., would come into conflict with the commission's ideas of its jurisdiction in reorganizations on much the same lines as the Third Avenue Railroad Reorganization Committee. Mr. Mathewson, who made the opening address, stated that his committee did not waive any rights that it might have under Sections 9 and 10 of the Stock Corporation law, which are the sections on which the Third Avenue reorganizers are depending to overthrow the decision of the commission's rejection of their plan.

On the strength of these sections the bondholders of both systems are seeking to limit the power of the commission, practically, to determine whether the existing securities are legally issued, whether the property came legally into the hands of the reorganizers, and whether it is proposed to issue in the reorganization more securities than were previously outstanding. The commission, on the other hand, contends that under the Public Service Commission law it has full power to inquire into the minutest details of the reorganization plan, and in the Third Avenue case has held among other things that the securities proposed to be issued in the reorganization must bear a definite relation to the value of the property and must be determined with regard for its earning capacity.

This matter of earning capacity does not figure in the plan which the Metropolitan bondholders have presented to the Public Service Commission. The preliminary statement made by Mr. Matthewson yesterday had to do mainly with property values subject, according to his views, to capitalization, and it was learned that the extent of the proof which the bondholders now think of offering on the matter of earnings will be the opinion of some competent witness that the present earnings are sufficient to support the proposed fixed charge of $470,000 a year.

Mr. Mathewson pointed to the fact that this new fixed charge represented a reduction from $1,415,910 in bonded interest alone, and a reduction of $4,850,000, if the rental of 7 per cent. on the $52,000,000 Metropolitan Street Railway stock is considered. For this stock it is proposed, subject to assessment of not more than $10,000,000, or $17.67 a share, to issue $14,000,000 new stock, giving new income bonds at par for the assessment paid. To the holders of the present $12,500,000 5 per cent. bonds, it is proposed to give $6,250,000 in new 4 per cent. bonds for their principal, and $2,116,969 accrued interest, along with $12,500,000 of the new adjustment bonds.

The holders of $16,600,000 present 4 per cent. bonds get $4,150,000 of the new 4s for their principal and accrued interest, along with $12,453,000 of the new adjustment bonds; while tort claimants are to receive $937,000 of the new 4 per cent. bonds and $1,875,000 of the new adjustment bonds. These latter are to be of the income variety—that is, interest will be paid on them as earned.

In the course of provision for these classes of security holders, along with bondholders of the Central Crosstown and Metropolitan Crosstown Roads, the Reorganization Committee proposes to issue $11,768,000 of the new 4 per cent. mortgage bonds, $38,933,400 of the new adjustment income bonds, and $14,150,000 stock, making a total of $64,851,500 new securities, to which is added $31,454,000 underlying securities of the system remaining undisturbed. This makes the grand total of $96,305,500, which the plan proposes to leave against the Metropolitan system.

In support of these securities Mr. Mathewson declared his committee would prove by the testimony of experts $83,000,000 of real estate values, to which he proposed to add what he termed "development value," being an estimate of 20 to 25 per cent. of the cost of construction and amounting to about $20,000,000—a total of $101,790,000 as a starter. Then he put in $5,000,000 "reorganization assets," including the value of bonds of the Central Park, North & East River Road, which the Metropolitan reorganizers are claiming in litigation now pending, and 3,000 shares of the stock of that company; a "net investment in superseded property," being the cost of past changes from horse car operation to cable and from that to electric operation, amounting to $13,000,000, and an item which he termed "going concern value," equivalent to 20 per cent. on the value of the physical property, and putting in $20,000,000 more. In the aggregate Mr. Mathewson by these processes figured out total value subject, as he said, to capitalization amounting to about $140,000,000 in the Metropolitan property.

However, as soon as he started with his second witness to prove real estate values, he ran up against a snag. The witnesses, William H. Wheelock of the real estate firm of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co., undertook to give his estimates of the value of certain property belonging to the Sixth Avenue Railroad, which the Metropolitan operates under a 999-year lease. Oliver C. Semple, attorney for the commission, at once inquired if it were proposed to take such values as a basis for the new capitalization, and on receiving an affirmative answer, entered a vigorous objection on the ground that if the Metropolitan were allowed to issue securities against the property value in its leased lines, and then broke any lease so treated as it has broken leases like the Third and the Second Avenue lines, these securities would be "left up in the air" when the stockholders of the leased line took back their property.

Commissioner Maltbie, who presided, reserved his ruling, but admitted the testimony for the purpose of convenience, and there the matter rested yesterday, while Mr. Wheelock testified by various other realty values.

The hearing will be continued.

PLEAS FOR TARIFF BOARD.

Beveridge and Others Address National Association at Capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Senator Albert J. Beveridge stirred the convention of the National Tariff Commission Association to great enthusiasm at its opening session to-day when he declared that while victory for the permanent Tariff Commission idea already was in sight, a greater victory—the triumph of organized American public opinion—would be marked by the creation of the commission.

He said that the American people had a right to demand of Congress the establishment of a commission that would command the "same dignity and have the same adequacy of powers as the Interstate Commerce Commission." He predicted that the present session of Congress would see the enactment of tariff commission legislation, but he advised the convention to insist through its representatives in Congress on a non-partisan, all-powerful commission.

H. F. Miles of Racine, Wis., of the National Association of Manufacturers, spoke on the attitude of the manufacturing interests of the country toward the tariff commission movement. He declared that all business men of every political and economic belief were in support of the idea.

Prof. Henry C. Emery, Chairman of the present Tariff Board, addressed the convention, presenting a plea for the "immortality of the commission."

Representative Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts concluded the day's session with an address on the importance of non-partisan treatment of the tariff commission idea.

A permanent Tariff Board in the Treasury Department, non-partisan in character and with power to make all necessary investigation of tariff data and facts, is proposed in a bill introduced to-day by Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania, ranking Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee of the House. The bill represents the views of a number of members of the committee who are not entirely in sympathy with the bill recently offered by Representative Longworth of Ohio. Mr. Dalzell conferred at length with the President before offering the measure.

The Dalzell bill virtually would continue the present tariff board. It authorizes a board of three members to be appointed by the President. Its reports are to be made to the President, the Ways and Means Committee of the House, or the Finance Committee of the Senate whenever called for.

PARSONS SUCCEEDS TRAIN.

Attorney General Names Deputy in Queens Graft Prosecution.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Attorney General Thomas Carmody to-day formally took charge of the prosecution of the alleged graft cases in the Borough of Queens, detailing Deputy Attorney General James A. Parsons of the Albany office to look after the matter. Mr. Parsons, who went to New York to-day, will succeed Arthur C. Train, who was appointed a special deputy by Attorney General O'Malley last year, when Gov. Hughes asked the Law Department of the State to take charge of the prosecution.

Mr. Carmody announced on Monday that Mr. Train's designation had been revoked, principally because he had charged the State at the rate of $100 a day for his services. It was Mr. Carmody's idea that the interests of justice could be met without this expense.

To-day he instructed District Attorney Dewitt of Queens County to proceed with the prosecution of the cases in which indictments have been found and to cooperate with the Deputy Attorney General. Mr. Carmody declared that politics had nothing to do with the change.

Three packing cases filled with documents connected with the graft investigation were shipped to the Attorney General in Albany from Long Island City yesterday. Special Deputy Attorney General Arthur C. Train superintended the shipment, which was in accordance with the orders of Mr. Carmody. He placed $10,000 insurance on the parcels, remarking to the expressman who questioned him that the exhibits were "worth about $1,000,000 to the people of Queens."

Mr. Train had a number of the more important documents photographed before he committed them to the expressman's care, and the cases in which they were shipped were wired and cross-wired, and then the seal of the express company was put on the boxes in several places.

BROTHER'S KISS FATAL.

Given to Sister, It Causes Her Death of Diphtheria.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 11.—A kiss given to her brother, John Bonn, while he was dying from diphtheria at his home in Oakland, resulted in the death of Mrs. Marie Cooper, 20 years old, a bride, at her home in Newcastle, Penn., and about the same hour another brother, George Bonn, 23 years old, of 34 Zulema Street, Oakland, a student of medicine at the University of Vermont, who came home to attend the funeral of a younger brother, died at the family residence from an attack of scarlet fever. Both died late Monday night, and were buried to-day.

The three deaths in the family of John Bonn have caused much sympathy for the stricken mother and father, who are fighting to save two other children who are suffering from scarlet fever.

have thrust upon his attention when he does return will be the necessity of reform in depositing city funds in banks and trust companies. Controller Prendergast, at the meeting of the Banking Commission on Tuesday, pointed out to the Mayor the need of having the commission decide on which institution shall receive the city money, and the Mayor is said to have agreed to this change.

Since the first of the year about $3,000,000 has been added to the amount of city money on deposit in various institutions. The amount now is $21,296,386. Large sums which were placed in certain banks and trust companies have been withdrawn and placed in others. For instance, $500,000 more was placed in the Bankers' Trust Company and $1,500,000 more in the Guaranty Trust Company.

HYDE NOT IN CANADA.

Five Towns in Northwest Would Like to See Him About Gas Franchises.

Special to The New York Times.

BRANDON, Manitoba, Jan. 11.—Charles H. Hyde, New York City Chamberlain, is Director of the Brandon Gas Company, but no definite information can be obtained regarding his present whereabouts. It is reported that he was here recently, but this is denied in some quarters. George Harper, manager of the gas concern, says Mr. Hyde has never been in Brandon in his life, and that there is nothing unusual in his being away, as it is one of his habits to leave his usual haunts for weeks at a time, leaving no address.

Special to The New York Times.

SASKATOON, Jan. 11.—An American syndicate in which Charles H. Hyde of New York is interested, is about to make a proposal to this city for a franchise, and it is understood that the City Council would be approached by Mr. Hyde himself, but so far he has not arrived, neither can any one be found who knows where he is.

Special to The New York Times.

EDMONTON, Alberta, Jan. 11.—A private message from Brandon received here shortly after Christmas said that Charles H. Hyde would be here early in January regarding a gas franchise. So far he has not approached the council personally and a canvass of the hotels fails to locate him.

REGINA, Saskatchewan, Jan. 11.—Charles H. Hyde of New York is expected here this month regarding a gas franchise he is anxious to get. So far he has not arrived.

CALGARY, Alberta, Jan. 11.—An American syndicate in which Charles H. Hyde and other New Yorkers are interested has approached the City Council by letter regarding a franchise here. So far Mr. Hyde has not appeared, although he is expected.

TWO BIG STRIKES BEGIN IN PORTUGAL

Railway Men Throughout the Country and Shop Clerks in Lisbon Stop Work.

METAL WORKERS ALSO OUT

Trains from Spain Unable to Cross Frontier — Strikers Ask Spanish Railroad Men to Help Them.

LISBON, Jan. 11.—Antonio José Almeida, Minister of the Interior, resigned to-night, but later consented to retain his portfolio temporarily. His resignation followed an unsuccessful attempt which he made during the day to settle a strike of the railroad employes of Portugal.

The strike movement has been on foot for some months, and the Government had been endeavoring to arrange a plan for meeting such an emergency.

The walk-out of the railroad men was followed by a strike of the store clerks here, who quit work on the ground that the authorities had failed to bring about the promised reduction of their hours of labor. The metal workers to-night joined the other strikers. Thus the situation is rendered more complicated and difficult to handle.

To-night the railroads are completely tied up the length and breadth of Portugal, and the mails are being carried in automobiles. The strikers are orderly, but most determined in their attitude not to abate one jot in their demands.

The strike of the employes of the commercial houses has not made much progress, and many stores were open this evening. Manifestations were held for and against the strike, and in the course of a parade there were several demonstrations, and guards were compelled to disperse the crowds. Several arrests were made.

The Minister of the Interior spent the day in going about among the strikers, whom he urged to return to their tasks. No formal conferences were held between the Minister and the strikers, and to-night there was a demonstration in front of the building occupied by the Ministry.

Early in the day the strikers promised to continue international railroad communications, but later they decided to oppose the dispatch of trains across the border in order to prevent inconvenience to passengers by possible stalling.

All the troops have been confined to barracks.

MADRID, Jan. 11.—Señor Castillo, Spanish Minister of the Interior, announced to-day that the railroad strike was general throughout Portugal, and that the Spanish trains were unable to cross the frontier.

The Minister has requested the managers of railroads and has telegraphed to the Governors on the frontier to advise him instantly of any sign of attempts by Spaniards to co-operate with the Portuguese strikers. The Minister understands that the latter have sent telegraphic messages to the Spanish railroad employes appealing for help.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A rather anomalous state of affairs appears to exist in Portugal, according to a cablegram received in the State Department.

Notwithstanding the fact that a general strike has begun of all railroad employes, as well as of commercial employes in Lisbon, and that the Minister of the Interior has resigned, Mr. Lorillard, the American Chargé at Lisbon, reports that the country is quiet and perfect order exists.

Recent telegrams and letters from Lisbon have described a condition of affairs that is said to be threatening for the new republic, and one dispatch went so far as to assert that the existence of the republic "hung by a thread."

There have been a number of small strikes since the new Government came into power, most of them being due, it is said, to the extravagant promises that the new officials made on entering office and the subsequent discovery by the people that the promised millennium did not materialize.

Senhor Machado, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the most commonly quoted member of the Cabinet, recently stated that as a result of the series of strikes beginning in October many thousands of workmen were receiving increased wages. He expressed confidence that "the authorities had the situation well in hand," and was optimistic regarding the future of the republic.

Of the 1,800 miles of railroad in Portugal 672 miles are State owned.

ASKS LEGATEE TO BE FRUGAL

Mrs. Chastain Leaves Estae to Husband—Parting Shot at H. M. Tilford.

Mary Trotter Chastain, who died on Dec. 13, leaves the residue of her large estate to her husband, James Bruce Chastain, with the request that he conserve it as much as possible during his lifetime and that at his death he leave it toward "founding and maintaining a Home for Elderly Gentlewomen born in the State of Kentucky, such home to be situated at Lexington, Ky., and to be called the Kate Earle Memorial Home for Kentucky Gentlewomen." George Gordon Battle and E. Snowden Marshall are named as trustees of the home at the death of her husband. The will was filed yesterday with the Surrogate.

Her grandson is Hunt Tilford Dickinson, the boy who inherited $4,000,000 under the will of her brother, Wesley Hunt Tilford. She leaves him only $1,000, but with it goes her "great love and affection." In the light of his already large inheritance she thought it improper to carry out her original intention of leaving him her share in her mother's property. Her mother's will was the subject of some litigation, in which Mrs. Chastain was successful, and in her own will she refers to it with what might be called a parting shot at her brother, Henry M. Tilford.

"I had formerly intended to leave to my grandson all of such property as I received from my mother," the will reads, "but inasmuch as my mother in her last will left my share of the property in trust for my life and after my death for the benefit of my grandson, so that I did not have the power of bequeathing such share to my grandson under the provision of such will, I was unable, if the will had been sustained, to leave this property, as I had intended, to my said grandson.

"I have no feeling against my mother, however, on account of the provision of this will, because I feel sure she was influenced by my brother, Henry M. Tilford, as the will was made by her at his home three weeks after she had a stroke of paralysis. It was because of my feeling that he influenced her in making this will that I was willing to contest the provisions of the will in court. Otherwise I should have abided by the will of my mother."

Battleship Is Disabled.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The battleship Michigan of the Atlantic Fleet was partially disabled yesterday by losing her port propeller and tail shaft, according to wireless news received at the Navy Department to-day. She was detached and has started for Hampton Roads, to where the South Carolina, which met precisely the same kind of accident, also is proceeding.

SET HIS BED AFIRE.

Husband First Shot His Wife—Baby's Crib Ablaze—Father Dies.

Charles Vestring, a chauffeur, died yesterday afternoon in the German Hospital, Brooklyn. After having shot his wife, Agnes, he soaked his bed in kerosene, set it on fire, and lay down in the flames. As neighbors tried to rescue him, he put his mouth over a gas jet and inhaled the fumes before he could be dragged away. His wife will recover. The couple's three-year-old daughter, Violet, who slept in a crib beside her parents' bed, was rescued by neighbors.

For seven months Mr. and Mrs. Vestring and their little daughter had lived on the lower floor of a two-family brick house at 288 Forest Avenue, Ridgewood Heights, Queens. Mrs. Vestring was awakened yesterday morning by a feeling as though some had struck her sharply on the head. She found blood streaming down her face from a cut in her head, while her husband stood over her with a smoking revolver. Screaming, she fled from the room, climbed out of a kitchen window, scaled a four-foot picket fence dividing her rear yard from that of a neighbor, David Sinning, and aroused Mr. and Mrs. Sinning by rapping on their bedroom window. They took her in and wrapped blankets about her. Almost unconscious, Mrs. Vestring told the Sinnings what had happened, and Sinning ran to the Vestring apartments.

Others had reached there first, however. William F. Ruder, the owner of the building, alarmed at the sound of the revolver shot, had run downstairs from his living apartments on the second floor and had broken in the door of Vestring's bedroom. The chauffeur was lying on his bed, which was covered with a mattress stuffed with feathers. The feathers were on fire, and a strong odor of kerosene was in the room.

Ruder was joined in a moment by Robert Koch, a policeman attached to the Newtown precinct, who lives next door. The two men dragged Vestring from the blazing bed on to the floor. As they worked to extinguish his blazing nightclothes he twisted his head so as to place his mouth over a gas jet a few inches from the floor, which had been arranged to supply gas to a small stove. Without being noticed by the men Vestring turned on the gas. He had inhaled several full breaths before Policeman Koch saw the open jet and dragged Vestring from it.

Just then Sinning rushed in. The flames from the bed were scorching the crib in which little Violet lay, still peacefully sleeping, and the gas was still rushing into the room. Sinning picked up the child and carried her to his home.

Firemen and an ambulance were summoned. The firemen quickly extinguished the flames. One of them noticed the still open gas jet and turned it off. He was at a loss to explain why there had been no explosion. Ambulance Surgeon E. A. Spies found that Mrs. Vestring's condition was not serious, and left her at the Sinning home after bandaging her head. He said Vestring could not recover, but took him to the hospital, where he died five hours later.

"I do not know why my husband tried to harm me or himself," said Mrs. Vestring. "Formerly he had a prosperous liquor business not far from here. He sold it and became a chauffeur. During the recent strike he lost his place, and since then he has only been able to get odd jobs.

"I think he was despondent because he could not obtain steady employment. He had been promised a position to-day, however, and told me last night to be sure to wake him early. Charles and I never had a serious quarrel during the five years we have been married. When we retired last night he seemed particularly cheerful at the prospect of getting work again.

"About 3 o'clock this morning Violet, the baby, cried, and he got up and gave her a drink of water. Then he went into the kitchen and had something to eat, after which he went back to bed. The next thing I remember was being awakened by what I thought was some one tapping on my head. I thought I was dreaming until I saw Charles standing over me with a revolver, and an awful look on his face. Then I feared he would kill me and ran out of the room."

When informed yesterday afternoon that her husband had died Mrs. Vestring collapsed, and her condition became so serious that a physician was called in.

ATTACKS STANDARD OIL.

Independents Say It Cuts Rates to Kill New England Competition.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 11.—Standard Oil discrimination in New England is alleged by Thomas L. Hisgin, President of the Independent Petroleum Marketers' Association of the United States, in a letter to Attorney General Wickersham in Washington. He says:

> Dear Sir: The wholesale price of kerosene oil in Boston, Fitchburg, Springfield, Mass., Albany, N. Y., and vicinity is 5½ cents per gallon, which is below the cost of production and distribution and probably the lowest price of any market east of the oil producing States.
>
> The price of oil is the lowest in the history of New England. It remains approximately 8 cents wholesale in this section, where there is no competition, but 5¼ cents within the zone of Independent competition.
>
> I respectfuly request that the Department of Justice may investigate conditions in the oil trade in New England. You will find here discrimination of the same kind as was brought out in the case now pending in the United States courts. The price is lower than the average price during the period previously investigated by the Government.

Conditions in New England, he declares, justify immediate action by the National Government, adding that if desired he will undertake to assist in getting evidence.

WIFE SLAYER ROSE FREE.

Theatre Treasurer Pardoned on the Plea of His Mother-in-Law.

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Harry T. Rose, the former Treasurer of the Garrick Theatre in New York City, who was committed to Sing Sing Prison for nineteen years on Nov. 20, 1903, for killing his wife, was released to-day.

Rose, through the efforts of his mother-in-law, succeeded in interesting Gov. White in his case, and on the last day of the Governor's term he pardoned Rose. Warden Frost shook hands with him this morning, and Rose, unaccompanied, walked down the railroad tracks from the prison to the station and boarded a train for New York.

EXPORT VALUES FALL AWAY.

Breadstuffs, Meat, and Dairy Suffer but Cotton Figures Show Rise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A falling off in the value of exports of wheat, corn, flour, meat, and dairy products, food animals and mineral oils, and a decrease in quantity but increase in value of exports of cotton during 1910 is shown by the December export statement of breadstuffs, meat, and dairy products, food animals, cotton, and mineral oils, issued by the Bureau of Statistics to-day.

It shows that the value of wheat exported during the full calendar year was but $22,000,000, against $49,000,000 in 1909; of flour, $43,000,000, against $50,000,000 in the preceding year; of corn, slightly less than $24,000,000, against $24,250,000 in 1909; of meat and dairy products, $108,000,000, against $131,000,000 in 1909; of cattle, hogs, and sheep, $9,000,000, against $16,000,000 in the preceding year; of mineral oil, $38,500,000, against $99,750,000 in 1909; while cotton shows increase from $461,000,000 in 1909, to $530,000,000 in 1910, though the quantity exported in 1910 is slightly less than in 1909. Wheat, including that in form of flour, shows a falling off in exports of about 33 per cent. Comparing the value of 1910 with 1909, meat and dairy products show a falling off of about 18 per cent.; cattle, hogs, and sheep of about 44 per cent., and mineral oil of about 11 per cent.

STEEL MEN DECIDE NOT TO CUT PRICES

Low Enough Now, Says E. H. Gary After Dinner to 92 Leaders of the Industry.

INDEPENDENTS AGREE TO THIS

Business Outlook Bright and All Look Forward to a Busy Year at the Mills.

Ninety-two men prominent in the steel industry and representing independent interests as well as those of the United States Steel Corporation were the guests of Chairman E. H. Gary of the Steel Trust at a dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria last night, which lasted until 12:45 o'clock this morning. The ninety-two were those who in the afternoon had attended a conference in Mr. Gary's office, and as a result of their deliberations, both in the afternoon and evening, the expected reduction in the price of steel commodities, apparently, had been indefinitely postponed.

"You understand," said Mr. Gary as he left the hotel after the dinner, "we did not agree not to reduce prices. We are in no position to do that. We did agree, however, that prices are low now and ought not to be lowered."

Judge Gary's words were in explanation of a statement which was issued over his name at the conclusion of the dinner. This statement read:

"The dinner of the evening, given to the leading steel manufacturers of the country, was largely a social event. Many different topics were referred to by the various speakers. However, the subject of prices was more or less referred to, and without exception the opinions were opposed to any reduction. Figures were given tending to show that the present prices of all steel commodities are not only reasonable, but very low. I do not think any reductions are contemplated. As to business prospects, the consensus of opinion as expressed was very favorable."

Enough new orders are looked for to keep most of the mills busy.

The dinner was a protracted one, and among those outside the dining room the idea soon gained ground that considerable differences of opinion were being fought out over the cigars and coffee. Cards sent to Judge Gary requesting some statement from him as to the business discussed by the diners brought a reply that he would issue a statement at 10:30 o'clock. No statement was forthcoming, however, but instead a new promise of a statement at midnight. Again at midnight the waiters were disappointed, although word came from Judge Gary that he would have something to say at 1:30 o'clock.

When he came from the dinner, however, Judge Cary pooh-poohed the idea that there had been anything but harmony among the diners, as was expressed in his statement. He explained that there had been thirty or forty short speeches by as many different men, and that all this took time. Thus he accounted for the delay in bringing the dinner to a close.

He was asked if the newly elected President of the Steel Trust, James A. Farrell, had had anything to say regarding prices.

"Oh, no. Oh, no," remarked the Judge. "You know, he's a good soldier."

"Does that mean, Judge, that he knows how to obey orders?" Mr, Gary was asked.

The Chairman laughed heartily and slipped into an elevator, which carried him out of range of his questioners.

No list of speakers was given out, nor were the names of the ninety-two guests available. All of them, however, were among the most prominent of trust and independent manufacturers.

ACCUSES STEEL TRUST.

Controls the Railroads and That Is Why Rail Prices Stay High.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Louis D. Brandeis, attorney for the Traffic Committee of the seaboard shippers who are contesting the proposed freight rate increases in the trunk line territory, made his final argument to-day before the Inter-State Commerce Commission. He declared that the argument of the commission's own counsel, Frank D. Lyon, demonstrated that the railroads did not need the additional income of $27,000,000 a year which they ask, but that, assuming such a need, the trunk line railroads failed to show that any of them had applied to their operation the principles of scientific management.

Mr. Brandeis called attention to the fact that a saving of only 3 per cent. in their operating expenses would give the trunk line railroads the additional funds they ask in the proposed increases, and suggested that, instead of combining to increase rates, they should co-operate to reduce costs, at least to the extent of striving to realize the lowest unit cost attained by any of them under like conditions. He added:

"Why should not the railroads combine to oppose the United States Steel Corporation and other companies which keep at such high figures the price of steel rails and other products? Why not seek to secure to the American railroads as low prices as our steel companies make to foreign railroads?"

He then read the answer of President Brown of the New York Central to a question whether he ever had sought the co-operation of J. P. Morgan, a Director of the road, in obtaining a reduction in the price of steel rails. Mr. Brown had said:

"No. Of course Mr. Morgan does not sell steel rails. We do not buy them of him. We do not negotiate with him. We buy steel rails from the people in immediate charge."

Quotation was made from the testimony of President McCrea of the Pennsylvania that before filing the rate increases the railroad heads had not conferred on the subject of concerted action to obtain a reduction in prices, particularly in the price of steel.

"Of course the reason is obvious," Mr. Brandeis continued. "Mr. Morgan and the other men who control the steel industry exercise a similar control over the railroad world. Note how the Directors of the United States Steel Corporation and the other rail mills dominate the railroads. Those four steel companies together have sixty-five Directors. Forty of these sixty-five are Directors in the aggregate in fifty-two railroads, including most of the important systems. Some of these men are Directors in ten or more railroads. So the fifty-two railroads operate about 140,000 miles of line out of 236,378 in the entire country, including two-thirds of the whole trackage.

"Is it a wonder that the railroads did not direct their officers to secure a reduction in the price of steel? The earnings of these companies have been enormous; those of the United States Steel Corporation by itself so great that in normal times a single quarter's earnings equal the whole additional revenue which all the trunk line railroads expect to derive from the increased rates now under consideration."

Mr. Brandeis then pointed out that steel and steel products had not been touched by the rate increases, and asked, assuming the railroads' argument that the rate increases were necessary to revive business, why the steel business should not contribute to this revival, particularly as the railroads complain that much of their own trouble is due to the fact that the steel mills have only been running on half force. He continued:

"It is amusing to hear Mr. Gowan of the Pennsylvania speak of their heavy burden, due to increased steel prices, when the Pennsylvania and the Reading Railroads own most of the stock of the Pennsylvania and Cambria Steel Company, which in eight years have earned in profits $38,000,000. So also it is amusing to hear counsel for these railroads call attention to the heavy burden of the increased cost of coal when the coal product in the East is so largely owned and controlled by the railroads themselves."

Addressing himself to the assertion that by scientific management the railroads could save $1,000,000 a day throughout the country, Mr. Brandeis noted that a saving of 20 per cent. on the operating expenses of the trunk line roads would give them additional income of $180,000,000 a year, or $00,000 a day. He cited instances of saving in railroad operation where scientific management had been applied, such as a saving of 86 per cent. in the cost of maintaining belting in the Atchison shops; a saving of 68 per cent. in the cost of shop tools and machinery, a saving of 26 per cent.—amounting to $1,225,000 in a year—in locomotive maintenance on the Atchison, and a reduction of 86 per cent. in the detention of locomotives in the shops; a saving of 28 per cent. in the cost of car repairs, and a reduction of 69 per cent. in car detention.

In the matter of fuel consumption Mr. Brandeis called attention to experiments by the Erie Railroad, where an engine, with careless firing, burned 2,088 pounds of coal in one hour, and in the next hour, with intelligent firing and care, it used only 720 pounds, although the work in the second hour was more severe than in the first.

On these and other figures he estimated a saving of $50,000,000 a year could be effected in fuel alone if the use of coal were scientifically studied and instruction given to the men, as a few railroads are doing. The terminal expenses, Mr. Brandies declared, the roads might cut enormously, possibly $100,000,000 a year, if modern methods in handling freight were introduced.

Francis B. James discussed the argument of the railroads' counsel that railroad securities were affected seriously in value by the roads' inability to float securities. He declared that the trouble was due not to inability to obtain increased income but to the watering of stock and to bad administration.

He said the Erie was "a horrible example of overcapitalization and maladministration," and that the New York Central lines were examples of mismanagement and overcapitalization.

ATTACKS GOULD AND OTHERS.

New York Capitalists Accused of High Finance in Chicago Terminal Deal.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Financial methods of George Gould, Jacob H. Schiff, James Stillman, and the late E. H. Harriman were criticised to-day in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals by Attorney Charles S. Holt, who appeared for the minority stockholders of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Company in their charges that such alleged "high finance" caused the insolvency of the company. Admission of testimony purporting to substantiate this charge had been denied by Judge C. C. Kohlsaat in the Federal Circuit Court, and the matter was carried to the Appellate Court for review.

The pivotal point of the stockholders' contention touches a lease of part of the old terminal company's facilities in Chicago to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, which about a year ago bought the terminal property for $16,000,000 at a chancery sale.

Attorney Holt charged that the financiers in 1898 owned the Chicago & Alton, which ran parallel to the St. Louis, Peoria & Northern Railroad. The Peoria had a ninety-nine-year lease dating from that year for the terminal property, for an entrance to Chicago, and Holt charged that the men back of the Alton got control of the Peoria.

The attorney alleges that to get rid of the long lease they, having obtained control also of the Baltimore & Ohio Road, which also used the terminal's tracks, offered a sub-tenant for the Peoria line in the shape of the Alton. But, said Holt, they also said that if the Alton was accepted the B. & O. would cancel its lease, although this was the only entrance it had to Chicago.

The attorney submitted that the B. & O. Road, as Trustee under the long lease, was conducting negotiations with itself, regardless of stockholders, and obtained a great reduction in rent as well as much property for practically nothing. It paid only $180,000 annual rent, charged Holt, whereas another road was ready to pay $600,000. By these manoeuvres, Attorney Holt averred, the Baltimore & Ohio controlled 40 per cent. of the Terminal Company's property, and its handling of it threw the Terminal into insolvency.

GOT IT

Got Something Else, Too.

"I liked my coffee strong and I drank it strong," says a Penn. woman, telling a good story, "and although I had headaches nearly every day I just would not believe there was any connection between the two.

I had weak and heavy spells and palpitation of the heart, too, and although husband told me he thought it was coffee that made me so poorly, and did not drink it himself, for he said it did not agree with him, yet I loved my coffee and thought I just couldn't do without it.

"One day a friend called at my home—that was a year ago. I spoke about how well she was looking, and she said:

"'Yes, and I feel well, too. It's because I am drinking Postum in place of ordinary coffee.'

"I said, what is Postum?

"Then she told me how it was a food drink and how much better she felt since using it in place of coffee or tea, so I sent to the store and bought a package and when it was made according to directions it was so good I have never bought a pound of coffee since. I began to improve immediately.

"I cannot begin to tell you how much better I feel since using Postum and leaving coffee alone. My health is better than it has been for years and I cannot say enough in praise of this delicious food drink."

Take away the destroyer and put a rebuilder to work and Nature will do the rest. That's what you do when Postum takes coffee's place in your diet. "There's a Reason."

SENATOR STEPHENSON UNDER BRIBE CHARGE

Committee of 1909 Wisconsin Senate Finds Election Void—Asks Federal Senate to Act.

REPORT SENT TO GOVERNOR

House Committee Joined to It Two Years Ago—Exonerated Stephenson, Who Says Charges Are False.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 11.—Just as the United States Senate is on the eve of deciding whether the taint of bribery in the case of Senator Lorimer of Illinois invalidates his title to the seat he now holds, charges are formally filed here alleging that United States Senator Isaac Stephenson owes his place to corruption and other practices contrary to the laws of Wisconsin—practices to which, it is said, he gave countenance and aid.

In a long statement filed with Gov. Francis E. McGovern to-day, a special investigating committee of the Wisconsin Senate of 1909, which is also a minority of a joint election investigating committee of the two houses of the Legislature of the same year, declares:

> The findings of the Committee are that the nomination in the primary and the election to the United States Senate by the Legislature of Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin is null and void on account of attempted bribery and bribery, corrupt practices by himself and by his campaign managers, agents and workers and of violations of the laws of Wisconsin defining and punishing offences against the elective franchise.
>
> The Committee recommends that a copy of this report be certified to the United States Senate by the Governor and the Legislature with the request that that body investigate the manner and means by and through which Isaac Stephenson secured his election to the United States for its action thereon.

The report is signed by Lieut. Gov. Thomas Morris and Senator Spencer W. Marsh (Republicans) and Senator Paul Husting, (Democrat.) The two Republican members of the committee are members of the La Follette wing of the Republican Party, and Senator Husting calls himself a progressive Democrat.

Report Delayed Two Years.

In the 1909 Legislature charges were made against Stephenson by La Follette followers, after the primary election had given Stephenson a big plurality. Four candidates were before the primary—Mr. Stephenson, S. A. Cook, ex-Congressman and member of the old ring; F. E. McGovern, the present Governor, a La Follette follower, and W. H. Hatton, also a La Follette man. Stephenson, according to his filed statement, spent $107,000; Cook and Hatton about $30,000 each, and McGovern $12,000.

In the Legislature the La Follette men for months prevented Stephenson's election by breaking quorum. Stephenson had a majority in joint session, but pending investigation the La Follette men, Democrats and Socialists, stayed out of the joint session. The Assembly was strongly pro-Stephenson, with Bancroft, a Stephenson worker, as Speaker. The Senate was anti-Stephenson.

Early in the legislative session of 1909 resolutions were introduced in both houses calling for an investigation of the Senatorial primary election with a special view to Stephenson's activities. Speaker Bancroft of the Assembly named a committee of five, composed of a majority of stalwart Republicans and Lieut. Gov. John Strange, who then presided over the Senate, named Senators Marsh, Morris, and Husting.

The committees met in joint session for several weeks. Then the Assembly branch of the committee decided to go no further. The Assembly members of the committee accordingly rendered a report, recommending the enactment of a law regulating campaign expenditures and stating that there was no evidence of corruption on the part of Senator Stephenson. The Senate members refused to concur in this report.

Following this, a special resolution was adopted by the Senate, making the three Senators named a Special Investigating Committee to probe further into the primary election.

To-day's report and findings are the result of that special committee's work. In the interval of two years La Follette men have obtained control of the Legislature. The three Senator committeemen signed the report as members of the Senate on the Joint Legislative Committee as well as members of the Special Senate Investigating Committee. Treated from the standpoint of having been signed by members of the joint committee, it may technically be called therefore a minority report. On the other hand, as the result of the work of a special committee, it is also an independent report. Among the statements in the report is this:

"Throughout the investigation the Assembly members of the committee persistently endeavored to prevent the investigation of Isaac Stephenson."

The report was submitted to Gov. McGovern about ten minutes before Senator Marsh's term as State Senator expired. Mr. Morris, while no longer a Senator, having resigned his seat to become Lieutenant Governor, signed the report as a member of the investigating committee.

Deliberate Violation Charged.

In the detailed arraignment which preceded the committee's finding, Senator Stephenson is charged with violating the statute which requires an account under oath of campaign expenditures to be filed, and that such violation was premeditated. It is further charged that he violated the law which prohibits any one from contributing money to assist a candidate for the Legislature residing outside of the district in which the contributor resides.

That the civil service law of this State was violated when he caused to be paid money which the evidence shows was paid to State Game Warden Stone and L. B. Dresser, then President of the Board of Control.

That he gave a sum of money to a supporter of McGovern for United States Senator such supporter afterward switching to Stephenson, and that he paid large sums of money to others which was afterward used by them to induce other persons to assist in procuring his election.

False, Says Stephenson.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Senator Stephenson at first declined to make any comment on the news from the Wisconsin State capital that charges of corruption and violation of the election laws had been filed against him with the Governor. Later he gave out the following:

"The report of the majority of the Legislative Committee was made at the session of the Legislature held two years ago. The committee, after an exhaustive investigation, exonerated me and all those connected with my campaign of all the charges. The report now made is by three of the old committee, who refused to concur with the majority. They did not then submit a report, but have waited until a Legislature had been elected which they regarded favorable to their plans. Two of them are no longer members of the Legislature. I have not yet seen the report. So far as the charges have come to me, they are without foundation and wholly false."

MAJORITY VOTE ON LORIMER.

Agreed in Senate Unseating Him Does Not Require Two-thirds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A definite point was scored to-day against Senator Lorimer and his claim to a seat in the upper house, when it was agreed on the floor that the question before the Senate is simply to declare Mr. Lorimer's election fraudulent and his seat vacant instead of a motion to expel. This means that only a majority vote will be needed to send Mr. Lorimer back to Illinois, instead of the two-thirds vote a motion to expel would require.

The question came up incidentally. The understanding reached to-day, however, is the logical aftermath of the action of the Senate the other day in overruling the Vice President and declaring the question of Mr. Lorimer's right to his seat not of the highest privilege, in order to prevent Senator Owen from taking the floor before Senator Beveridge. The effect was to draw a sharp distinction between the "highest privilege"—which a motion to expel would involve—and "privilege," which is applied to any question affecting the rights of a Senator.

To-day Mr. Beveridge, interrupting Mr. Gallinger's speech on ship subsidy, inquired of Chairman Burrows of the Committee on Privileges and Elections when he intended to push the Lorimer affair to a final vote. Mr. Burrows replied that the same courtesy which had impelled the majority of the committee to hear their report criticised by members of the Senate had impelled him to permit Senator Gallinger to go on with the Subsidy bill. In due time, he said, he would push the Lorimer report to a conclusion. Mr. Beveridge then made the point that after all the Lorimer affair was not of the highest privilege and therefore could not take precedence over all the business of the Senate—appropriation bills included. A motion to expel, he said, was sometimes essential to the physical safety of the Senate, but nothing of that sort was involved in the simple question of whether or not a supposed member was entitled to his seat. This point was assented to by various of the older Senators, and Mr. Beveridge then explained that as he saw it, only a majority vote would be needed to dispose of his resolution. This, too, met with general assent.

Earlier in the day Senator Owen's former resolution, essentially the same as Mr. Beveridge's, was called up and at once referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. That clears the way for Mr. Beveridge's report and resolution on which the final vote will probably be taken.

BELIEVE FIVE DEAD IN FIRE.

Police Searching Ruins of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 11.—Five men are believed dead and nearly sixty were injured in the fire that wiped out the seven-story Chamber of Commerce building last night. The four walls of the building, which tottered to-day, were braced to-night, but the fire is still smoldering in the ruins, preventing any search for the missing men. They are:

SIBBALD, S. S., Secretary of Early & Daniel Company.
MARSHALL, BRENT, Vice President of Early & Daniel Company.
LESLIE, HARRY, negro porter of Early & Daniel Company.
SELM, FRED, night engineer.
MEENTS, CHRIST, night watchman.

It is expected that all the injured will recover. Most of the hurts were sustained by falling débris.

Part of the Burnet house was vacated to-day because a wall of the burned building was found to be leaning toward it and in danger of falling.

The cause of the collapse of the room was explained to-day when it was seen that the three top floors were suspended by chains from steel girders which rested on the outside walls. When the fire reached the girders the bolts gave way, the outer walls bulged, and the three top floors crashed to the basement.

The destruction of its building will not cause an interruption of business of 'change members, for as soon as it was seen that the building would be destroyed James J. Heekin, President of the Chamber, made arrangements for temporary quarters in the Sinton Hotel.

The Chamber of Commerce met this afternoon in its annual session and voted to erect a new $1,000,000 building on the site of the old one. The Directors will meet again soon to proceed with this work.

HAS MME. NORDICA A SENATE CANDIDATE?

Credited with the Ambition to See Her Husband, G. W. Young, Chosen in New Jersey.

WON'T DINE WITH DR. WILSON

Governor-Elect Laughingly Denies a Report on Which the Gossips Had Builded Much.

An interesting rumor gained currency in New Jersey yesterday that Mme. Nordica, the singer, hopes to unravel the political tangle in New Jersey to everybody's satisfaction through the election to the Senate of her husband, George W. Young, the New York banker.

Some time ago it was announced that Mr. Young, who has a country place near Asbury Park, was in a receptive mood. The wiseacres now hint that the death of Robert Davis has precipitated matters, and, putting two and two together, they will not be surprised by the announcement of Mr. Young's active candidacy within a few days.

When the first suggestion of Mr. Young for the place was made there was some criticism on the ground that he might be regarded as a Wall Street candidate, and would not be satisfactory to Gov.-elect Wilson for that reason. In fact, it was plainly intimated that Mr. Wilson would not entertain the notion at all unless Mr. Young should withdraw from Wall Street institutions. Yesterday, when the politicians heard that the banker had resigned his Directorship in the National Bank of Commerce, they were ready to believe that he was preparing to qualify as a candidate.

The further report that Mr. Young and Mme. Nordica were to meet Gov.-elect and Mrs. Wilson at a privately arranged dinner in Trenton this evening was also considered significant.

There is no expectation that Mr. Wilson will openly espouse Mr. Young's candidacy, as he is committed to Mr. Martine. But a deadlock between Mr. Martine and ex-Senator Smith is now regarded as probable, and compromise on a third man will be the natural outcome. Rumor had it yesterday that Robert Davis was to have sprung Mr. Young at the psychological moment, but the sudden death of the Hudson County leader disarranged matters.

Gov.-elect Wilson has made no sign of his disposition toward Mr. Young, but he is said to know that Mr. Young was a heavy contributor to his campaign fund.

Meanwhile Mme. Nordica's expected participation in her husband's canvass is awaited with interest, particularly among woman suffragists, as she is an ardent advocate of the cause and think it is the duty of women to take an active hand in politics. She is also said to be ambitious to see her husband in the Senate and to make Washington her home.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson at his Princeton home to-night denied the report that he was to dine in this city to-morrow evening with Mme. Nordica, the prima donna, and her husband, J. W. Young. He appeared to be much amused at the suggestion that the meeting would be a step to Mr. Young's entering the Senatorial fight as a compromise candidate.

Mme. Nordica is to sing in the State Street M. E. Church here to-morrow night, and it had been announced that she, her husband, and the Governor-elect and his family would be the dinner guests of the Rev. Isaac L. Wood, pastor of the church. When told that there was a report that the proposed meeting would have a bearing on the Senatorial situation Dr. Wilson laughingly said:

"There can be nothing in it, for I am not to meet them."

WM. HALPIN, BRIDEGROOM.

Deputy Water Register Marries Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, a Widow.

William Halpin, Deputy Water Register of New York County and former Chairman of the Republican County Committee, and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Miller, a widow of 209 West Eightieth Street, were married yesterday at noon. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by the Rev. Dr. Gleason.

Mr. Halpin was a widower and lived at 318 West Twenty-ninth Street. He is the Republican leader of the Seventh Assembly District. The first intimation that many of his friends had of his approaching marriage was when he took out a license at the City Hall yesterday forenoon. Mrs. Miller is the daughter of Fernando Baltes.

The couple left yesterday afternoon on a two weeks' bridal trip.

WIDOW GETS WHITNEY ESTATE

Judge's Will Was Written by Himself and Covered Only a Single Page.

The will of Supreme Court Justice Whitney was filed yesterday with the Surrogate. Bearing the date March 21, 1899, the document is one of remarkable simplicity, being a single sheet of legal cap inscribed in the testator's own handwriting. The will reads:

> If I shall leave no child, I give the sum of $4,500 to my sisters or the survivors or survivor of them, share and share alike, and the rest of my property to my wife, Josepha Whitney. If I shall have a child or children, I give all my property to my wife.

Justice Whitney was married in 1896. His wife and five children survived him.

WALTZ PRIZE FOR AMERICAN.

Miss Fay Foster Gets Second Award in Die Woche's Competition.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—Miss Fay Foster, a young Chicago pianist, organist, and composer, has won the second prize of $500 in the international waltz composition contest, organized by the Berlin illustrated weekly Die Woche. The first and third prizes were won by male German composers.

Four thousand two hundred and twenty-two waltzes were submitted from the four corners of the earth. The jury, which was headed by Johann Strauss of Vienna, deliberated for five months before coming to a decision after eliminating 3,247 compositions which failed to come up to the standard.

The "Blue Danube" was the model from which the contestants were required to derive their inspiration.

Miss Foster will sail for New York on Jan. 19 on the Pennsylvania for the purpose of joining her aged father, who lives in Kansas City. Her winning waltz is entitled "Sit Illi Terra Levis," but it can be danced without a knowledge of Latin.

New Eagle Almanac Out.

The Eagle Almanac for 1911, published by The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, was issued yesterday. It contains 621 pages of information, exclusive of advertising. While the book contains much general information, special attention is given to New York City and Long Island. There is a large map of Long Island in a pocket in the front of the book.

BUILD SUBWAY NOW, IS GAYNOR'S ADVICE

People Tired of Waiting, Says His Report, and the Interborough's Plan Is the Best.

REFUTES OPPONENTS' CHARGE

Asserts the Public Has Been Misled by Mitchel and Prendergast Into Believing Tunnel Won't Be the City's.

Mayor William J. Gaynor made public last night his report as the minority member of the Board of Estimate's Transit Committee, which takes the form of an answer to the report of Controller Prendergast and President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen as majority members submitted to the Board of Estimate at its meeting last Thursday. The minority report will come before the Board of Estimate at its meeting this morning.

While there is no resolution appended to the minority report as had been expected up to yesterday by those who were in touch with the Mayor's plans, the document closes with an appeal to the Board of Estimate for immediate action on the subway building proposal of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which the Mayor argues for in his report.

"The vast majority of the intelligent people of the City of New York," he says, "desire that this board now go forward in this great matter after a year already spent in leading up to it. It is justly expected of us that we do now proceed immediately. An end should come to this perpetual talking and arriving at no result. The Public Service Commission is now ready to proceed to formulate construction and operating contracts, and if there be any delay the cause is here in this board."

The body of the report is divided into seven heads, under which the Mayor answers certain of the arguments against the Interborough and in favor of an independent subway system advanced by Messrs. Mitchel and Prendergast. Under the first of these heads he discussed the assertion that the "mandate of the people," expressed at the last election, pledged the city administration to a city built and city controlled subway system. He points out in this connection that, as the law stood when the political platforms of the last campaign were framed, subway construction could not be otherwise than by the city; that the present Subway is a city-built subway, and the extensions proposed now by the Interborough would be city built.

In his second topic Mayor Gaynor says: "The report (of the majority members) substantially admits that if what is called the Triborough Subway is built by the city the Interborough Company would probably be the successful bidder," and he criticises their argument for "distinct, separate, self-sufficient systems" on the ground that if the same company operated both systems they could not be "distinct, separate, and self-sufficient," and refers to these expressions as "empty words and phrases."

Triborough Would Run at a Loss.

Next the Mayor declares that the cost of constructing and equipping the Triborough route will be in the vicinity of $250,000,000, or say $200,000,000 as a minimum. He estimates the maximum possible gross revenue which the route could enjoy as $16,000,000, and then points to the fact that on this basis an operating cost of 40 per cent. of the gross earnings would require $6,400,000, and the interest and sinking fund on the cost of construction and equipment $10,500,000, showing a deficit. In addition he declares that the accumulation of city credit necessary to the construction of this route, after the first slice of borrowing capacity is used, would be a slow matter, and expresses his opposition to using for subways any of the credit freed by the release of self-supporting dock bonds from the debt limit computation.

The Mayor next considers the statement of the majority report that the Interborough was ready a year ago to build its extensions on its own credit. He asserts that the extensions then proposed comprised less than one-fourth of the mileage of the system covered by the Interborough's present bid, and were rejected by the Public Service Commission on the theory that the Interborough must bid on the "lean with the fat." The Mayor remarks that doubtless to-day the Interborough would be glad to renew the offer rejected at that time.

Strong for a Five-Cent Fare.

To the suggestion that the Interborough offer covers certain parts of the Triborough system, he replies that the Triborough was put together of parts of a system originally laid out by the old Rapid Transit Board in connection with the present Interborough Subway, and was only a "fragment of what these men laid out to be owned and controlled by the city forever." He adverts again to the argument of a single five-cent fare, and declares that the Public Service Commission has complete power of regulating operation. If there were two systems, the Mayor adds, the commission could not exercise more complete power than it could if there were only one.

Under his sixth head the Mayor discusses future subway building in Queens and Richmond, suggesting that if only the city's present building capacity is used at this time, its future credit becoming available for subways may be employed in constructing extensions in Queens to connect with the Steinway tunnel, and can build a tunnel under the Narrows to connect with Staten Island. Such a tunnel, he declares, had better be built quickly if the city is to continue realizing heavy deficits on the operation of its ferries to Staten Island.

The last subdivision of the Mayor's report is devoted to the statement of the majority of the Transit Committee that the city's credit is proposed to be "loaned" to the Interborough. This he contends is not the case and cannot be under the law.

In reply to the Mayor's report, Controller Prendergast, in a statement last night, reiterated his stand for separate subway systems, and said that the Mayor's discussion of the cost of the Triborough route "cannot be treated seriously if he has any faith in his own opinions on the subject before he was elected."

THE MAYOR'S STATEMENT.

To the Board of Estimate and Apportionment—As this board has already voted against the report of my two associates on the Transit Committee, it is not necessary for me to file a minority report, which I was unable to present at the last meeting of the board for the reason that my said associates did not find it convenient to let me have a copy of their report in advance. But it may be well that I, at least, present a report that I do not agree to a number of statements as of fact in the majority report, and at the same time I desire to call attention to some other things in the said report which are founded, it seems to me, on an erroneous conception of the law and the facts, and which give a false color to the report throughout.

First—They say they oppose the proposition of the Interborough Company that the city build certain extensions of the present Subway (I quote) "Because the mandate of the people, as expressed in the election of the members of this board, was against monopoly and in favor of city-built and city-controlled subways." This refers to the political platforms in the last city election.

These platforms did favor city-built and city-controlled subways, in language more or less definite. The drafters of them seemed to have been under the delusion that some other kind of subways could be built under the sections of the statute which apply to the building of the city subways. But that is not so. The statute is beyond dispute. The said sections provide only for the building of city subways by the city through the Public Service Commission. There is no other way to build them. Though platform makers did not know this, we should not be astray in respect of it.

Explains Interborough's Offer.

The present offer of the Interborough is not that it be permitted to build subways but that the city build subways, and to eke out the scant credit and funds of the city, it offers to pay to the city in the course of construction all capital necessary in excess of $53,000,000 to be contributed by the city all told. The city builds the subways and owns them from the start. There is no other way. It is too bad to see a contrary notion, and that we purpose to follow it, put in the minds of the people who do not examine the matter for themselves, and unconsciously, it may be, depend wholly for their inspiration or information upon vicious sources.

The false notion, long abroad, and industriously disseminated, that private capital, or a private capitalist, who was often named, built the present Subway in Manhattan and the Bronx, has not yet been wholly driven out of men's minds. It took a few of us several years to dissipate it to some extent. Not one dollar of private capital went into the construction of the said Subway.

The city put every dollar into it. Nor did it loan the capital to build it, as is sometimes loosely said. On the contrary, it built the Subway and owned it from the moment of completion, and leased it for operation. It loaned no money or credit to any one to build it. The mistake was made of giving too long a lease of it when built. That we are now striving to rectify by having the seventy-five years' term and renewal scaled down to forty-nine years or less.

How Brooklyn Line Was Built.

When the extension under the East River and over into Brooklyn was built some years afterward, competition and conditions were such that of the $10,000,000 of capital used the city put in only $2,000,000, the company putting in the balance. And yet, for such is the statute, the city was the builder with these funds, and not the company, and the city owned the Subway from the start, the very same as though it put in all of the capital.

I regret to have to recur to things so fundamental, but I do it only that no one shall be misled if I can prevent it. Of course, my said associates do not mean to mislead, and none of us will be misled. But what about others? All I say is that my said associates have not made this matter clear, and that their report as a whole tends to make people believe that the offer of the Interborough is to build for itself, and thereby get some ownership or control which it would not otherwise have, whereas its offer is that the city build under the statute. It could not make any other kind of an offer, because there is no law for it. The city is to receive interest and a sinking fund out of earnings, and the profits of operation are to be divided equally between the city and the company.

As to Operating It.

Second—The report of my associates substantially admits that if what is called the Triborough route should be built by the city, the Interborough Company would probably be the successful bidder to operate it, when bids for operation should be advertised for as required by the statute after construction is completed; if, indeed, any bidder for operation at all could be found. But they say, (I quote:) "It is not of first importance that the operation of those systems" (namely, of the Triborough and of the present Subway) "should be in different hands, if only there be two distinct, separate, and self-sufficient systems." But, pray, if both systems are operated by the same company, or by allied or subsidiary companies, how are they "distinct" and "separate"? These words and the phrase "independent system" may be very attractive, but I hope they will delude nobody. But the history of the world shows how potent attractive but empty words and phrases always have been in misleading thoughtless people. It is well that owing to our splendid system of schools the illiterate and the thoughtless are no longer the majority among us.

Triborough Route Hopeless.

Third—I have expressed a doubt in the foregoing whether any bid to operate the Interborough would be forthcoming. The cost of constructing and equipping that system is put at $250,000,000. I believe no competent person has claimed that it would be less than $225,000,000. But if we say $200,000,000 the case is still hopeless. Five and one-half per cent. of that sum for annual interest and sinking fund is $10,500,000. The highest estimate of gross receipts from operation of the system that any one has made is $16,000,000. Forty per cent. of that for maintenance and operation would be $6,400,000. This added to the said interest and sinking fund amount of $10,500,000 already shows a deficit without going into other items. But the case is worse, for the gross receipts would probably not reach $16,000,000.

As is well known, that system was recently put up for bids for operation in advance of construction, but no bid was forthcoming. No one with private capital for investment could see anything but a deficit ahead. Some are glad of this, because they have in mind, although they keep it to themselves pretty well, that for lack of a bidder the city would be forced to operate the road, and this is the object which they are striving for. Some time in the future, namely, when the public virtue and intelligence of the community is fit for it, the city will be operating all of its public utilities, including city railroads, but that time has not come yet in my judgment.

City Funds Too Slow Coming In.

Fourth—The report of my associates shows that city funds to build the Triborough route would be slow in coming, on account of the ordinary expenses of the city, which have to be met yearly; but it says that if great need exists the dock funds can be used to build subways. I regret to hear this suggestion made. There are certain things which need to be done to improve our docks, and for the handling of freight along our docks, which are as essential to the prosperity of this city as the building of subways. The Dock Commissioner has already prepared the plan for a railroad along the docks to handle the freight and to supersede the surface tracks of the New York Central running down through the city. A bill is now being prepared to be sent to the Legislature to carry this out. The purpose is to apply the dock funds to this, among other things.

Denies Associates' Version.

Fifth—The report of my two associates says that a year ago the Interborough Company offered to furnish all the funds needed for the city to build the extensions to the present Subway, and asks what has caused that company to change its mind in that respect. The Interborough Company never made such an offer. It did offer to furnish the money to the city to build the extension from Forty-second Street down Seventh Avenue and to the Battery, and the extension up Lexington Avenue to the Bronx. The extensions which it now proposes that the city should build, and to which it offers to contribute, are, in mileage, four times the length of the fragments embraced in the said offer by it a year or more ago.

Let us not confound things. No doubt that company would be only too glad to renew the said offer and have it accepted. But no doubt the Public Service Commission would promptly reject it now as it did then, and say that "The lean must go with the fat"; that no proposition to build subways would be considered unless they embraced extensions into the outlying boroughs. The profitable trunk lines through Manhattan must go with the less profitable and the unprofitable lines into the other boroughs.

The said report of my associates also leaves the impression that the present proposition that the city build extensions adopts the "Triborough route." The contrary is the case. The Triborough system, so called, was made up principally of routes which were laid out years ago by the old Rapid Transit Board as extensions of the present Subway.

Favors One System.

The present Subway is only a fragment of what these men laid out as a system to be owned and controlled by the city forever. I have not heard a single reason advanced why the city should now abandon that system and build another system, "independent," as it is called. The new system would have to be operated by a company just as the present Subway is, and in all probability by the present operating company. What would be gained by that?

What we need, of all things, is to stick to what was designed from the beginning, namely, that since the city builds and owns the subways it should build one great comprehensive system to connect all of the boroughs, and be operated on a single fare of 5 cents throughout the whole system. I am unable to comprehend why any one should ask that two or more systems should be built, thereby introducing the necessity of paying a new fare every time you change from one line to another.

No matter how many systems of subways we should have they would all be under the control of the Public Service Commission as to the kind of cars to be used, the headway, the speed, the length of trains, and in every respect as to accommodation, as is all prescribed by the statute. Will any one say that the Public Service Commission could control two or more separate companies in these respects better than it could control one?

Wants Line to Staten Island.

Sixth—If we carry out the present proposition, and thereby have all of the subway extensions built by the city, the city to put in only $53,000,000 of capital, all in excess, estimated to be $75,000,000, to be contributed by private capital, the city will then be able to devote its funds hereafter to the building of extensions in the boroughs as they become necessary. It can, for instance, build extensions such as through Queens to connect with the Steinway Tunnel, in Brooklyn to connect the Fourth Avenue Subway with Coney Island, and also with the Borough of Richmond under the water, as has been pointed out by the President of that borough. If the city ferries to that borough are to continue to create the present huge deficit, the quicker the subway extension to St. George be built the better, for the interest and sinking fund charge on the cost thereof would be less than such ferry deficit, as now appears.

Not Lending City's Money.

Seventh—The said report states that the credit of the city should not be loaned to any existing company for extensions. This can only mislead those who do not know the law of the case as laid down by the statute, although not so intended. The city is not permitted to loan its money or its credit to any company. All it can do is to build the subways itself, through the Public Service Commission, as I have already pointed out, and yet some will continue to repeat that the proposition is that the city should loan the money to the company. Indeed, some go so far as to say that the proposition is to give it to the company; to make a present of it. But of course we must at some point cease to regard such statements, however we may regret to see thoughtless persons misled by them.

Permit me to say, in conclusion, that the vast majority of the intelligent people of the City of New York desire that this board now go forward in this great matter, after a year already spent in leading up to it. It is justly expected of us that we do now proceed immediately. An end should come to this perpetual talking and arriving at no result. The Public Service Commission is now ready to proceed to formulate construction and operation contracts, and if there be any delay the cause is here in this board. Respectfully submitted, W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

PRENDERGAST'S VIEW OF IT.

Doubts the Mayor's Sincerity Considering His Pre-election Opinions.

Controller Prendergast, in answer to Mayor Gaynor's subway report, said last night:

"Practically everything said in the report written by the Mayor has already been stated by him in other communications. He is now absolutely committed to the acceptance of the proposition of the Interborough Company. In view of this fact he could have made a much more useful contribution to the literature of this discussion by addressing himself to the complete analysis of that proposition contained in the majority report submitted by Mr. Mitchel and me.

"It is entirely specious to try and convey the idea that the Interborough Company is now willing to reduce its leases to a term of forty-nine years. We have shown that this offer means a practical reduction of but fifteen years from the aggregate of the original term, with renewal periods for the longer of the two leases, and of but three years in the case of the shorter. In view of the fact that the city has the right to enter upon a revaluation adjustment with the Interborough Company at the expiration of the fifty-year period on the Manhattan and Bronx lease, and at the end of the thirty-five-year period in the case of the Manhattan and Brooklyn lease, the effect, as we have already said, of the present proposition would be to extend for a considerable number of years operation under the terms which are now giving the Interborough Company 17.2 per cent. on its investment.

Gaynor and His Platform.

"It is interesting to have the discussion now turn upon the question of platform pledges. The Mayor says that the political platforms of the last city election favored city-built and city-controlled subways, in language more or less definite, but that the drafters of these platforms seem to have been under the delusion that some other kind of subways could be built on the section of the statute which applies to the building of the city's subways. The Mayor must now admit that he was one of those thus deluded. He helped to draw the subway plank in the Democratic platform. He has told us that he insisted upon that plank being drawn in exact accordance with his wishes.

"No reasonable man has the slightest doubt as to what that platform intended, and the Mayor's present position simply illustrates that for reasons best known to himself he prefers to abandon his own platform and assume an attitude on the question of subway construction that neither he nor any other candidate would have dared to take prior to the last city election.

"It is true that Mr. Mitchel and I are in favor of separate systems. The Mayor seems to think that because the bidders for the operation of the new system might be the Interborough Company that this destroys the merit of our claim for a separate and distinct system. He has either failed to discover, or he refuses to admit, that what we are in favor of is a system physically independent, so that if at the end of the ten-year period the operator was not satisfactory to the city the city could then take over such a system, secure a new operator, and have a complete system and not fragments and ends which it would have to take over if at the end of the ten-year period the Interborough's operation of the proposed extensions was not satisfactory.

Questions the Mayor's Sincerity.

"The Mayor's discussion of the cost of the triborough system cannot be treated seriously. It was probably not intended as a serious argument. No one that I know of is in favor of building any system costing $225,000,000, and such a system as should be built need not cost more than from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000. The Mayor has simply constructed a straw man and proceeded to annihilate him. The majority of the Transit Committee has never been committed to the original proposition of expense involved in the so-called triborough route, and I am satisfied that if others believed that an offer to operate the triborough route would receive fair consideration and not be used simply as bait for the Interborough, the city would have before it to-day a comprehensive proposition which would decide the issue in favor of an independent system.

"When one considers the tremendous figures of cost now indulged in by the Mayor, as compared with his pre-election statement that even $8,000,000 per annum would be sufficient to help build our subway, we are justified in believing that his present argument is not serious, if he has any faith in his own opinions on the subject before he was elected.

The Funds Available.

"It is true that the majority report suggested that, if necessary, a portion of the funds made available by the exemption of self-sustaining dock bonds could be used for subway purposes. The Mayor seems to believe that all the funds made thus available will be required for new facilities on the west side of the city. I want now to call attention to the fact that if modern terminals are to be constructed on the west side for the benefit of the railroad and steamship carrying companies, these companies must bear their portion of the expense.

"The Mayor is right when he says that the offer of the Interborough some time ago to build at its own expense did not comprehend any such extent of construction as the present proposition. But he proceeds to argue that because they now want to do more than they were willing to do some time ago that the city should now furnish a good part of the money. This is not the way that I regard it.

"When Mr. Willcox insisted that the Interborough should take some of the 'lean' if it wanted the 'fat,' I assume that he meant that in consideration of the city extending the Interborough's opportunities for profit the company should be willing, as its part of the consideration, to undertake all its natural extensions. This is my present position.

Would Save Lexington Avenue.

"Whatever the company has now offered to do constitutes nothing more than its natural extensions, except that I do not believe that Lexington Avenue should ever be included in any arrangement made with the Interborough, if it were doing everything with its own money, because I believe Lexington Avenue should be held as part of an independent system.

"The inducement offered to Queens and Richmond should not prove enticing to those localities. It is all very well to talk about the city pledging money later on on the theory that the Interborough agrees in its proposition to operate such extensions. But it must not be forgotten that this agreement is contingent upon the city assuming any deficit that may arise from their operation. I think that it would be much better for Richmond to secure its subway facilities as a part of a complete independent system which would have enough of excellent paying territory to enable the entire system to be run at a profit, and not make such an extension a drain upon the city."

ERROR IN B. R. T. OFFER.

Omitted Line Left the City Without Much Share in Subway Profits.

By an error in the preparation of copies of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's subway proposal for the newspapers, the omission of one line in one of the important paragraphs of the offer gave an interpretation almost exactly the opposite of what the company intended. This was in respect of the suggested basis of distributing revenue from the Brighton Beach route proposed to be made up by joining what is now known as the Brighton Beach improvement from Prospect Park to the ocean to a new subway through Flatbush Avenue, connecting with the Fourth Avenue subway at Atlantic Avenue, and so running into New York.

As the offer was sent over to the Public Service Commission yesterday the sections relating to this matter declared that after payment of operating expenses the company should have 6 per cent. on the property which it turned over to this route, 6 per cent. on its new expenditure, and that then the city should receive as rental the interest and sinking fund on the bonds it put into the new Flatbush Avenue subway and the construction of a crosstown subway in Manhattan, which was proposed as the westerly terminus of the route.

Then came the following proviso:

> Provided, however, that should the net income for any year from the operation of the line south of Flatbush Avenue be less than the amount of said rental, after allowing 6 per centum interest on the cost to the company of equipping said route, and 6 per centum on a fair valuation of that portion of said route owned by the company, then the city shall assume such rental deficit.

A reporter for THE TIMES on Tuesday afternoon called this section of the offer as made public to the attention of President Winter of the B. R. T., and he agreed that this would deprive the city of any benefit from the operation of the line this side of Flatbush Avenue, and particularly of the benefit of the crosstown subway in Manhattan, where most of the fares of home-going passengers would be collected. He said that the offer seemed to need amplification, and promised a further statement. Yesterday the discovery was made at the offices of the company that a line was missing from the copy given out for publication, and that the paragraph should have read, the bracketed portion being the missing line:

> Provided, however, that should the net income for any year from the operation of the (route through said subways and over the Brighton Beach) line south of Flatbush Avenue be less than the amount of said rental, &c.

The paragraph, as thus reconstructed, takes into account the total revenue of the system before providing for the distribution by way of return on the company's and the city's investments.

INVERSION

If a man figures 10% income on a $240,000 building, and the building costs $300,000, his income will be reduced to 8%.

In other words, he pays $60,000 extra for the privilege of forfeiting 2% of his income!

And when it is considered how easy it is for a building to run ahead of the original estimate, what wonder that we continually urge Owners to insist upon guarantees of Economy, Quality and Speed?

Such guarantees are in every contract we undertake.

DENOUNCES TOBACCO MEN AS HYPOCRITES

Pious of Mien, They Would Sugar the Devil, Wickersham Tells Supreme Court.

URGES TRUST DISSOLUTION

Size and Power of a Corporation No Proof of Monopoly, Declares Counsel for the Defendants.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Discussion of the "monopolizing" section of the Sherman Anti-Trust law, which section never has been passed upon by the highest court, called forth bitter sarcasm by Attorney General Wickersham to-day in his closing argument before the Supreme Court in the contest to dissolve the Tobacco Trust.

Mr. Wickersham devoted much of his time to showing that the tobacco organization had been built up with an intent to restrain trade and to monopolize the business. He ridiculed the testimony of the American Tobacco Company officials, who maintained they never had any idea of restraining trade, and exclaimed:

"With solemn visage and pious mien they would sugar the devil himself!"

Their expression of the growth of the company as an "orderly, legal, and natural economic growth" he characterized as synonymous with a "sweet, placid, dreamlike growth."

Junius Parker, speaking on behalf of the tobacco organization for John G. Johnson, who was unable to be in court because of an attack of illness, yesterday said that the size of an organization or mere power possessed was not a criterion of a monopoly. He argued that there must be an exclusion or attempt to exclude others from inter-State trade by means at least tortious under the common law or under statutes other than the Sherman law.

Attorney General Wickersham objected to this interpretation. He said that decisions of the court had demonstrated that it was brought about by acts of individuals in endeavoring to engross to themselves all of a given commodity, and that it has become a question of intent.

Mr. Hornblower, representing the Imperial Tobacco Company, the British trust, spoke first. The Government made the British company a defendant in the present litigation because it had entered into a contract with the American Tobacco Company, whereby the Imperial was to confine its business to Great Britain and the American to America.

Justice Lurton wanted to know if the promise of the American was a restraint of American foreign commerce. Mr. Hornblower replied that it was not, because the American was not sending its goods to England.

Chief Justice White inquired if it was impossible for the American to export to England. Mr. Hornblower said it was, and based his response upon testimony of the President of the American, who said that it was impossible because of differential duties. He admitted the effect of the promise of the Imperial to remain in England was a restraint on trade in America, but contended that the restraint was a reasonable one.

Chief Justice White led the attorney to assert that "intent" of the parties entering into a contract should be the criterion of a violation of the law, and said:

"Then you say that the power to make a lawful contract depends upon the conclusion of the courts lateras to what was the intent of the minds of the parties entering into the contract?"

The attorney did not reply.

"If you seek intent," continued the Chief Justice, "you are not limited to the four walls of the contract, are you? You are to look at the whole life of the parties!"

"Oh, no! Not that far,' 'said Mr. Hornblower.

ASKS OPIUM LEGISLATION.

President Taft Recommends That the Law Be Made More Stringent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—President Taft to-day sent to Congress a message recommending amendments to the Opium Exclusion act of two years ago. His recommendations are an approval of a report by Secretary of State Knox, giving reasons why the act should be made more effective by amendments to prohibit any vessel engaged in trade from any foreign port to any place in the jurisdiction of this country or between ports within American jurisdiction from carrying opium prepared for smoking.

It is pointed out that a defect in the present law allows smoking opium to be manufactured in the United States from domestically produced opium. Mr. Taft further urges the enactment of legislation to control the importation, manufacture, and distribution in inter-State commerce of opium, cocaine, morphine, and other habit-forming drugs.

COLOMBIANS SPURN PANAMAN OVERTURES

Mission to Bogota of Dr. Mendoza a Failure—Boycott of Him Proposed.

HOPE TO REGAIN TERRITORY

Opponents of Treaty with Panama Think United States Democrats Will Undo the Work of Separation.

PANAMA, Jan. 11.—Late advices from Colombia confirm the previous report that the mission of Dr. Carlos Mendoza at Bogota has failed.

Dr. Mendoza, acting as a special Commission of the Panama Government, went to Colombia about a month ago for the purpose of negotiating a treaty of peace. President Rostrepo, in response to the Panaa Government's inquiries, had replied that he would be glad to give Dr. Mendoza a hearing, and on his arrival at Bogota the Panama representative was greeted cordially. The people, however, were strongly against a treaty with Panama, and Dr. Perez y Soto, Chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee, demanded that Mendoza be sent to prison as a traitor, he having taken a prominent part in the establishment of Panama's independence.

A circular was distributed about the streets of Bogota proposing a boycott of Mendoza, so that he would be compelled to depart. The opposition to the proposed treaty, it is stated, had as its object the creation of difficulties for President Restrepo in the hope that he might resign, whereupon Gen. Ramon Gonzales-Valencia would assume the Presidency. Restrepo, although a Conservative, has appointed many Liberals to office, thus engendering enmity on the part of former partisans, who openly say that no treaty will be signed with Panama because it is expected that when the Democrats control the United States Congress Panama will be reincorporated with Colombia.

The Star and Herald, a Panama publication, says editorially:

"With the support of the United States Panama is assured of ample protection against aggression from that quarter, and it is felt that whatever party comes into power at Washington treaty obligations must be fulfilled. The latest attempt to arrive at a settlement was due to a considerate feeling for the mother country. Since this is not wanted there is nothing to do but for both countries to go on their respective ways, without regard for each other. Panama has gone too far to think of retracing her steps."

MOTOR CARS IN CHINA.

Very Few at Present—Chance for American Manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Owing to the narrowness of the average thoroughfare in China and the lack of good roads for touring, there are very few automobiles in China at present, according to Consul General Knabenshue, at Tien-Tsin. The City of Tien-Tsin boasts of about a dozen cars, of which two or three are owned by natives. Peking has only about half a dozen. In Tien-Tsin there are several streets broad, level, and well paved. Peking also has a number of good courses for motoring, and an automobile can be used to advantage there.

The Consul General believes that a good business could be done with wealthy Chinese in motor cars of styles suited to their ideas. Closed cars in particular should prove successful, as Chinese ladies never appear in public in a vehicle unless it is carefully closed in.

30 Tourists Caught by Collver Failure.

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—The filing of the bankruptcy schedule of the Collver Tours Company in the United States District Court to-day showed that between twenty-five and thirty persons who had paid for tickets for a tour around the world are in financial straits at various points in Europe and Asia. The liabilities of the company aggregate nearly $49,000 with assets of less than $2,500. Most of the creditors are the company's patrons, who had paid from $1,000 to $1,575 for a globe circuit. Among them are residents of Texas, California, New York, Ohio, and Canada.

TO NAME TRUSTEES FOR EQUITABLE LIFE

J. P. Morgan Said to Have Decided to Make Geo. W. Perkins Head of the Voting Trust.

PLAN WAS THOMAS F. RYAN'S

Morgan J. O'Brien, One of His Appointees, May Be Chosen Again—Offices Vacant Since June.

New Voting Trustees for the Equitable Life Assurance Society are expected to be named soon, the understanding in the financial district being that J. P. Morgan and his associates have about decided upon them. It is said that George W. Perkins is to head the Voting Trust, and that the other Voting Trustees will be Morgan J. O'Brien, who was one of the three Trustees under the former Ryan voting trust, and Lewis Cass Ledyard. It was explained yesterday, however, that any statement at this time was premature, as the matter was still in process of being worked out.

Since the expiration last June of the voting trust established by Thomas F. Ryan in 1905, after he purchased the majority stock of the Equitable from James Hazen Hyde, control of the 502 shares constituting the majority stock has rested personally with Mr. Morgan, who took over the stock late in 1909. When the voting trust expired, the Voting Trustees were Morgan J. O'Brien and George Westinghouse, no successor having been chosen to the late Grover Cleveland, who had been Chairman.

When Mr. Morgan purchased the stock it was announced that new Voting Trustees would be named, but the matter drifted along, partly because of the prolongation of conferences with the Insurance Department on plans which were talked about for the actual mutualization of the society. As matters stand the policy holders under the amended charter of the society elect a majority of the Directors and the stockholders the balance of the board. When the stock is again placed in the hands of Voting Trustees the owner of the majority stock will cede to the Trustees the selection of the Directors whom the stockholders are entitled to elect.

Mr. Perkins, who retired from the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. on Jan. 1, will shortly establish an office in the financial district, possibly in the Empire Building at 71 Broadway, in which the offices of the United States Steel Corporation are located. Mr. Perkins's friends, however, understand that his purpose eventually is to make his office uptown, and that he will make use of the downtown office only for a few months.

GERMAN CABLE TO BRAZIL.

To be Opened in March—Subsidized by Imperial Government.

BREMEN, Jan. 11.—The steamer Stephan sailed to-day to lay from Monrovia, Liberia, to Pernambuco the remaining stretch of the new cable line connecting Germany with Brazil. It is expected that communication will be opened at the end of March.

The enterprise belongs to the German-South American Cable Company, which has been subsidized by the German Government. The line is the first directly to connect this country with South America, and will extend from Cologne to the Canary Islands, and thence to Liberia and Pernambuco, Brazil.

MRS. SCHENK TO TELL OF PLOT AGAINST HER

Counsel Hopes to Show Her Husband's Family Is Back of Poison Charge.

SHAKE DOCTOR'S TESTIMONY

Hupp Admits Poison Symptoms May Have Been from Other Cause—Mosquito Bite First Diagnosis.

Special to The New York Times.

WHEELING, West Va., Jan. 11.—A sensation was caused to-day in the trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, who is accused of poisoning her husband, John O. Schenk, when counsel for the defense announced that Mrs. Schenk would be a witness. The defense has been asserting that the charge against Mrs. Schenk was a result of a conspiracy entered into by relatives of Schenk to separate him from his wife, and it is to prove this contention that Mrs. Schenk will be questioned.

Mrs. Schenk's attorney, Frank A. O'Brien, is a youthful lawyer, and this is his first case of importance. Experienced counsel consider his determination to open the way for a cross-examination of Mrs. Schenk to be a daring expedient, but he said to-day:

"We have no fear of placing her on the stand to undergo the vigorous cross-fire to which she will be subjected at the hands of Prosecuting Attorney J. Bernie Handlan."

At 5 o'clock this morning, four hours before the doors were thrown open, there was a knot of the curious assembled outside the Courthouse, and each minute it grew until there were fully 2,500 persons, with whom the police struggled, pleaded, and pulled and hauled. Many of them, fearing disappointment in gaining admission to the courthouse, brought lunches in baskets, boxes, and in packages.

As the crowd grew the police guard was increased, until there were double the number of men on duty at the courthouse that there were on the second day of the trial.

Dr. Frank Le Moyne Hupp, who has been in attendance on Schenk ever since he has suffered from alleged poisoning, spent the entire day undergoing cross-examination by Attorney O'Brien, who forced from him admissions damaging to his testimony given yesterday. O'Brien fired questions at the witness in rapid succession from opening to close of court.

To correct contradictory statements, the prosecutor, just before court adjourned, questioned the physician again. On direct examination yesterday Dr. Hupp said he had issued his instructions regarding the care of Schenk to Mrs. Schenk and that they were not obeyed. To-day he told Attorney O'Brien it was to Mrs. Doepkin, sister of Schenk, he had issued the instructions. This he corrected at the suggestion of the prosecutor.

Mrs. Schenk seemed elated at the skillful cross-examination by her counsel. Her face was radiant throughout. She smiled broadly when court adjourned, as she started for her cell. Throughout the day Mrs. Schenk made notes in a book and constantly prompted counsel as to dates.

Dr. Hupp Cross-Examined.

When court convened this morning Attorney O'Brien took Dr. Hupp for cross-examination after Prosecutor Handlan asked a few unimportant questions relative to the spring water analysis and to the difference between acute and chronic lead poisoning.

Questioned by O'Brien, Dr. Hupp could not remember whether it was Dr. Ackerman or Mrs. Schenk who told him, on his first visit to the Schenk home on Oct. 13, that Schenk was suffering from lead poisoning.

The witness said iron would not produce the dark lines observed on the gums, though it would discolor the teeth. Asked how much lead would be necessary to produce the lines, he said the effect was variable. The lines would follow a big dose or after time would come from small quantities.

If a man suffering from Bright's disease took a dose of lead it would produce the lines, and, he said, antimony would produce a similar effect. The physician admitted any nervous disease might cause a reflection of the knee or soft or flabby muscles as he found on examination of Schenk. He said he came to no conclusion on his first examination as to what was wrong with Schenk.

"Isn't it a fact that John Schenk's illness did not confine him to bed at any time?" asked Mr. O'Brien.

"He was never absolutely bedfast, but was too ill to get up on one or two occasions," replied the witness. He added that Schenk was not removed to the hospital because of his physical condition. It was Mrs. Schenk who suggested a nurse be called. He first treated the patient for stomach trouble and thought he might be suffering from malaria contracted abroad from a mosquito bite.

Attorney O'Brien drew from witness that Schenk had told him he was ill in Rome, being temporarily nauseated at something on the table, and that he was chilled at Oberammergau, but, said the doctor, "he said a drink of whisky had cured him."

When the witness was asked if it was not common knowledge among physicians that all the Schenks have stomach disease the prosecutor's objection was sustained.

Sure Schenk Was Poisoned.

"You do not say now that John O. Schenk was suffering from lead poisoning?"

"I did not conclude so. I gathered that from all the symptoms and what I had learned."

Dr. Hupp declared his believ was founded on the tests he had made of the medicine, which showed the patient was suffering from acute, not chronic, lead poisoning. He admitted symptoms of acute lead poisoning are present in cholera morbus, and did not know of his own knowledge whether Schenk had drunk the water containing arsenic.

"Then you are just suspicious?"

"My knowledge is more than suspicion because of symptoms at the bedside."

When he said he knew one of the nurses, Miss Klin, was a detective, Mr. O'Brien asked:

"Did Mrs. Schenk say she wanted Miss Kline dismissed because she was not the right kind of a nurse and because her husband complained of her?"

"She may have."

"Did she ever say anything about Miss Evans, the other nurse?"

"She said she had no privacy with her husband, and I think she wanted both dismissed."

"Didn't she say that Albert Schenk had been in the hospital with a paper for John to sign, and didn't she say Albert wanted to be executor in case of John's death, and didn't she express a fear Albert was trying to rob her?"

"I believe so."

Dr. Hupp denied Albert Schenk had his advice as to whether John should make a will.

Important Poison Test Omitted.

Dr. Hupp admitted that there was one infallible way to detect arsenical poisoning, but admitted that this test was not made. He admitted that the lines on Schenk's teeth might have been caused by "gum fever."

The cross-examination was completed at 4:20, and after Prosecutor Handlan had corrected Dr. Hupp's answer, Dr. Hupp said Schenk became ill after drinking the spring water, and that this happened many times. The nurse was also ill by the water. Medicine could not have caused the symptoms shown by Schenk, he repeated.

When Lawyer O'Brien again took the witness he said many persons ate arsenic, and that as high as four grains per day were taken by some. If Schenk had been an arsenic fiend, he admitted the amount found in the water would not have affected him.

Dr. Hupp left the stand with the understanding he might be recalled by either side. H. O. Baer, a druggist, will be called to-morrow. Physicians who assisted in the blood and toxicological tests will follow. Following these for the prosecution will come the nurse who attended Mr. Schenk throughout his illness.

WIRELESS PROMOTER HELD.

Cameron L. Spear Accused of Defrauding Investors in Continental Stock.

Cameron L. Spear, alleged to be the chief promoter of the Continental Wireless Telephone and Telegraph Company, the offices of which, at 56 Pine Street, were raided on Nov. 21 by direction of Postmaster General Hitchcock, appeared before Judge Hand in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court yesterday and pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with having been engaged in a scheme to defraud investors in the company's stock through the mails. Bail was fixed at $7,500, which was furnished by Almina L. Spear of Avon-by-the-Sea, N. J.

At the time of the raid Charles L. Vaughn, Treasurer of the Continental Company and also of the Columbia Finance Corporation, the fiscal agent of the wireless concern, was arrested on the same charge and put under bail for trial. Eight Post Office Inspectors were for months engaged in investigating the affairs of the Continental Company, and when the offices were raided forty mail sacks full of letters, books, and other documents were seized as evidence.

The indictment charges that Vaughn and Spear with others on June 4, 1910, "devised a scheme of artifice to defraud Walter N. Altman of Topeka, Kan., and others by falsely representing that the Continental Company was organized to operate, develop, and control various wireless concerns, and making statements concerning the earning capacity of these concerns which were false."

Spear, according to the postal authorities, is the genius who first originated the "suckers' list" which netted millions of dollars to the promoters of fake mining and other fraudulent stock enterprises. He is also said to be a close friend of Christopher Columbus Wilson, President of the United Wireless Telegraph Company, at present out on bail on a Federal indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud investors in the stock of that corporation.

POSTAL BANKS GAIN SLOWLY.

Expected Support of Foreigners in New England Not Yet in Evidence.

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—Postal savings banks in New England, inaugurated a week ago, are developing gradually, as shown by a canvass of the New England municipalities, where the Federal Government is experimenting with the new system. Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont reports agree that the postal savings banks are being patronized little by the foreign population, the class of depositors expected. This is explained, however, by insufficient advertisement.

In Rhode Island the chief patrons are the small shopkeepers, who plan to invest savings in Government bonds. In all the New England States there has been a large demand for the postal savings stamps, sold at 10 cents each, ten stamps opening a deposit account.

The bank at Norwood, Mass., has received anticipated support, in the opinion of Postmaster Fales, although foreigners are not among the heavy depositors. There has been little business at the bank at Montpelier, Vt. The bank at Berlin, N. H., has been doing satisfactorily. Several hundred accounts have been opened in the bank at Bristol, R. I.

Business at Rumford, Me., has been slow.

New Olympic to Sail June 14.

The White Star Line announced yesterday that the mammoth triple screw steamer the Olympic will leave Southampton and Cherbourg on her maiden voyage to New York via Queenstown on Wednesday, June 14, and is expected to reach here on June 21.

DR. LYMAN ARRESTED AT STEAMSHIP PIER

One-Time Spectacular Mining Promoter Accused of Taking a $4,000 Automobile.

CHARGE IS FALSE, HE SAYS

Voyage to Cuba Rudely Interrupted—Girl in Black, Valet, and Dog at the Pier with Him.

Dr. James Grant Lyman, the once spectacular mining promoter, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the Hamburg-American Line pier at the foot of West Twenty-fifth Street, just as he was about to embark on the steamship Hamburg for Cuba. He was arraigned soon afterward before Magistrate Harris in the Tombs Police Court, charged with the theft of an automobile valued at $4,000, and was held in $2,500 bail for a hearing to-morrow.

The warrant on which Dr. Lyman was arrested was issued by Magistrate Harris less than two hours before the Hamburg was to sail, and there was a lively race by detectives to get to the pier in time to nab the prosperous-looking passenger, who used to make money by manufacturing gold-ear drums, but later turned his attention to mining stock, and cleared up some $300,000 before attracting the notice of the police.

With Lyman when he was arrested yesterday was a comely young woman dressed in black, also a man who styled himself the doctor's valet and gave his name as Ferdinand Polinga. Both he and the young woman became greatly excited when detectives took Lyman into custody. They disappeared, however, upon learning that a charge of grand larceny had been preferred against the one-time exploiter of mining stock.

As told in yesterday's TIMES, Dr. Lyman purchased a $4,000 automobile from one of the large dealers here in November, sold it in Cuba, then returned to the same dealer and purchased another car, valued also at $4,000. For this, however, he did not pay cash. His appearance of having plenty of money, coupled with the fact that he was able to pay cash for the first car, influenced the dealer to accept his note for $3,860, the remaining $140 to be paid in cash as rental for the car while he was in town. This transaction was in December.

The firm from whom Lyman bought the car was the Renault-Freres Company, and the sale was made by H. U. Kibbe, the assistant manager. Mr. Kibbe played a leading part in the apprehension of Dr. Lyman yesterday.

Perhaps Lyman's trip to Cuba would not have been interrupted had not Mr. Gibbe learned a few days ago that the first automobile purchased by him had been sold so hurriedly in Havana that the purchaser did not have time to get it off the steamship and that it was brought back to New York, then taken back to Cuba again before reaching its purchaser.

This, coupled with the knowledge that Lyman had shipped the second car to Havana soon after he purchased it, aroused the suspicion of Mr. Gibbe and of General Manager Paul Lacroix of the Renault-Freres Company. They employed a private detective agency to find Lyman, but the sleuths hunted all over town without being able to get track of him. They say he studiously refrained from going near his office.

Lyman and his lawyers deny this, however, and say that he was at the office every day since the car was purchased. They also deny that the purchase of the automobile was at all out of the ordinary, and that the charge of larceny is absurd.

In spite of the failure of the detectives to find Lyman, word reached Mr. Kibbe and Mr. Lacriox early yesterday morning that he had booked passage on the Hamburg, which was scheduled to leave at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Kibbe hastened to communicate with the private detectives. He also called up the firm's lawyer and asked advice.

It was suggested that Mr. Kibbe and the detectives verify the fact that Lyman was really to sail for Cuba, then appear before Magistrate Harris in the Tombs. Mr. Kibbe chartered a taxicab and with the detectives hustled to the Hamburg-American Line pier. They were assured that Lyman had bought his ticket and booked his stateroom.

Over to the Criminal Courts Building sped the taxicab. Mr. Kibbe was joined there by John P. Murray of the law firm of Coudert Brothers. Magistrate Harris, upon learning the nature of the case, issued a warrant.

Accompanied by two warrant officers of the Tombs Court staff, Mr. Kibbe and a detective jumped into the taxicab and headed for the pier. It was nearly 1 o'clock when they got there. There they learned that Lyman had sent his baggage ahead. It was piled near the gangway.

Mr. Kibbe and his party waited patiently. At 1:30 o'clock Lyman appeared in a taxicab, and with him were the so-called valet and the young woman in black. In his arms Lyman held a small Pomeranian dog. When the taxicab drew up at the pier a warrant officer opened the door and said:

"I want you." Lyman whispered something to the young woman, who sprang out of the door on the opposite side, taking the dog from Lyman. The prisoner instructed Polinga to send his baggage to storage at Park Avenue and Thirty-second Street, and, re-entering the taxicab with a policeman and the young woman, he drove to the office of Abraham Levy, the lawyer. There the young woman left them. Accompanied by an assistant in Mr. Levy's office, the prisoner went on to the Tombs Court and was duly arraigned on complaint of Mr. Kibbe.

Dr. Lyman told the Magistrate that his office was at 47 East Forty-seventh Street, where, he explained, he had a real estate business. Bail was quickly furnished and Lyman left the courtroom hurriedly.

WILL NOT DELAY GOOD ROADS

Gov. Dix So Assures Road Contractors and Monroe County Delegation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Gov. Dix today expressed the belief that he had satisfied those who were apprehensive of delay or danger in his course upon good roads contracts. To a committee of the Road Builders' Association and later a delegation from Monroe County he said his sole aim was to protect the interests of the taxpayers. He explained that there would be no unreasonable delay of the highway work which has been planned for the coming Spring and Summer.

A week ago the Governor asked the Highway Commission to defer action on contracts which were to be awarded this week, stating that he desired the State Engineer to pass upon the plans and specifications and report as to whether or not they provided for economical work. The road contractors arrived this week and were disturbed when they learned that the contracts had been held up. They appointed the committee which to-day told the Governor the association had no desire to interfere with his plans for economy, and it mattered little to them whether the work was supervised by a Highway Commission or the State Engineer, but that the contractors were vitally concerned in the question of when the contracts would be awarded. The Governor said that this year's contracts probably would be awarded before April 1.

The delegation from Monroe County, which included members of the Roads Committee of the Supervisors, asked the Governor to do nothing which would weaken the present system of road building. He replied that he intended to strengthen the system and that he believed the delegation would be satisfied with the outcome.

It is expected that a bill will be introduced in the Legislature next week to provide for the elimination of the State Highway Commission and the Advisory Board of Engineers charged with the supervision of barge canal plans. In his message to the Legislature Gov. Dix expressed the opinion that both boards should be a part of the State Engineer's office. It is probable that the highway bill will establish a highway bureau in the State Engineer's office under a Superintendent.

VALUATION INCREASE STIRS LAND BROKERS

Five Per Cent. Above Real Values Based on a Recent Sale, Says an Operator.

HURTS CITY'S BONDING POWER

Real Estate Board to Confer with President Purdy on the $897,000,000 Jump in Taxable Values.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers is in a ferment over the increase of $897,000,000 in the assessed valuation of city real estate for purposes of taxation in 1911. A committee, consisting of E. A. Tredwell and Joel S. De Selding, has been appointed to confer with President Purdy of the Tax Board and report to a special meeting of the Board of Governors to be held next Tuesday. Like other real estate interests and taxpayers, the members of the Board of Brokers are still little informed as to the specific increases made, but they are disturbed over the great total and are anxious to find out through their committee wherein the justification for it lies.

"To hand to real estate," said a prominent member of the board yesterday, "at the end of the worst season it has had in ten years an increase of 10 per cent. in tax values is to give it the worst slap in the face real estate has ever had from any city government.

"In the recent Bruce sale the total cash realized approximated only 5 per cent. more than the total assessed valuation of all the parcels offered, which necessarily means that a good many parcels sold below their assessed valuation. I believe the records of the Tax Department will bear me out in the assertion that the assessed valuation of property in Manhatthn generally and in the aggregate last year was within 5 per cent. of the prices realized on parcels that were transferred. The new valuation adds about 10 per cent., so that it is apparently about 5 per cent. above the real value.

"The city is the biggest seller of bonds in the market. If the city's real estate is overcapitalized, the city is in the same position with regard to a bond issue as any overcapitalized corporation. Its securities are subject to the same deterioration as any other securities that are not first class.

"There are a number of properties in the city that are heavily mortgaged, and those held by savings banks and other corporations are largely past due, subject to call at any interest period. If the corporation holding the mortgage finds that its borrower, who is having difficulty in meeting his obligations, now has his net income decreased through the imposition of more taxes, will it be persuaded that the property is really better security, or will the man who is sweating to carry the load decide he has had enough and tell it to take the property?"

The members of the Allied Real Estate Interests have been requested to advise its President, Allan Robinson, how they have fared in the new assessments, and until this information is gathered the organization will not be prepared to take any attitude in regard to the assessment as a whole.

Other interests will be in the same waiting attitude for some little time, as they do not yet know definitely where the increases have been made and in what amount.

The loudest complaints are expected to come from Brooklyn and to a lesser extent from Queens.

"We are not yet in a position to discuss the matter," said a big Brooklyn real estate man yesterday, "but if some of the statements made prove to be correct, the situation will be a very serious one.

"I have been told that a big list of Brooklyn property could be made up and offered for sale at 60 per cent. of the new assessed valuation. Brooklyn Heights, where real estate has been dead for years, is said to have suffered a raise of 22 per cent., and the same is reported in regard to Bensonhurst. It will take some time to find out just where these increases apply and how far they can be defended.

MME. NORDICA'S CONCERT.

More Wagner Excerpts Given with Orchestral Accompaniment.

The second of Mme. Nordica's Wagner concerts was given in Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon, where there was an audience larger than that at the first one a week ago. Mme. Nordica, as before, had the assistance of the New York Symphony Orchestra under Mr. Walter Damrosch and of Mr. Barran Berthold, tenor; also of Mrs. Florence Mulford, mezzo-soprano, and Mr. David Mannes, who played the solo violin part in the arrangement of the "Good Friday Spell" from the third act of "Parsifal." The orchestral numbers were the "Meistersinger" prelude and the "Sounds of the Forest" from "Siegfried."

Mme. Nordica sang the duet and final scene from the last act of "Siegfried," beginning with the awakening of Brünhilde by Siegfried, in which Mr. Berthald had the part of the hero; the love duet from the second act of "Tristan und Isolde," including the call of warning by Brangäne, with Mr. Berthald and Mrs. Mulford in the music of Tristan and of Brangäne, and the "Liebstod," preceded by the prelude, from the same music drama. Most of these excerpts bear transplantation to the concert platform fairly well, because they deal more with emotional situations and climaxes than with actual dramatic occurrences. Only the close of the duet from "Tristan und Isolde" gives the listener a sudden shock when, after the rising torrent of ecstacy, the discordant crash comes, announcing the approach of King Marke and Melot, and then, to bring the fragment to an end, is politely followed, rather than resolved, with a tonic trial.

Mme. Nordica seemed not to have her voice quite so well under control as she did at the first concert. It did not seem so powerful and so responsive to the demands made upon it, especially in the duet from "Tristan." The final scene, the "Liebstod," from that work, went better; and the fact that Mme. Nordica's voice did not always rise triumphant above the orchestral tone was due to some excess of that tone in the louder passages. She was at her best in the great scene from "Siegfried."

Mrs. Mulford sang the warning call in the "Tristan" love duet with excellent effect. Mr. Berthald did certain passages well, but it seemed in general as if he were hardly equal to his arduous task.

ITALIAN SOCIETY'S CONCERT.

Bossi's Sonata Impresses Audience with Sincerity of Composer.

Societies have been formed in the past for the purpose of introducing large quantities of national music of various countries into America. A French society with such a purpose has disappeared. The Russian Symphony Society, of course, is still with us, and last night a new organization made its appearance at Carnegie Hall. This was the Societa per la Musica Italiana and its purpose seems to be to play Italian chamber music.

New Italian composers have their own way in the opera house. They occasionally—especially the sixteenth and seventeenth century ones—appear on song recital programmes, but they are rarely heard at chamber music or symphony recitals. There is probably some reason for this. However, last night's programme gave the audience a taste of some of these hitherto untasted Italian sweets.

It was unfortunate that there should have been a half hour wait after the concert was announced to commence. Those who had arrived on time were not in a mood to listen to a piece of music nearly forty minutes long, as the Bossi sonata proved to be, at 8:45 o'clock.

However, this work is one of great interest. Bossi is one of the best of the modern Italian composers. He, too, tried to write operas at one time, but he had a certain "serenity of style" which did not seem to fit in with the modern Italian idea of what a lyric drama should be. So for many years he has contented himself with teaching, playing the organ, and writing chamber music. His Trio Sinfonico, Opus 123, is a formidable work, and should be given half of a programme to itself, but it impressed last night's hearers with the evident sincerity of the composer, who has interesting things to say.

The other works in trio form were an "Idillio" by Giovanni Lucietto and a trio by Amilcare Zanella.

A middle group was devoted to piano soli, and here great catholicity of taste reigned. The group commenced with a sonata by Clementi, "the father of the piano"; an adagio by Galuppi, who wrote operas himself in his time, followed. Then came a gavotte by Giuseppe Aldo Randegger, the pianist of the evening; a spinning song by Francesco Cilèa, who is known here by three performances of his opera, "Adriano Lecouvreur," and a polonaise by Niccolo Van Westerhout.

The performers of the evening were Leonardo Brill, violinist; Giuseppe Aldo Randegger, pianist, and Paul Kefer, 'cellist. Fine balance of tone, accuracy of attack, and a sense of nuance are not to be expected of so new an organization, but much of the music would have sounded better if the pianist had shown more regard for the ensemble spirit. His pedaling was not conducive to one's enjoyment of the Clementi sonata.

MISS ORMOND'S RECITAL.

A Mezzo Soprano Sings with Taste and Feeling in Mendelssohn Hall.

Miss Lilla Ormond, who is not wholly a stranger to the New York concert halls, though she is not familiar in them, gave a song recital yesterday afternoon that had pleasing qualities. There was an audience of considerable numbers. Her voice is a mezzo-soprano of rather dark quality, but agreeable, especially when she does not make excessive demands for power upon it; it is well controlled and intelligently used; she sings with taste and musical understanding; and in songs that are not freighted with deep feeling, with much charm and expressiveness. She sang German songs by Schubert, Schumann, and Bruckler; French ones by Débussy, d'Indy, Paladilhe, and Hahn, and American ones by Cadman, Huhn, and Chadwick.

Miss Ormond's French diction is better than her German, and is in truth uncommonly good. In the French songs she seemed quite in her element, and she gave them with real style and delicate sentiment. She put something more into the recitative and aria from Débussy's early work, "L'Enfant Prodigue." D'Indy's "Madrigal" is an interesting song, after the manner of certain old French chansons, and Miss Ormond sang it with much grace.

MORE PROOF

The strongest proof we have of the superiority of Martinolar teeth is the testimony of our pleased patients.

Dear Sirs:—

I wish to express my satisfaction with the dental work you did for me. When I came to you I had very few teeth remaining in my mouth and most of those were not in good condition. I now have as many teeth above and below as nature gave me, and they are solid and comfortable and give me as good service as my natural teeth did at their best.

Your method of tooth restoration is all that you claim for it, and I will take pleasure in recommending you to anyone in need of dentistry.

Very truly yours,
ISAAC P. VANDERBEEK.

There is no uncertainty about testimony of this sort, and it should convince you of the superiority of our work.

We invite you to call at our office for a free consultation and examination of your mouth and let us explain what we can do for you.

If you cannot call at once, send for our book, "Martinolar Dentistry."

It is sent free on request.

The reading of this book has brought us patients from everywhere.

PRISON FOR FORGER ACCUSED BY MASONS

Menendez Was Also Concerned with Revolutionary Committee in Cuba.

GAVE BAD $25,000 DRAFT

Masonic Brethren in Cuba Brand Him as a Swindler—Charged with Participation in a Murder There.

After being denounced by his Masonic brethren as a swindler and with being implicated in a murder, Baldomero Menendez, alias Manuel Alvarez, who was convicted of forgery in the second degree before Judge Rosalsky, in General Sessions, three months ago, was sentenced to not less than three years and six months nor more than nine years and six months in Sing Sing yesterday. Sentence has repeatedly been postponed in Menendez's case because of the many conflicting reports regarding his character, the Cuban Government alleging that he is a notorious criminal. Menendez maintained that he was not the man mentioned in the police record furnished to Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel, who prosecuted the case, but was a representative of a Cuban revolutionary committee, and that the draft he was charged with forging had been given to him by this committee.

John J. O'Meara, the lawyer who defended Menendez, went to Cuba to investigate the record of his client, and said that although the Chief of Police at Havana said there was a man named Menendez who had a long criminal record, his client was not identified as the man wanted. O'Meara also stated that his client was a wealthy man, besides being an officer in the Spanish Army, and owner of valuable real estate in Cuba.

The communication from the Masonic lodge, which was read to the prisoner by Judge Rosalsky, was sent to E. M. H. Ehlers, the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge in this State, by the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge in Cuba. It was in reply to a letter written by Mr. Ehlers, when Menendez, after being convicted, appealed to the Masons of this State for help on the ground that he was being persecuted by President Gomez of Cuba because of his activity in the revolutionary party.

Menendez was convicted of having given a draft for $25,000, drawn on the Bank of the Island of Cuba, to a moving-picture concern in this city in payment for moving-picture apparatus. At the time of his arrest Menendez had in his possession drafts on the same bank amounting to over $1,000,000, and which he claimed were given to him by the Revolutionary Committee for the purpose of buying arms and ammunition. He also had $2,000 on his person when arrested. Several letters, addressed to Manuel Alvarez, were also found upon him, all of which referred to the drafts and mentioned the names of several very prominent men in Cuba who had failed to make good their promises to subscribe to the revolution for fear President Gomez would prosecute them.

In the letter from the Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Cuba it is stated that, although Menendez is a Master Mason, legal steps have been taken to have him removed from the order. The letter contained this sentence: "Alvarez is a grafter, a swindler, a scoundrel, a usurper of properties belonging to his brother, and was implicated in the murder of a Spanish officer."

In the record which was furnished to Mr. Wasservogel and was vouched for by the Havana Chief of Police it is stated that Menendez is now wanted in Havana for larceny and swindling, has been twice convicted for larceny, and was at one time arrested for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Sanude, but later released, there not being sufficient evidence on which to hold him.

Menendez was also referred to as the "Guitar Swindler," having received this title because he used to travel around Cuba with a contrivance shaped like a guitar and punctured with numerous holes varying in size. Menendez, it was said, used to tell people that by pouring certain chemicals into these holes and turning a crank he could produce gold coins. It is alleged that he swindled many people in this manner.

In the police record Menendez is called by his own name, while in the letter from the Masonic lodge in Cuba he is referred to as Manuel Alvarez, the name he used while engaged in the work assigned to him by the Revolutionary Committee.

In order to discredit the charges made against Menendez, his counsel went to Cuba, where he found that his client was a Colonel in the Spanish army and a member of one of the King's most famous regiments. He also learned, he stated, that Menendez had large sums of money deposited in various banks in Cuba and Europe, and that his account had never stood lower than $10,000 in any of these.

According to Mr. O'Meara, Menendez bought 80,000 rifles in this country and gave in payment a draft for £25,000, which was honored. Mr. O'Meara also stated that Menendez later confessed to him that the draft he gave to the moving-picture concern was a forgery, but that at the time he was unaware of the fact, the committee having told him it was good. Menendez, O'Meara explained, said the draft had not been forged intentionally by any one, but had been given to the committee by the head of a large grocery concern in Havana, who later became afraid that his name might become known by President Gomez and his property confiscated.

ADMITS KILLING WOMAN.

Young Negro Tells Providence Court It Was a Mistake.

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 11.—Clifford E. Thompson, a young negro, who confessed last night that he murdered Mrs. Minka Fine, a storekeeper, pleaded guilty in the Sixth District Court to-day. When the warrant was read Thompson appeared not to hear, but stood leaning on the bar for support and sobbing. Upon a second question he answered, "I don't want to plead guilty of killing the woman, your Honor. I might have done it by mistake."

"Guilty or not guilty?" the court again asked, and Thompson, his voice scarcely audible, replied "Guilty." The Deputy Sheriff half carried him away, to be held without bail for the Grand Jury.

The penalty for murder in this State is life imprisonment. Robbery is believed to have been the motive for the crime.

ROBIN BANK DIRECTOR TO BE INDICTED NEXT

Grand Jury Expected to Return a True Bill Against One in the Northern's Board.

ALIENISTS SEE A ROBIN "FIT"

Prisoner Falls in What Appears to be a Convulsion, but the Doctors Are Skeptical.

It was learned last night that the Grand Jury, which is investigating the relations existing between Joseph G. Robin and the Northern Bank, will find an indictment against one of the Directors of that institution to-day. Up to last Monday the Grand Jury confined its investigation to Robin's dealings with the Washington Savings Bank. They are now looking into the dealings between Robin and the Northern Bank and South Shore Traction Company.

Robin was brought over from the Tombs yesterday and taken to the library of the District Attorney's office, where he was met by his counsel, William Travers Jerome; his alienist, Dr. Austin Flint, and Assistant District Attorney Clark and the District Attorney's alienists, Drs. Allan McLane Hamilton and Smith Ely Jelliffe. The prisoner was examined for three hours by the alienists. Just as he was leaving the room he fell into what appeared to be a convulsion. None of the doctors present would make any official statement in regard to the attack, but it was said that they were inclined to be skeptical about it.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Bankers' Realty and Security Company, at Forty-second Street and Broadway, which was engaged in buying, selling, mortgaging, and leasing real estate and was controlled by Robin, by these creditors: Northern Bank of New York, $7,171; Washington Savings Bank, $699, and Robert Thedford, $160 for coal. Arba K. Alford, Special Deputy Superintendent of Banks, in charge of the Northern Bank, verified the claim of the bank, which is on a note of the company, dated Nov. 6, 1910, for $7,100, payable two months after date to the order of the Railway Traction Construction Company, which was indorsed by the last-named company, delivered to the bank, and was not paid at maturity, on Jan. 6.

Gordon F. Smith, Special Deputy Superintendent of Banks, in charge of the Washington Savings Bank, verified its claim, which is for money loaned on Nov. 28. It was alleged that the Bankers' Realty and Security Company is insolvent, and committed an act of bankruptcy on Oct. 18 by making a payment of $23,000 to the South Shore Traction Company to prefer it. Rollins & Rollins were the attorneys for the petitioning creditors.

A meeting of the depositors in the Washington Savings Bank, who have joined the Depositors' Protective Association, will be held next week to see what steps can be taken to defend their interests and to consider the advisability of bringing civil proceedings against the Trustees in case there is any loss of their accounts.

Clarke & Clarke, 51 Chambers Street, have been retained as attorneys for the Protective Committee, and Richard H. Clarke, Jr., said yesterday that he would be glad if any depositors desiring to join the organization would communicate with him.

Przhevalsk Not Badly Damaged.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 11.—Communication with Przhevalsk, Russian Turkestan, which was interrupted by the earthquake of Jan. 4, was re-established today. The town was not greatly damaged, but the northern shore of Lake Issikkul, to the west of Przhevalsk, was severely shaken, and in that vicinity fifty persons were killed.

LEDERLE EXPLAINS THE GRUBER CHARGE

Food Inspector's Shipment of Fruit to Him Was Without His Sanction, He Says.

DIDN'T KNOW WHO SENT IT

When He Learned He Remonstrated—Dr. Bensel, Sanitary Superintendent, Tells of Gifts He Received.

The orders alleged to have been issued by Bayard C. Fuller, chief of the food division of the Health Department, to Inspector Isaac Gruber, asking him to send two crates of fruit to the Summer home of Health Commissioner Ernst J. Lederle, did not originate with Dr. Lederle, according to a statement issued by him yesterday.

Far from ordering that the fruit be sent to him, he says, he was much surprised when an express company delivered it at his home at Wallock's Point, Stamford, Conn. He was ill and could not investigate. When he returned to his office he found the subordinate who had sent the crates of fruit to his chief and admonished him not to do the like again. There was no other shipment, Dr. Lederle declares, than this one, for which Inspector Gruber retained his memorandum order made public yesterday, after he had been ordered tried upon charges of insubordination, incompetence, and neglect of duty.

Dr. Lederle, for the Board of Health, announced its conclusion on Gruber's case yesterday in the following brief bulletin:

> Isaac Gruber, an Inspector of Foods, has this day been dismissed from the Department of Health, after a hearing, on charges in connection with the condemnation of a shipment of potatoes on Jan. 4, 1911.

Dr. Lederle also announced the dismissal from the department, as part of the process of housecleaning, of Joseph F. Baker, meat inspector; John Rudman, food inspector, and Russell Hoag, food inspector, all charged with making false reports, and of W. J. Woods, Assistant Register of Records in Richmond, for immoral conduct. He stated that two medical inspectors, a veterinarian, a food inspector, and a clerk are under charges and will be tried in a few days, charges affecting this group completing the process of reorganization now under way.

Dr. Lederle Explains It.

In giving his view of the facts leading up to Gruber's trial and dismissal and of the fruit incident Dr. Lederle said:

"Certain newspapers have published statements purporting to have been made by Isaac Gruber, an Inspector of Foods, dismissed this day from the Department of Health, relative to shipments of fruit to myself and other officials of the department, and implying that said Gruber procured this fruit at the instance of another Inspector of the department.

"The facts in this matter are as follows:

"The day following the condemnation of the potatoes, in connection with which case Inspector Gruber was given a hearing and dismissed, and after the statements of all the interested parties had been taken, Mr. Gruber was called before me for his statement, which he gave.

"I had been informed by one of his superior officers that Gruber had made the statement to him that if the Commissioner or the board went into this matter too deeply, he would explode a bomb in the department. Gruber admitted that he had made this statement. I asked him what he meant by such a statement and also whether he knew anything about the case that he had not told me. He refused to answer. I again asked him what he meant and asked him to think the matter over carefully before answering, as his failure to answer would be considered insubordination. His answer was that there was no power on earth that could make him answer. He was then ordered to answer the question, which he refused to do, whereupon he was suspended from duty.

Fruit Supposed to be Bought.

"From the accounts which appeared the following day in the newspaper, it appears that the Inspector gave to others the information which he refused to give to me, the principal charge being that he had been, from time to time, compelled to obtain fruit for officials in the department, mentioning particularly instances where fruit had been sent to me, to the Sanitary Superintendent, and others. My knowledge of this matter is as follows:

"During the last Summer, while on my vacation at my country home, and while ill there, I received by express some fruit. There was no intimation as to who the sender was. Immediately on my return to the city I made inquiries and found that an employe of the department had sent this fruit to me.

"I have known this man for about eighteen years. I thanked him for the fruit and requested him to discontinue sending it to me, and that if he had any knowledge of any other person sending me fruit, to request them to discontinue the practice. He seemed offended at my attitude and said he hoped that I did not attribute any improper motive to him, and said that whenever he made such gifts it was entirely of his own volition and that the purchases were made in the usual manner.

"I assured him that I believed this to be the case, but insisted on his discontinning to make me such presents. The practice was discontinued."

The Mayor Praises Lederle.

Mayor Gaynor, when asked if he cared to comment upon the Gruber charges replied that it would be time enough to reply when "some responsible party" attacked Commissioner Lederle. "He is one of the most sensitively honest men I have ever known," said the Mayor.

In the City Hall it is understood that Mayor Gaynor had much difficulty in persuading Dr. Lederle to give up his position at the head of the "Lederle Laboratories" to take up the duties of Health Commissioner, and that he considers him one of the most efficient men in the public service.

At the office of Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick it was said that Bayard C. Fuller, the Health Department official whose initials were signed on a letter to Gruber, was under suspension pending the completion of an examination of his office.

Dr. Walter Bensel, Sanitary Superintendent of the Health Department, explained the fact that boxes of fruit had been sent to his Summer home at Amityville by declaring that he received these presents from Bayard C. Fuller, whose family he had attended professionally without ever rendering a bill. He said he always thought that the fruit had been paid for by Fuller.

ROAD DRIVERS' ELECTION.

Mid-week Matinees Under Discussion—Dinner Committee Named.

The annual meeting of the New York Road Drivers' Association was held at the Speedway Clubhouse last night and elected the following officers: President—Joseph F. Gibbons; First Vice President—Dr. J. H. Ferster; Second Vice President—Ed J. La Place; Third Vice President—Thomas Lawson; Secretary and Treasurer—Dr. Joseph Semon. Few changes were made in the Executive Committee and Board of Directors from that of last year.

The annual report showed that the association, after paying all its indebtedness, had a cash balance in its treasury of $546.95, against some indebtedness at the beginning of 1910. The membership had already passed the 300 mark, and in all respects the amateur Speedway organization was in a more prosperous condition than ever in the history of the big drive.

The following new members were proposed and accepted: Tom Keegan, C. J. Farr, Charles F. Fendt, J. H. C. Watlington, I. V. Hunt, J. H. Wheeler, and J. J. and M. F. McDonald. Brooklyn horsemen accepted were W. H. Halsted, Jack Phillips, Wilson Reid, J. H. Powers, George Inhiken, Charles Moncrief, and A. W. Mahler.

Before the meeting closed it was apparent that there will be the hottest kind of a fight to resume matinée races on the drive. At the last meeting of 1910 a resolution was passed to the effect that no set brushes or matinées be held on the speedway for cups, ribbons, and other trophies during the week up to July 1, 1911.

This rule was adopted for the first six months of the year for the sole purpose of having full turnouts on Sundays, but the opposing members now say that if allowed matinées on Wednesdays they will agree to brush their horses on Sundays as well. No final decision was reached, and the prospects are that the decision already adopted will be forced and after that some changes made, as the majority appear to be in favor of temporary abandonment of set matinées and brushes.

The President appointed the following as a committee to arrange the annual dinner: William Cahill, Chairman; E. J. La Place, H. B. Clarke, Thomas G. Hinds, S. B. Wolf, R. O. Currie, T. H. Harper, E. Shoemaker, J. J. Corkery, and M. C. Reynolds.

Harvard's Easy Hockey Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 11.—Contrary to expectations, the St. Francis Xavier Hockey seven of Antigonish, Nova Scotia, was not much of a match for Harvard to-night. The score was 8 to 2 in Harvard's favor. The Cambridge men were better in every respect and made six goals before the visitors made any. It wasn't till late in the second half that the latter put the puck in the Harvard net. Leslie of Harvard was cut back of the ear by a hockey stick.

NEWS OF THE ATHLETES.

In addition to the already long list of events scheduled for competition at the games of the New York Caledonian Club, in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 10, there will be a 440-yard handicap open to all Catholic League members. For this event gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded. Attention is being directed to the games from many quarters, and a big out-of-town entry seems assured, as entry forms are being asked for by athletes of cities within a radius of 100 miles.

An interesting relay race at six miles is promised at the games of the Brooklyn Post Office clerks in the Forty-second Regiment Armory, Jan. 21, when Win Bailey and Ed Fitzgerald, representing the New York A. C.; Harry Jensen and J. J. Reynolds, Yonkers Marathon winners team, and the Mohawk A. C. team, Lorz and McDowell, pair up. The conditions of the race permit the men to change at each lap. The Pastimes, Central Y. M. C. A., Irish-American A. C., New York A. C., Mohawks, and Xaviers will be represented in the Woodruff relay race.

Gold split-second watches, jewelry, and toilet articles will be the prizes at the annual Winter athletic carnival of the Irish-American A. C. in Madison Square Garden Saturday, Feb. 4. In the relay events gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded to first, second, and third men respectively. The following handicaps will be decided: Sixty-yard, (8-foot limit;) 70-yard low hurdles, 440-yard, (12-yard limit;) one-mile run, (60-yard limit;) two-mile walk, running high jump, (5-inch limit;) running hop, step, and jump, 24-pound shotput, (4-foot limit;) 220-yard run, open to non-athletic members of the I.-A. A. C. The special events are 10-mile team race, two men to a team, (scratch,) and a two-mile run, (scratch.) The relay contests will be for elementary schoolboys at 352 yards, for collegians and prep school boys at one mile, for Catholic Athletic League members at one mile, and a four-man race between teams representing New York and Brooklyn.

BERT KEYES IN HOME RING BEATS FERNS

New York Boy, After Two Years' Absence, Wins Easily at Sharkey A. C.

Bert Keyes, a former prominent figure in New York boxing circles and a premier in the lightweight division a few years ago, made his first appearance in almost two years before a home crowd last night at the Sharkey Athletic Club and gained a clean-cut decision over Harry Ferns. Keyes was the aggressor from the start and carried the fighting to his opponent at all stages of the game. Ferns weathered the storm well for nine rounds, but was in distress in the final chapter and barely escaped a knockout. The final bell found Keyes tearing in as if to get over a "haymaker" and Ferns was judiciously hanging on in order to stay to the finish.

Keyes had the same old wallop that formerly made him a terror in the lightweight division, and he landed it with telling effect several times on Ferns's head and stomach. During the latter part of the bout Ferns did little more than protect himself from Bert's terrific swings, and this kept him busy about all the time as Keyes was always willing to bore in and mix matters. The boys had agreed to protect themselves at all times, and this resulted in considerable prolonged clinching, which required hard work for the referee before the boys would break. There was little boxing shown during the ten rounds. It was clinch or slug, and there was enough of the latter in evidence at all times to make the bout interesting.

Keyes began to unload the hard wallops in the first round, starting off with a hard right swing to Ferns's head and following up with a left swing to the body. Ferns seemed unable to stop the long swings which Keyes was continually making for his head, and he had to take several stinging blows during the round. Ferns managed to get over two or three uppercuts, but they only served to make Keyes bore in more than before with both arms swinging and both landing on Fernes's head. The round was all in favor of Keyes.

The second round was the quietest of the ten. Ferns was more successful in blocking the long swings and Keyes was unable to do much damage. Bert blocked well enough, so he did not suffer to any extent. The two indulged in much clinching and wrestling in this round and neither had any advantage.

Keyes rushed from his corner in the third and backed Ferns to the ropes, sending in a shower of right and left swings which Ferns seemed powerless to block. Two fast exchanges followed and in each Keyes had the advantage. He was landing the cleaner blows in the open fighting and also pounding Ferns hard in the clinches. The latter was fighting cautiously, making no effort to lead and his only blows were delivered in the clinches. Keyes landed a hard right swing to the stomach and hard rights and left to the Ferns's head just before the bell. The round belonged to Keyes by a good margin.

In the fourth, the pair indulged in several fast exchanges, both swinging with head down, and Keyes landing hard and often. The fifth round was another for Keyes, who did all the leading and forced Ferns around the ring. Keyes changed his tactics somewhat in this round and substituted a left jab and right uppercuts for the long swings which had been doing all the damage. These blows proved as effective as the wallops and he used them often during the remaining rounds. As a result Ferns devoted all his time to solving the coming attack and trying to block it.

The sixth round was slow for two minutes, both indulging in considerable clinching and wrestling. In the last minute there was plenty of action, both getting back to hard slugging. Keyes again led in the exchanges. In the seventh Ferns did better defense work than in the previous rounds and Keyes was not able to land effectively. But Ferns made no effort to force the fighting and let Keyes chase him around the ring.

In the eighth Keyes led all the way, and Ferns did not land one hard blow during the round. In the ninth Ferns made a rally, but it was short lived, and after he got over four or five uppercuts on Keyes he went back to his former style and fought entirely on the defensive. In the last round Keyes, after taking a few stinging blows, went after Ferns as if for a knockout, and pounded him around the ring. Bert's hard punches had Ferns weak, and he was content to hang on during the greater part of the round. Another minute of fighting would have finished Ferns.

In the semi-final bout of six rounds Mike Carroll and Richie Ryan furnished a fast draw. Kid Albert outpointed Joe Palmer in four rounds and Young Solly stopped Charlie Burns in three rounds. Solly was outweighed, but he had plenty of science and a hard punch, and Carroll went down four times, twice for the count of nine, before the bout was stopped.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Hugo Kelly and Tony Caponi have signed articles for a fight at Milwaukee, Feb. 22. No stipulations were made regarding to weight.

Joe Sieger and Joe Stein will clash to-night in a ten-round bout before the Clinton A. C. at Jefferson Hall, Columbia Street. Eddie Smith and Kid Rose will meet in the semi-final of six rounds.

Packy McFarland did not reach New York yesterday as was expected. A matter of business importance prevented his departure from Chicago after he had made reservation. McFarland is putting his money to good use, and it is the settlement of a mortgage that keeps him at home until to-day. But Packy is also training in Chicago and will be in the best possible condition to battle with Jack Goodman at the Fairmont A. C. next Tuesday night. As Goodman remarked yesterday: "That boy does not have to do any hard training. He is always in condition. But he will also find me in great shape. I never felt stronger than I do now, and mark my words, I am going to take some long chances getting to McFarland next Tuesday. I'll box with him or slug with him, just as he wants it."

At the National Sporting Club to-morrow night Abe Attell and Patsy Kline of Newark are carded as the main attraction at ten rounds. Kline is expected to make even a better showing against the champion than did Joe Coster last Monday night, when the spectators were evenly divided as to who earned the decision. Attell has the greatest respect for his coming antagonist and admits that Patsy has come nearer to handing him the "sleep punch" than any fighter he has met in years.

WU'S QUEUE TO BE CUT OFF

On Jan. 30—Many San Francisco Chinese to Follow His Example.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—All the local Chinese newspapers publish what purports to be a message from Wu Ting-fang, ex-Minister to the United States, announcing the date he has fixed for the removal of his queue. The message reads:

"His Excellency Wu Ting-fang, having given the matter deep consideration, has come to the conclusion that the most auspicious time for disposing of superfluous appendages will be the sixteenth day in the first month of the third year of his Imperial Highness Hsuan-t'ung. On that day, therefore, he will order the barber to cut off his queue."

The date fixed is Jan. 30 in the Western calendar. On that day, it is reported, many local merchants will follow Mr. Wu's example and celebrate the parting with their queues at a big banquet.

Augustus H. Skillin, receiver in bankruptcy of Louis Levussove, dealer in human hair goods at 128 East Sixteenth Street, said yesterday that the hair market had been affected by the reports from the Far East that the Chinese were to cut off their queues. Last year, he said, was a boom year in the hair business, and manufacturers had loaded up with hair, and now they found that prices had dropped and the demand had slackened.

"I am informed," he said, "that this is due to the news from the Orient that the Chinese are to cut off their queues, as it is expected that large quantities of hair will be sent to this country to be sold."

TAFT CLASSMATE A SUICIDE.

Man Who Said He Went to School with the President Takes Gas.

Inability to find employment because of his gray hairs was given in a letter by Henry S. Oppenheimer, 50 years old, of 332 West Twenty-second Street, as the reason for his suicide by gas. Oppenheimer was found dead in his room yesterday with a gas tube in his mouth and this letter on a table near by:

> January 6, 1911.
>
> To Whom It May Concern: The undersigned desires to say that no one is to blame for this act. He wishes to convey as his reasons for leaving that when a man shows gray hair his services are not wanted; and even if accepted, he is relegated to the rear. My pride and ability naturally resented this. This is the why and the wherefore.
>
> My sister, Mrs. Charles Mendel of Louisville, Ky., in care of the Kentucky Jeans Clothing Company, corner Seventh and Main Streets, is my nearest living relative.
>
> HENRY S. OPPENHEIMER.
>
> Known in my youth as Saul Oppenheimer.

Oppenheimer had been boarding for the last six or seven years with William E. Murphy. Mrs Murphy said that while he formerly had appeared to have plenty of money, of late he had been falling behind in his rent. He had recently told her, she said, that he had a niece who was going on the stage, and that he was short of money because he had been helping her.

Oppenheimer told his friends that he was a classmate of President Taft, having attended the same school with him in Cincinnati.

SLANDER VERDICT FOR WOMAN

Miss Raymond Gets $4,000 in Suit Against Mrs. Naomi Ring.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 11.—After being out six hours a jury in Part II. of the Supreme Court to-day brought in a verdict in favor of Grace Raymond against Mrs. Naomi Duncombe Ring, a wealthy resident of Mount Vernon, for $4,000 damages for slander.

Arthur M. Johnson, representing Mrs. Ring, moved to set aside the verdict on the ground that it was excessive and against the weight of evidence.

Judge Morschauser reserved decision, and said he would hear arguments next Monday. The uttering of the slander took place on June 28, 1904, in front of the Church of the Sacred Heart at Mount Vernon, while Miss Raymond, who was formerly a Sunday School teacher, was bound for church. Miss Raymond contended that there was no ground for the attack.

The case has been in the courts for several years, and on a previous trial a jury awarded Miss Raymond $8,000.

Justice Tompkins granted a new trial, on the submission of a bundle of love letters, which, it is alleged, were written by Miss Raymond to Patrick J. Ring, now the husband of the defendant, and which were found in the Mount Vernon Opera House, which Mrs. Ring owns. Mr. Ring at one time was manager of the theatre, and these letters were offered in mitigation of damages.

SAYS MOISANT WAS ELIGIBLE.

Aero Club Asserts Committee Approved Change in Belmont Park Rules

PARIS, Jan. 11.—The officials of the International Aeronautical Federation to-day received a cablegram from the Sports Committee of the Aero Club of America declaring that the committee had approved the changes in the rules of the Belmont Park meeting which permitted the late John B. Moisant to participate in the Statue of Liberty contest, though he had not previously made a sustained flight of one hour, as originally required.

Prince Roland Bonaparte, President of the federation, stated that the message could not be considered before the next annual meeting in October.

An offical of the Aero Club of America said last night that nothing of importance had occurred in connection with the Grahame-White—Moisant question other than what is contained in the foregoing dispatch.

So far as he knew, he added, the matter would not be settled until next October.

Moses Kahn, Diamond Merchant, So Provides for Her in His Will.

The will of Moses Kahn of the diamond importing firm of L. & M. Kahn was filed yesterday with the Surrogate. It sets aside a fund of $300,000 to be divided among his children at the death of his wife, who is to enjoy the income and their home at Elberon, N. J., during her lifetime or until she remarries.

"Should my wife remarry," the will further provides, "the sum of $50,000 shall be paid to her on her wedding day. This, it is explained, is to be in lieu of all other provisions for her, with the exception of the life insurance and certain moneys due him, which she inherits absolutely.

The sum of $2,500 is left to the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, and the executors are directed to distribute a like amount among such charities as they may designate.

Will of Mary R. King Also Provided for Cancellation of Personal Loans.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Jan. 11.—Nearly $1,500,000 was given to church charities by the will of the late Mary Rhinelander King, who died at Great Neck, L. I., on Aug. 12, 1909, according to the accounting of the executors filed to-day in Nassau County. The will began with the Apostle's Creed and closed with a prayer.

All the silverware, paintings and furnishings of the King home were left to Miss King's sisters, Alice Davis and Ellen King. Her brother-in-law, Gherardi Davis, was left $10,000.

Miss King ordered that all personal loans made by her on which she held security to be considered cancelled.

AUTO TRADE NOTES.

The Atlas Motor Car Company is exhibiting at the Pleasure Car Show a 40-horse power, four-cylinder luxurious touring car, 128-inch wheelbase, with foredoor body, and a 20-horse power runabout with torpedo body.

Fred. C. Eberts, managing director of the Chicago Jack and Supply Company arrived yesterday to personally superintend the exhibition of the new Chicago ratchet jack at the booth of the Baker Sales Company. Mr. Eberts was for years identified with the theatrical life of Chicago, having resigned recently as manager of the Stair & Havlin playhouse, the Great Northern, to assume the management of the Chicago Jack and Supply Company. "Since embarking in the automobile accessory field I am astonished at the wonderful possibilities in this end of the motor industry," said Mr. Eberts. "Here we have been in business less than twelve months and already have more orders on hand than we can fill at once."

The American Roadster, Traveler and Tourist are making a hit with the automobile public at the Garden show this week. Fire Chief Crocker's new American car, which has a yellow body with lavender trimmings, was delivered the first day of the show and is now on exhibition at their space. The first day's sales reported were a 50-horse power car to Frederick K. Burnham who already owns a Speedster and who is owner of the famous Dixie II.

There is one new accessory on exhibition at the Garden show which is creating a great deal of comment. This is the Gray & Davis Dynamo System of automobile lighting. This device provides current for a part or all of the lamp equipment and re-charges batteries. It is undoubtedly one of the most important inventions produced since the inception of the automobile.

Upward of 100 men identified with the sale of Packard cars in different parts of the United States attended the convention at the Hotel Seville yesterday (Wednesday). It was an all-day meeting. The salesmen later attended a banquet at Murray's, followed by a theatre party.

INTEREST UNABATED AT GARDEN SHOW

Wet Weather Fails to Keep Down Attendance at Automobile Exhibition.

Madison Square Garden was crowded with visitors again yesterday, and the attendance at the eleventh National automobile show proves the ever-increasing interest of the public in passenger-carrying motor cars. The attendance was very good all day, the many aisles throughout the building being well filled from the time the doors were opened at 10 o'clock in the morning until closing time at 11 o'clock last night. The inclement weather had no effect on the attendance.

A noticeable feature of the attendance was the great number of out-of-town visitors. Before the main entrance of the building in Madison Avenue was opened there was a crowd waiting to get into the Garden. Some of the early arrivals were New Yorkers, but most of them were visitors to the city as well as to the show. A visiting dealer from a city in New York State said he had counted nearly seventy-five men from his town alone in the crowd waiting to get into the building.

The daylight crowd proved to be an especially well-informed lot so far as the mechanical details of the cars was concerned, and most of them told the salesmen that they drove their own cars. They did not neglect to make careful inspections of the higher-priced machines, but spent most of their time examining the chasses of the popular-priced machines such as the Chalmers, Buick, Maxwell, Cadillac, Mitchell, Hudson, Reo, E. M. F., Corbin, and Metzger.

The out-of-town viscitors were welcomed by dealers from their own cities at practically every space at which they stopped to examine the cars. The out-of-town tradesmen at the show include most of the prominent dealers and branch house managers of Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Chicago, and dealers from most of the cities of the New England States, New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. Some Denver men got in yesterday.

Society again played an important part in the show, and among those noticed in the aisles were Gen. Howard Carroll, George McKesson Brown, Julien A. Ripley, Col. Jacob Ruppert, C. N. Clark, Reginald Vanderbilt, Senator H. M. Voorhies of New Jersey, Judge P. J. Walsh of Greenwich, Conn.; Alf Hayman, S. S. Block, and E. Felsenheld of Wheeling, West Va.; George H. Stetson of Philadelphia, Park Painter of Lakewood, James A. Humphreys of Philadelphia, Charles Thorley, R. W. Mead, President of the New York Transportation Company, and W. D. Sargent of Chicago.

Many of yesterday's visitors were persons who had made previous visits to the show, but who returned, apparently, with their minds made up. Dr. William Tod Helmuth bought a Mercedes Prince Henry car of 30 horse power. Other purchases yesterday of Mercedes cars were made by H. A. Blumenthal, who procured a 70-horse power touring car, which he will take to Europe with him next week; Gottfried Diel, J., who ordered a 90-horse power touring car for May delivery, and Alvin Untermeyer, who ordered a 50-horse power chain-driven touring car. The body will be by Brewster.

Miss Helen Gould was among yesterday's visitors at the show. Others seen in the Garden were Franklin A. Plummer, James Lawrence Breese, Clifford W. Hartridge, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Hoffman, who are among the many owners and fanciers of fine horses who are equally enthusiastic over the auto; Mr. and Mrs. E. Reeve Merritt, Stephen H. P. Pell, Robert Lee Morrell, E. H. Harriman, Jr., Louis Tiffany, Thomas Havemeyer, Nathan Straus, Henry Siegel, Ralph Pulitzer, Anthony J. Drexel, Malcolm Sloane, Hayward Cutting, W. Gorden Douglas, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Gerry.

One class of visitors who show keen interest in the method of running the show are the managers of the various local shows that wil ble held in other cities during the next few months. These men show most interest in the decorative scheme, the lighting effects, and the method of arranging the spaces. In addition to S. A. Miles, manager of the National show at Chicago, the visiting show managers so far have included C. H. Green, Brooklyn; Chester I. Campbell, Boston; J. H. Beck, Philadelphia; W. R. Marshall, Syracuse; Walter L. Weeden, Worcester, and H. A. Bonnell, Newark.

Harold O. Smith of Indianapolic, President of the Premier Motor Manufacturing Company, and Chairman of the Committee of Management of the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association, until most of its members joined the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers, was one of the prominent men of the industry who arrived at the show yesterday. Mr. Smith gave the early part of the day to watching the crowds in the Garden, and his impressions are interesting in view of the fact that he is a pioneer of the business.

Charles Clifton, President of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers, will deliver the welcoming address at the Licensed Association dinner tonight at the Hotel Astor. Frank R. Lawrence, President of the Lotos Club, will be Chairman of the speakers. The Hon. Edward Lazansky, Secretary of State of New York, will speak on "The Motor Vehicle Laws of New York State." James Schermerhorn of Detroit, owner of The Detroit Times, will take as his text "The Star of Empire Now a Fixed Star, but Everything Else Takes Its Way." Henry M. Duncan of New York will deliver an address. Pal, the artist, who is responsible for the paintings used in the Garden decorations, will introduce a novelty which he styles "A Lesson in Drawing."

The E. M. F. people are showing great pride in one of the earliest cars ever produced by the big Detroit plant. It is known as the "E. M. F. Bullet," and has traveled more than 78,000 miles in the two years it has been on the road. It has a number of victories in races to its credit, made while piling up the big mileage.

ICE YACHTSMEN IN PERIL.

Former Senator Newbold and Rube De Graff Spilled in Poughkeepsie Races.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 11.—There were several exciting incidents in connection with the first ice yacht races of the season at Hyde Park this afternoon. Former State Senator Thomas Newbold, while sailing his big yacht, the Nansen, was caught in a squall and the yacht turned completely over on its head, throwing Mr. Newbold and pinning him under the overturned bowsprit. He escaped injury and the yacht was no damaged.

Rube De Groff, the State League ball player, who was sailing Senator Newbold's Noel in the race for sixth class yachts, was thrown out of the cock pit, suffering numerous bruises and scratches. He got back in the yacht, however, and finished the race, getting next to last position.

The race for fifth-class yachts was won by Harry H. Van Cleef's Shatamue, the ten miles being negotiated in 31:20, beating Commodore Archibald Rogers's Ariel by just a minute.

E. H. Wales's Meteor, sailed by Frank Cleary, carried off the prize cup for the sixth class yachts, the time for ten miles being 32:40.

The members of the Hudson River Ice Yacht Club will meet Saturday, when it is probable that a challenge will be received from either the Shrewsbury or Orange Lake Clubs for the championship ice yacht pennant of America, now held by Commodore Archibald Rogers's yacht, Jack Frost.

NEW ICE YACHT RECORD.

Russell B. Covers Fair Haven 12-Mile Course in 21 Minutes.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Jan. 11.—Another record for the twelve-mile course at Fair Haven was smashed this morning by William Bennett's Russell B, a Class A ice yacht, when she sailed the distance in 21 minutes. A west breeze was blowing just sufficiently hard to keep the yachts down on the smooth ice. Edward Bennett and Joseph Hendrickson's Jennie was second; Floyd Smith's Nellie Taylor third, and Clinton Wilber's Perseus was fourth.

In the race for Class B boats James Hendrickson's Ray S. beat out Henry J. Schneider's Douglass by 30 seconds, sailing the twelve miles in 33 minutes.

In a lighter breeze this afternoon the Jennie finished 45 seconds ahead of the Russell B., making the course in 25 minutes. The Perseus was third. The Ray S. again defeated the Douglass and Swamp Robin, sailing the course in 43 minutes.

Ice Yacht Racing at Hyde Park.

Wales and sailed by Frank Cleary, third; Rebecca, owned and sailed by Ralph Foster, fourth; Seal, owned and sailed by James Leonard, fifth. Time—31:20.

Sixth Class.—Won by Meteor, owned by Commodore E. H. Wales and sailed by Frank Cleary; Dart, owned by Thomas Newbold and sailed by Horace Curry, second; Noel, owned by T. Jefferson Newbold and sailed by Arthur De Groff, third; Snow Squall, owned by John Hopkins and sailed by Samuel Rogers, fourth. Time—32:00.

SMITH TENNIS VICTOR.

Cragin, Jr., 6—4, 8—6, on the board courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory, Sixty-sixth Street and Park Avenue. Earlier in the tournament for the regimental indoor lawn tennis honors Smith had defeated Cragin for the final of the championship singles. The summary:

MOTORISTS WANT UNIFORM LAWS

Legislative Board of the A. A. A. Discusses Automobile Measures.

At the meeting held yesterday at the A. A. A. National headquarters, 437 Fifth Avenue, New York City, presided over by Chairman Charles Thaddeus Terry of the legislative board, among suggestions from lines along which the work of the board should be vigorously pushed, as stated by the Chairman of the board, were the following:

Tihty-seven States of the Union have general statutes regulating motor vehicles, and no two of such statutes are the same. In some important particulars they are not even sufficiently similar to enable the motor vehicle user engaged in inter-State travel to make a good guess as to the regulations to which he may subject himself by crossing the imaginary line which separates, geographically, one State from the other.

No one will dissent from the proposition that uniformity in motor vehicle regulation is not only expedient, but in the highest degree desirable, and the tendency toward such uniformity has become so strong as to overcome the inclination heretofore existing on the part of many States to assert that uniformity should be attained by making the laws of all other States accord with its own law. It is conceded that more harm and injustice are sometimes brought about by lack of uniformity of laws of the various States than by imperfect or even bad laws in special instances. Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the case of travel upon the highways.

There are two ways in which this particular evil, consisting in the divergent State laws regulating highway travel, may be cured, and both of them have been followed continuously by the Legislative Board of the association during the past year as in previous years; one is by the enactment by Congress of a Federal registration automobile bill, providing only, in substance, that upon the registration of his motor vehicle at the Bureau of Public Roads at the National capital, after he has secured registration in the State of his residence, the owner of a motor vehicle shall secure a license which shall entitle him to operate his motor vehicle in inter-State travel upon the various highways of the country, and thus secure freedom in the use of his vehicle, without further license and without payment of further fees; the other, by the enactment by all the States of a uniform motor vehicle law, exempting non-residents from the registration provisions, as does, for example, the law of the State of New York, provided registration has been had and license procured under the law of the State of the motor vehicle user's own residence.

Much progress has been made along both these lines, but there remains much yet to be done, and it will depend upon the active cooperation of all the members of the board and the motor vehicle users whom they represent, and others who are interested in securing freedom of inter-State intercourse in the respective sections of the country in which they severally reside.

So much has already been done in the way of securing uniform motor vehicle laws as to amount to a demonstration that something like perfect uniformity will be eventually secured and at no very distant day.

New York Billiardists Beaten.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Charles Morin of Chicago to-night defeated Leon Magnus and James Blair of New York, 50 to 24, in the third game of the 3-cushion series of the National Inter-City Billiard League, winning the series for Chicago by two games out of three. Morin made a new average for the series, running out in his sixtieth inning. Blair's high run was three.

PRINCETON "FIVE" BEATEN.

Columbia Much Superior to Tigers in Basket Ball Game.

The Columbia basket ball five played rings around the Princeton quintet in a game played in the Morningside gymnasium last night, winning with a score of 36 to 13. In the preliminary skirmish the Tigers started out for a fast spurt which startled the local team, but they soon wore down and could do little to prevent the local team from frequent scoring throughout the rest of the contest.

As this was one of the games to decide the ultimate championship a large crowd was out to witness it. Over 2,000 people filled the gymnasium, and the fast game put up by the Blue and White team kept the spectators constantly on their toes. The line-up:

Columbia.	Position.	Princeton.
Mahon	Right forward	Feld
Alexander	Centre	B. Hughes
Lee	Right guard	Sparks

Goals from field—Kendl, (5,) Mahon, (5,) Alexander, (2,) Feld, (2,) Benson, Salsbury, Lee, Carter, Hughes. Goals from foul—Krendl, (6,) Feld, (3.) Substitutes—Salsbury for Mahon, Jacques for Alexander, Uhl for Kahler, and F. C. Hughes for Sparks. Referee—A. J. Salmon, N. Y. A. C. Umpire—T. Thorpe, Columbia.

Kingsley School Beats Trinity.

The Kingsley School's basket ball team defeated the Trinity School at Essex Fells yesterday by a score of 27 to 20. Ford was Kingsley's star, scoring 20 of his team's 27 points. Bloodgood played a good game for Trinity. The line-up:

Kingsley.	Position.	Trinity.

Riley Captain of I. A. A. C.

Frank N. Riley was elected captain of the Irish-American Athletic Club last night at a special meeting of the organization, made necessary by the declination of Riley to serve after being chosen at a meeting at which it was said there was not a represetnative showing of the club's athletes and members. Riley is the athlete who ran second to Lunghi, the Italian, when he made the world's record of 1:52 4-5 in Montreal in 1909, being beaten five yards. He is one of the most popular men in the club and is said to have all the qualificoations for a good field leader.

Planning Good Roads Convention.

Plans for the Good Roads Convention to be held this Spring were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the Touring Information Board of the American Automobile Association at 437 Fifth Avenue. The meeting was presided over by Howard Longstreth, Chairman of the board, but owing to the absence of many of the members no important action was taken.

AMERICAN AUTOS IN GERMANY

Lower-Priced Cars in Demand, Declares Consul Shank.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—"Made in America" may develop such a vogue in Germany as aplied to the automobile trade, as "Made in Germany" has enjoyed in this country in the case of a number of manufactured articles.

According to Consul Samuel H. Shank of Mannheim there is a demand in Germany for automobiles of lower price than that charged for most of the German makes. He thinks Germany offers an attractive field for American manufacturers and that all that is needed to render American cars popular is proper attention to the trade. If active, energetic agencies were established and care given the automobiles by representatives of the manufacturing concerns after sales were made, the consul holds that there could be no question of success.

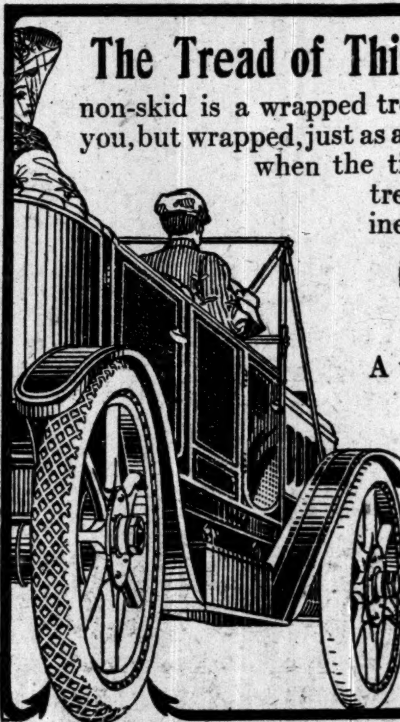
The Tread of This New Swinehart

non-skid is a wrapped tread—not moulded, mind you, but wrapped, just as a smooth tread is wrapped when the tire is made. A moulded tread is not uniform. Its inequalities shorten its life.



Swinehart Tires

A wrapped tread is uniform—and vastly better. So, in addition to its protection against skidding, this Swinehart is an exception among anti-skid tires for long wear and service.

SHAFT DRIVEN

THE BAKER ELECTRIC appeals most to people who can appreciate structural design in a motor car, and also mechanical refinement. Its SHAFT DRIVE is the greatest single advance ever made in electric motor car construction, enabling silent operation and greater mileage than is possible with any chain driven electric.

A Special Exhibition of Baker Electrics will be held in our show rooms at 1788 Broadway, beginning Saturday, January 7th, and ending Saturday, January 21st. The complete line of our SHAFT DRIVEN 1911 models will be shown.

The E-M-F "30"-$1,000

The car that has revolutionized the automobile industry and made the high priced automobile a fad.

An analysis of the vital question—How long will the car last?

Human life has been measured and averaged. Three score years and ten is the well-known formula covering the wear and tear of flesh and blood. Life Insurance Companies have scaled the years of man and tabulated his length of days to a scientific nicety.

How long will it last? This question of durability is asked of everything that has motion—whether it be animal or machine. Living in an enquiring age, small wonder the life of a motor car should be of compelling interest, for this modern miracle of travel, pleasure and utility holds the center of the world's stage.

The Public—the Dealer—the Manufacturer—each from a particular point of view, wants to know how long a standard automobile will stand up and give service under specific test.

The Public spends dollars and cents in purchase and maintainance upon this information. The Dealer anticipates his sales, guards his own and customers' interests upon this knowledge. The Manufacturer wants exacting proof of his car's strength to protect his name and fame and to govern future production, so the most important question in the buying, selling and making of automobiles is this—

How long will the car I buy—the car I sell—the car I make—LAST?

With most Manufacturers this is a question that cannot even be comparatively answered. And, right here there is a reason which every intending buyer of an automobile should investigate. So, we pass the tip along. Find out whether the car you intend buying is what is known to the wise as an "assembled" car.

The automobile scrap heap stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific—from the Arctic Zone to the Gulf of Mexico and it is safe to say there is a million "sadder" but "wiser" people who have found out to their cost, what the word "assembled" means.

So the life of your car depends upon how it is built. Forget the price, for the "juggled together" car may cost anywhere up to $5,000 and over, but insist upon this: that the car you buy, is built from the raw material to the finished product, by the one engineering organization, from foundry to shipping platform, backed by an irrefutable guarantee covering for at least a year, every particle of equipment, tires excepted.

"Where can I buy such a car?" Do you mean to say there is an automobile concern that makes its own castings—heat-treats its own steel—tests in physical and chemical laboratory, every factor that is necessary to build a perfect chassis? Why, that kind of a car would be the "lasting" car, the biggest because the best seller in the world.

Now, we are getting into the heart of the matter. Friend, you're right and we will tell you what car to buy and why you should buy.

THE E-M-F COMPANY, in a little over two years, has built, equipped and sold 20,000 E-M-F "30" cars. These automobiles have gone out over the land and unto the uttermost parts of the earth, for durability, speed and power tests such as no one single make of car has ever endured, and every one of the 20,000 owners is an enthusiastic "booster." This is the "one" car that sells itself and creates its own demand. A second-hand E-M-F "30" is unknown, because nowhere can you find such automobile value and we challenge comparison—

Your comparison—expert comparison—quality and price comparison.

The chassis of an E-M-F "30" is an engineering marvel. It is a composite of mechanical genius. There is not an ounce of experimental fad in it or gilded furbelow to catch and charm the eye of the unwary and filch dollars from his pocketbook. The E-M-F "30" is built for power, purpose and long life, to perform any and every motor task—and it does it.

Immediately you guess something we mean to drive home. The E-M-F "30"—the whole car—is made by The E-M-F Company And, if as you read, we could transport you to our magnificent $7,000,000 plants and you could stand in the glow of furnace fires or amid the whirl of automatic machinery, milling, grinding and cutting to the infinitesimal fraction of an inch, this would impress upon your mind the eloquent truth: Here is a car built to last and serve.

Only a little over two years old. How can we tell "How long the car will last?" It is not the revolution, but the friction which wears out machinery. Everybody knows that—but The E-M-F Company conscious of a superiority in the quality of their product over cars selling at double and treble the price, have tried to wear out an E-M-F "30."

With deliberate intent for this purpose they choose one of the first cars built in their factory, "Bullet," and crowded into its two years of life fifteen years of the hardest possible service—on the race-track, at speed which in one meeting netted eight wins. Over hills, upon the road, through sand, mud and water, demonstrating, path-finding, carrying surplus passenger loads—in fact, every possible test of reliable durability was applied to satisfy our curiosity.

Seventy-three thousand miles is the present mileage of this epoch-making car and it is as good as on the day it was wheeled out upon our shipping platform some two years ago, the most remarkable and convincing argument ever presented to the public—an argument that is attracting world-wide attention among buyers and dealers, for it has placed The E-M-F Company at the pinnacle of motor car construction and proven beyond cavil or question, our oft-reiterated statement that in design, materials and workmanship, the E-M-F "30" chassis is the most envied ensemble of mechanical perfection extant.

We have proved the E-M-F "30" to be long-lived and that brings us to another declaration—it is the safest and biggest dividend-earning investment for you in motordom—when you buy an E-M-F "30," speculation is eliminated. You put your money in a certainty. The car that lasts is the car that pays. That's a simple business proposition and an E-M-F is the 100 per cent car. If you went to any one of the 20,000 owners of an E-M-F and tried to buy it, it's a safe bet the man would ask you almost what he paid for it, even if he bought it two years ago. Just scan the dealer's sales lists in any of the motor journals and see whether you can find a used E-M-F "30" for sale. You don't have to be a mathematician to figure out what this means.

$1,000 the price and you cannot buy, because it isn't made, any car to compare with this 30 Horse-Power Masterpiece. There's no Black Art in the "how" it is done. Here's the chain of events behind it—an ideal to build as good or better a car than the other fellow who asks any where from $1,500 up to $2,500 and over. Then corralling the brains to do it. Then the car. Then the merits of the car creating a huge demand. Then an adequate plant and machinery to meet the demand. Then the distribution of cost of manufacture over immense quantities, instead of a limited number of cars, bringing the price within the reach of the most moderate income, and, moreover, offering a car as good as "across the water kind."

The automobile industry saw its inception in 1898. Many manufacturers are now bragging about the number of cars they have sold, but they don't state how many years it has taken them to sell them. Where can you find such rapid growth in public favor and appreciation as the E-M-F Company's cars? The proof is in the number we have sold, and the time in which we sold them. In a little over two years nearly 30,000 E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" automobiles have been made in our plants, and we shall make and sell 36,000 more this year.

Now, a word about what the high quality and low price of the E-M-F "30" have accomplished. They have pricked the bubble of inflated values and literally forced rival manufacturers to give more dollar for dollar value. The newspapers have been filled of late with the significant headlines—"Reduction in Price." What does this mean? Simply this, that the purchaser had not been getting his money's worth.

We took the public into our confidence. We told them how we made a world-beating quality car and sold it at rock bottom, with standard equipment for $1,250. This price created consternation in the camp of our rivals, but so great was the demand for the E-M-F "30" that the cost of production was further distributed. At one stroke we slashed off $250 and now this "30" horse power Standard Touring Car is $1,000. We are justly proud of our achievement.

Our Year's Guarantee is interesting reading to the prospective purchaser. It is a liberal service insurance, covering the car and its equipment for one year. This guarantee is really unnecessary, as we have hundreds of letters from owners proudly stating that their E-M-F "30" has stood, not only the test of time, but every condition that can possibly be expected of an automobile—and more.

THIS ADVERTISEMENT was written to prove to you that it isn't the price you pay that insures quality, but what you really buy—Come to our exhibit at Madison Square Garden and we'll clinch the argument.

The E-M-F "30" Five Passenger Standard Touring Car $1000. Roadster "30" $1000. Demi-Tonneau "30" $1000. Coupe "30" $1450.

COLUMBIA BEATS YALE AT HOCKEY

New York Skaters Spring a Surprise on New Haven Collegians at St. Nicholas Rink.

The Columbia hockey team sprung a big surprise on the few Columbia admirers who rallied around the team at St. Nicholas Rink last night by downing Yale in an extra period game by a score of 6 to 4. It is the first time in years that Columbia has beaten Yale on the ice. In fact a Columbia man said after the contest that he doubted if the oldest inhabitant could remember when it happened before. The Blue and White deserves a good deal of credit for last night's victory, for they fought hard right up to the last minute. Perhaps there wasn't as much smart, clever hockey as there might have been, but there was lots of rough and ready "shinny" and at times the teams dashed into each other with terrific force, which showed that no child's play was taking place on the ice.

Little Harding, Columbia's centre, skooted up and down the ice like a whirlwind, and besides scoring two of Columbia's goals, went head first into every play, and broke up Yale's team work time and again. Duden, the big cover point, tore the Yale team up repeatedly, and swept down the ice with such force that he laid Yale skaters out on the ice several times. Columbia had a great goal tender in Washburn, who guarded the cage with jealous vigilance. He offset the Yale bombardment time and again, and was wide awake every second. Driving shots sailed at him from all angles, but he was there to stave off the assault.

Yale presented what she thought was her strongest line-up. Arthur Howe, the Yale quarter back, who is Captain of next season's football team, was put in at left wing. Howe was a good player last season, but was not booked to play this year because of his duties as football leader. He was called in to strengthen the team after its poor showing in the West during the holidays. Howe didn't have a chance to do much last night. Columbia paid most of its attention to defense, and broke up all the formations that the New Haveners attempted. Columbia has the scrappiest team it has had for years. The skaters were on the move all the time and never said die.

At the end of last night's game the score was tied 4 to 4 after Yale had made a desperate rally and pulled out of the hole of defeat. An extra period of ten minutes of play was necessary, and Harding and Whitlock, who was put in in place of Harris at wing, outwitted the Yale players and scored two goals, which gave Columbia the game.

Columbia took the lead in the first period. After 3.55 minutes of play Harding scooped up the puck from a scrimmage in front of the Yale net and slammed it in. Three minutes afterward Bates was mixed up in the middle of a wild scramble, and poked the puck between half a dozen pairs of skates into the net. Capt. Loutrel scored the first goal for Yale after 9.30 minutes of play. Getting the rubber near his own net he went down the ice at top speed with the puck at the end of his stick and shot it past Washburn cleverly. The remaining time in that half was spent in futile efforts by both teams to score. Team play was utterly abandoned, and the individual skaters tried to take matters in their own hands and score without the assistance of their teammates. This plan of campaign was not especially successful, for the rough strenuous checking by each team spoiled any attempt at individual brilliancy.

Soon after the second period started Bates got a bad smash on the nose which brought a stream of blood. The playing became rough and the players slambanged into each other with no regard for the technique of the game. Passing and stick work was laid aside for football tactics. In this Brooks, Swenson and Howe did well. They played football and know how to check. Harris carried the puck down the ice and made a nice pass to Bates, who sent it home for Columbia's third score. Cox of Yale, from scrimmage, caged it for the Blue after 5:35 minutes of play.

The Columbia team was somewhat demoralized and Loutrel tied the score after 9.25 minutes of play, caging the disk all alone. Harding and Bates were ruled off the ice for tripping, and while the Columbia team was crippled, Yale rallied around the Columbia cage and tried desperately to score. Washburn refused to let the rubber get past him. Then Yale took the lead, Harmon scoring a goal from scrimmage in 17:41. A minute before the game ended Whitlock, who succeeded Harris, drove the puck in for the goal that tied the score.

Columbia was full of ginger in the extra period, and in 2:39 minutes Bates broke the tie by sweeping down the ice all alone and driving the puck past Martin's shin guards. In another minute Harding took a pass from Whitlock and scored Columbia's sixth goal. The line up:

LOCAL ATHLETES IN NEWARK.

Disqualifications and Protests Mark the Games of the T. A. B. Society.

Disqualifications and protests marked the games of the T. A. B. Society last night in the First Regiment Armory, Newark. New York athletes were on the scene in numbers and were instrumental in making the games a success competitively. In the 300-yard run, handicap, Jack Eller of the Irish-American A. C. won the event, but was disqualified for jostling and cutting corners. A like fate awaited F. N. McLaughlin of Loughlin Lyceum in the half mile, as he was also set down from the winners position, and the race given to M. J. McLaughlin, the runner up in the New Orleans championship half mile.

After the Irish-American A. C. team had won the one-mile relay race, with the Xaviers, second, and the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A. team third, the Xavier contingent protested the awarding of the trophy, claiming that Mel Sheppard and Abel Kiviat, the star Winged Fist runners, were not on the programme, and therefore ineligible to compete. This was the best race of the series and showed Sheppard, the anchor man for the I. A. A. C. quartet, giving away at least 20 yards' handicap when he was touched off. The record holder finally won by 30 yards, and was independently timed in 50 seconds, with the time for the team 3:28.

Jack Monument, the one-mile National champion, ran a mile in 4:29, but was unable to get into the prize-winning division, the race being won by L. A. Condit of the Yonkers Y. M. C. A. from the 80-yard mark in 4:27. W. B. Schreiber, National A. C., won the three-mile handicap in 15:08 2-5, and E. Heiland showed the sprinters the way in the 75-yard dash, the time of which was 0:08, and in which Bob Eller finished third.

CORINTHIAN YACHT CLUB.

Will Build Yacht and Challenge for Manhasset Bay Cup.

At a largely attended special meeting of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club held last night at the New York Club, 29 West Fortieth Street, at which Commodore F. S. Hastings presided, a syndicate of club members was formed who will furnish the capital to build a challenging yacht to contest for the Manhasset Bay Challenge Cup. The American Yacht Club has recently accepted the Seawanhaka challenge.

H. M. Crane, Johnston De Forest, and Sherman Hoyt were appointed as a committee to superintend the building of the boat and to sail her in the contests this season. The contract to build the boat has not yet been given out. Ex-Commodore E. C. Benedict gave an interesting recital of his recent experience in the storm encountered by his steam yacht Oneida on her way here from Bermuda.

The Model Committee reported that it expects to have many new models in the near future, including that of ex-Commodore Tod's new schooner. The election of officers for 1911 was postponed until Feb. 27.

St. George A. C. Indoor Games.

The St. George Athletic Club held its regular monthly set of games for members last night at the clubhouse, 207 East Sixteenth Street, and a large crowd was in attendance. The chief events of the evening were the wrestling matches for 125 and 135 pounders, respectively. A. Mille defeated E. Merkel in the 125-pound class in 0:19, with a half-Nelson hold. In the 135-pound class T. Lee won from W. Hublitz after 1 minute and 20 seconds of hard tussling with a scissor hold. The pole vault resulted in a tie for first place between A. Mille and W. Hublitz. Both contestants were handicapped at one foot, and each cleared the bar at 8 feet. In the jump-off of the tie Hublitz won, jumping 8 feet 3 inches while the best Mille could do was to clear 8 feet.

TO FORM NATIONAL CIRCUIT.

Manufacturers' Contest Association to Meet To-morrow.

The annual meeting of the Manufacturers' Contest Association, which is to be held in the Board Room of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers Friday, promises to be important in many ways. The first session will be convened at 10 A. M. Among the topics to be discussed, all of great interest to motor-car builders and users, are:

The advisability of establishing a National circuit.

Plans for a paid Technical Committee under the jurisdiction of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

Quick action for the enrollment of makers of commercial cars as members in the Manufacturers' Contest Association, and the appointment of a special committee to draft contest rules for commercial vehicles.

This is the third year of the Manufacturers' Contest Association. During that time much has been accomplished in regulating contest matters, obtaining rules satisfactory to the makers themselves, and insuring every one a square deal, and in general, giving all important events in this country the support of the men who really make the same possible.

COL. THOMPSON'S BANQUET.

New President of N. Y. A. C. Entertains Old and New Governing Boards.

At the invitation of the newly elected President of the New York Athletic Club, Col. Robert M. Thompson, there was an informal banquet in the clubhouse last night at which the incoming and the outgoing boards participated, in addition to several men who have helped to further "Mercury Foot" interests in times gone by.

The session developed into an educational one, and was the idea of the new President. In an informal manner ways and means were discussed, with the old board members giving the new the benefit of their knowledge of club affairs, all of which was calculated to benefit America's premier athletic organization.

The club manager, H. S. Morehouse, was commended on all sides because of the table appointments, the principal feature of which was an electrical water fountain, ten feet in diameter, in the middle of the table, and a garden of bulbs forming a tulip bed, which looked most natural.

Among those in attendance were Ernest D. Malcolm, Vice President; Fred R. Fortmeyer, Secretary; Martin S. Paine, Treasurer; Matthew P. Halpin, Captain; R. H. Goffe, Louis Bender, W. B. De Haven, C. Otto Toussaint, John F. O'Rourke, Henry C. Pierce, George H. Shuman, E. F. Haubold, John J. O'Donoghue, B. N. Rhodes, J. M. Shaw, Dr. J. F. Conners, M. W. Brennen, E. J. Benson, W. H. Stayton, Albert H. Curtis, C. H. Wilcox, Jennings S. Cox, Frank J. Kilpatrick, C. A. Kettle, and W. D. Muschenheim.

Russians May Row at Henley.

At the annual general meeting of the English Amateur Rowing Association, C. S. Maclagan of Oxford University, who succeeded R. G. Gridley as Secretary, in reviewing the work of the year said that the association had entered into an agreement with the Russian Rowing Association, and they might possibly see Russian crews at Henley at some future date.

HARVARD FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

R. T. Fisher Elected to Guide Crimson Team in Next Season's Battles.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 11.—The Harvard football players who took part in the Yale game, with the exception of Half Back Corbett, who has not returned from his Christmas vacation, got together this evening and held their long-deferred election of a Captain for next Fall. The man elected was Robert T. Fisher, '12, of Dorchester, Mass. Fisher's only rival for the leadership was L. D. Smith, the right end, and after the first ballot the election of Fisher was made unanimous.

Fisher has played guard in the 'Varsity eleven for the last two years. He played the same position on his freshman team and played tackle at Andover for three years. At Andover he was a contemporary of Kilpatrick, the Yale end. Like Kilpatrick, Fisher was a unanimous choice for All-America teams the past season.

Fisher is 22 years old, weighs 195 pounds, and is 5 feet 11 inches tall. It is generally expected that he will make an excellent Captain.

The voting players also voted to recommend to the Athletic Committee that an "H" be awarded to H. K. Bush, substitute tackle for the last two years. Bush is a senior, but never played in a Yale game.

New York Fishing Club Officers.

The New York Fishing Club held its annual meeting and election of officers Tuesday evening, and the following were elected for the ensuing year: President—Frank Wallach; Vice President—Nicholas Engel; Treasurer—Joseph A. Hassmer; Financial Secretary, A. H. Tiemeyer; Corresponding Secretary—William C. Uhl; House Committee—Frederick P. Kafka, Charles H. Graham, and Frank H. Peterman; Finance Committee—Henry Fisher, H. W. Bohmfalk, and Charles F. Berg; Trustees—Charles Shortmeier, George W. Fennell, Henry W. Miller, and James E. Engel. The club has commodious buildings and extensive grounds on Raritan Bay, near Tottenville, Staten Island, and is one of the oldest and most successful organizations of its kind in the greater city. It was chartered in 1883.

Australians to Teach Us Football.

Australia may send over two school football elevens to show Americans how the Australian game is played. It is somewhat different from that played in this country, being free from mass plays, the players using their hands and feet after the Association football style.

WHY DON'T YOU INVESTIGATE THIS TWO-CYCLE IDEA?

Learn About the Atlas Achievement.

Proof, isn't it, that they're good, strong, reliable and efficient—and stayers?

Why? Because the Atlas Engine has only two moving parts to each cylinder—piston and piston rod.

Compare that with the complicated four-cycle engine—with its valves, valve stems, cams and innumerable other parts to get out of order.

The Atlas gets a power impulse from every stroke of the piston.

The power impulse obtained on every piston stroke means constant torque and insures smooth, sweet, velvety-running. Just like a six-cylinder motor.

THE LORIMER LOBBY.

The Senate has two plain duties to perform. The first is to unseat Senator LORIMER of Illinois. The taint upon his certificate of election is too black and too deep to be concealed by the coat of whitewash applied by the Committee on Privileges and Elections. The Senate cannot, save at great risk of its own reputation, sanction his presence in the Chamber. After that it will be the duty of the Senate to bring to book the lobbyists who have been infesting its corridors and insulting Senators with their appeals in behalf of LORIMER. These impudent creatures have had the hardihood to urge upon Senators consideration of the interests of the Lumber Trust and of other business interests as a reason why LORIMER should be permitted to retain his seat. It is intimated in Washington dispatches that they have even gone so far as to threaten Senators in their effort to gain and hold votes for LORIMER against the conclusive evidence of his unworthiness. It is not enough to cudgel these pests out of the corridors. The Senate ought to bring them to bar, to the end that they may be publicly exposed should it be found impossible to apply to them punishment in proportion to the scandalous nature of their offense.

As for LORIMER himself, Senator CRAWFORD's speech makes it clear that the honor of the Senate demands his unseating. The only member of the Committee on Privileges and Elections who was courageous enough to listen to Mr. CRAWFORD's speech blushed as he heard the arraignment of LORIMER and the committee. Well he might blush, for in the light of the published evidence the report was a shameful one. Senator CRAWFORD is convinced that of the votes cast for LORIMER in the Illinois Legislature eleven, not four, were tainted with bribery. LORIMER's plea that he knew nothing of these guilty proceedings is not to be credited. Two of his political henchmen, enemies of Senator HOPKINS, were put in places where they could serve his candidacy; SHURTLEFF as Speaker of the lower house, and BROWNE as the minority leader. During the days and nights preceding the corrupt election LORIMER was in constant conference with these men. It is an insult to the intelligence of the Senate for the friends of LORIMER or for the committee or for LORIMER himself to declare that he knew nothing of the corruption in which his henchmen had engaged for his benefit. The honor of the Senate is involved. By voting to sustain the whitewashing report it would vote to ratify, confirm, and approve legislative bribery; it would take over upon its own mantle, upon its own reputation, the taint of the Lorimer certificate.

There is foolish talk of criticising President TAFT "for interfering in a matter solely concerning the Senate." The reputation of the Senate is not its sole concern. It concerns the country. It intimately concerns the President, who must refer to the Senate for its approval many of his Executive acts. But there ought to have been no occasion for the President to speak. The Senate of its own motion, through its own committee, should have made it clear that it was determined to rebuke the Lorimer bribery and repudiate its beneficiary.

THE AUTOMOBILE SHOWS.

A most comprehensive display of the product of the American automobile industry is now centred in New York. With three individual shows, extending over a period of five weeks, the importance of this great commercial interest is forcibly impressed on the public mind. The Garden Show, with its hundreds of motor vehicles, is the most pretentious exhibit ever held in this country. The range of prices is remarkable, extending, as it does, from $450 to $7,200. It shows that the automobile manufacturer is mindful of the great demand for the motor car from people in all walks of life. The farmer needs it to run to town, the millionaire needs it also, but to meet these two demands there must be a wide variety of product. The manufacturer has met both demands.

The automobile industry, not more than 15 years old, has had a phenomenal growth. It represents to-day an investment of $500,000,000. There are in use in this country more than 400,000 machines. It has been said that this growth has been too rapid to be sound, and one hears warnings against overproduction. Thousands throng Madison Square Garden every day, thousands visited the Independent Show at Grand Central Palace a week ago, and the Importers' Salon at the Astor, where nothing but high-priced foreign cars were on view, attracted a steady stream of interested visitors and buyers. Automobile men witness this remarkable interest in new motor cars as an unmistakable sign of the most prosperous year the industry has ever known. A year ago there was an output in this country of almost 200,000 cars. It was then said that the industry had reached its level. But it has not. There is every indication that the coming year will see a greater automobile production than last.

Perhaps the level of the production of pleasure cars may come in a few years, but there is an unlimited field for the commercial truck. This phase of the industry is what the manufacturer has his eye on. The freight-carrying car offers a solution of the many problems involved in our wasteful methods of transporting merchandise by horse-drawn vehicles. It means quicker service, and in heavy trucking the commercial vehicle has materially reduced cost per ton mile haulage.

QUALIFICATIONS OF A SENATOR.

So far as we have observed, nobody has called in question Mr. SHEPARD's qualifications for the United States Senatorship. Not only have the innumerable assertions of his fitness gone quite unchallenged, but the statement, many times repeated, that he is pre-eminently fit, fitter than any other candidate for that office, remains undisputed. It will be astonishing, indeed, if the State Legislature should pass over a candidate of this supreme merit.

It cannot be said that Mr. SHEEHAN's fitness has remained unquestioned. Many reasons have been pointed out why he ought not to go to the Senate. The qualifications of the other aspirants mentioned pass without scrutiny because they have none. Their total defect of fitness spares them the pain of inquiry. It is because of Mr. SHEPARD's admitted and pre-eminent qualification and worthiness, because of the very obvious superiority of his merits, that public opinion demands his election by the Legislature. The Kings County Senators and Assemblymen and the Democratic leader in Kings have yielded to public opinion. We are confident that Mr. MURPHY, in spite of some quoted expressions of opinion to the contrary, will not advise or request or order the New York Senators and Assemblymen to defy this public opinion so flagrantly and impudently as they would defy it should they withhold their votes from a candidate so evidently of the people's choice. Mr. MURPHY spoke with some positiveness, it seems, on the eve of his departure for the State capital. He may learn something at Albany.

THE UNEARNED DETRIMENT.

Controller PRENDERGAST officially announces an application for a credit of $60,000,000, and personally he advocates the expenditure of the city's resources to an unlimited extent for the purpose to which $24,984,000 already has been devoted, and for which $8,500,000 is now asked, with no end in sight. On the same day that the additional funds are asked for a bid is made for the subways which have absorbed these funds. The disparity thus revealed between the volume of the funds which have been absorbed and the uselessness of the purpose to which they have been devoted exhausts patience. These are the city's own subways, built entirely from the proceeds of tax money, and the sum is virtually thrown away. The single possible operator will only undertake to work them on terms which probably are a fair bid from his standpoint, but which are a grievous disappointment to the city either as income producers or stimulators of realty values by transit improvements. Mr. PRENDERGAST gives no sign of appreciation of these facts, but makes a plea for more construction of the rest of the route on the same plan, without the slightest security for a successful outcome, and with every sign that the present disappointment will be surpassed on a proportionately larger scale.

It is in furtherance of this scheme that the basis of the tax lien which has its place ahead of the equity of the private owners of the real estate of the City of New York has just been enlarged by nearly a billion dollars. There is a school of idealists which regards this as absorbing the unearned increment of private owners for public benefit. If that were this case something might be said in support of it. But the case really is that the city's borrowing capacity is enlarged in order to defeat a good subway plan and take up with a bad one. Under such conditions it is not so much absorption of unearned increment as penalization by unearned detriment. That is to say, the detriment will be undeserved by those who take the trouble to compare the financial proposals now pending and to hold their officers to strict accountability for action according to the taxpayer's judgment. On the other hand, the detriment resulting from this billion-dollar assessment will be fully earned and will certainly be visited upon those who allow themselves to be deluded by such political harangues on financial topics as those which Controller PRENDERGAST allowed himself to make.

On the one hand is a proposal to build a larger mileage of subways without a dollar's cost to taxpayers, and on the other hand is a proposal to borrow indefinitely to construct a route which private capital has rejected. This year's billion is only a beginning. It will only provide $100,000,000 of credit, and at least $200,000,000, with no allowance for any purposes but subways, is needed for the Triborough plan. Let Controller PRENDERGAST consider this unearned and unnecessary detriment to property owners. And let them keep their eyes on the budget. They are only threatened as yet. They are not harmed by the billion-dollar absorption of unearned increment if they keep the budget down to such proportions that their tax bills are no larger, or even are smaller. According to the tax officials the "equalization" of assessments is designed to equalize the contributions of taxpayers. There is no objection to that, and only good will result if the taxes and bond issues are not enlarged. Any taxpayer would be justified in resisting assessment above market value, but not in resisting an assessment which places him and his neighbor on an equality. Apart from these considerations of private interest there is a public duty on all who pay taxes—including a million or two who think they escape because they see no tax bills—to see that the city neither spends nor borrows unwisely. The city is so far committed that the hope may be sincerely expressed that the approaching loan may be successful. Somewhere in the indefinite future there is the possibility of an emergency, which Controller PRENDERGAST is doing his best to precipitate, in which it will be a civic duty to hope that the city's future credit shall be stopped in order that its existing credit may be preserved.

MORE MILLIONS FOR PENSIONS.

It was not the fire and eloquence of Speaker CANNON, nor his mastery of sentimental speech, nor his "ringing, resounding voice," nor his dervish whirls while advocating the pension bill which added $45,000,000 to the $153,688,000 already appropriated for war veterans and their near and distant relatives, that won the assent of both sides of the House. It was the bribery for political support which the bill implied that enabled its passage. The old warriors and their families are well pensioned. This measure, like the bill of 1907 that preceded it, would further pension a great body of deserters and men who had never come within gunshot of a battle ground, provided they can show that they were enlisted ninety days in the civil war or sixty days in the Mexican war. It affects few, indeed, of the old fighters. Congress had already disgraced itself in removing the disabilities of deserters and in awarding them and non-combatants pensions. By this bill the House would increase such pensions and add to its shame.

While the Grand Army of the Republic has dwindled, the millions upon millions of treasure yearly spent in pensions have increased. Our pension rolls, instead of testifying to the Nation's gratitude, are now an unspeakable testimonial to "graft" and wholesale corruption. While the beneficiaries of our policy were dying off at the rate of 2,500 to 3,000 monthly, the amounts annually appropriated since 1904 have leaped from $140,000,000 to nearly $199,000,000—provided this new bill passes the Senate as it has passed the House. When will the scandal cease? Are we to hear next of that other "grab," the Volunteer Retired List bill, defeated in the last session, that would give $8,000,000 more to men to whom the country owes no pensions whatever?

"PREJUDICE" IN SPELLING.

We cheerfully and gladly print, in his own incorrect spelling, Mr. ANDREW CARNEGIE's animadversions upon THE TIMES's "old fogy" orthography. The clothing of men and women is incorrect as it fails to follow the custom of the majority of the most respected wearers of clothing. Usage, not logic or even convenience, is the criterion in dress. The usage of a majority of the best speakers and writers determines how a language should be pronounced and how its words should be spelled. Judged by this standard, the simplified spelling which Mr. CARNEGIE affects in his letter to THE TIMES may be more logical, more phonetic, more economical than the accepted forms, but he will have to confess that it is incorrect and uncouth. It offends the taste of the majority of intelligent readers and writers.

Mr. CARNEGIE should not blame the teachers at Wellesley for enforcing the dictionary spellings in the compositions of its students. There are plenty of good abstract reasons why the young women at Wellesley, and, in fact, all women, should don trousers as better suited to freedom of movement than the cumbersome skirt and petticoat. In this matter the reformers of dress have all the arguments on their side, and Mr. CARNEGIE, we presume, would confess his prejudice in respect of custom and usage. A newspaper's business is the gathering and printing of news. In conveying the news it would not affront its thousands of readers.

REGULATING PRIVATE BANKING.

Justice BIJUR's decision that the law of this State passed last year for the protection of immigrants against the depredations of thieving "bankers" was unconstitutional is a blessing in disguise, for it has resulted in a decision from the Supreme Court of the United States upholding the statute. To have procured such a decision so promptly is a public service comparable to draughting a statute suitable to withstand criticism by the highest court. There is a distinction between free banking and free embezzlement, as the court ruled in the deposit guarantee case, and the New York statute drew the distinction in a constitutional manner.

Justice BIJUR's objection to the law was that it gave the Controller arbitrary powers as to whom he would admit to or exclude from the right to be a banker, and that it conditioned banking upon possession of $20,000 rather than upon probity or judgment. That is not very different from saying that the conditions intended for the protection of the funds of the poor and ignorant in reality allowed the concession of a franchise to despoil them upon merely the forfeiture of the funds designed to assure fair dealing.

The Supreme Court takes another view, and upholds the New York statute as an exercise of the police power. It is as reasonable and as lawful to authorize banking by a license as by a franchise, and the conditions named were well addressed to remedy the grievances which were the cause of the enactment of the law. The New York statutes regarding banking have such a high repute that this prohibition of a peculiarly despicable form of thievery under the forms and cloak of banking is welcome because experience showed its necessity. The gentlemen who resented this interference with such activities now have their option to engage in bona fide banking under the conditions the State imposes, or to make an honest living in some other way.

All virtues save one may inhere in the Citizens' Union's proposal of a pension scheme for civil service employés of the city. The missing virtue is timeliness. The moment when we have just "jacked up" tax assessments by a billion in order to make way for the construction of a $200,000,000 subway condemned by all authoritative expert opinion is hardly a favorable one for proposing to increase our annual municipal expense account by a gift of pensions.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

"Anglo-Saxon" Does Well Enough.

For people who insist on thinking about what words ought to mean, instead of about what they do mean, "Anglo-Saxon" is, indeed, a highly absurd name for the inhabitants of this country, and one hardly less absurd for those of England itself. The inaccuracy of the term, however, is hardly a sufficient cause for such rage as was shown by one of our correspondents in the letter we printed yesterday, and his right to criticise the Anglo-Saxon myth was reduced to nothing by his effort to substitute for it an Anglo-Celtic myth with an even slighter foundation of fact.

He entirely forgot, too, that the Norman French, whom he described as lording it over that poor, vainglorious clodhopper, the creeping Saxon, were themselves of Teutonic origin and had nothing about them of Latin except their language, a possession of as little ethnic significance in their case as it is in that of the American negroes—or in that of any other race, for that matter. The attempt to separate peoples by their speech was long since given up as a bad job by the anthropologists, who now trust only to skull measurements, and not too confidently to those.

As for racial peculiarities, physical and mental, they also have come to be recognized as illusory, since the peculiarities of races are temporal rather than temperamental, and are the results of economic and political conditions rather than of innate peculiarities. Subject nations and dominant nations have their special traits, but when the status of either changes the traits change with it, and then the assumptions as to racial characteristics go all to pieces.

Whether or not this is an Anglo-Saxon country is a question the answer to which depends upon the point of view—upon whether the observer sees an assemblage of people from all parts of Europe, with smaller but still generous additions from the other continents, or whether he sees this wildly composite group as made fairly homogeneous through the pressure of like influences, the holding of similar ambitions, and the generally willing submission to a form of representative government which it is convenient, for lack of a better name, to call Anglo-Saxon. It is that rather more than it is anything else, and institutions count for vastly more than "blood." At least they do until one comes to the lines dividing the three perhaps really distinct types of mankind—the white, yellow, and black.

Convinced by a Coincidence.

Evidently possessing, like many another man whose honesty need not be doubted, the faith which has been defined as "that quality of the human mind which enables a man to believe what he knows is not so," Rear Admiral SCHLEY has written to Dr. COOK, assuring him of his unaltered—and presumably unalterable—conviction that both he and Capt. PEARY reached the pole or its immediate vicinity. That is interesting, but when one studies the Admiral's letter in search of his reasons for holding fast to a belief which the doctor himself no longer wholly supports, none is found except the fact that there are points of similarity between the descriptions of the polar ice made by the two explorers.

This is not a very remarkable coincidence, since it has marked every narrative that ever came from that region, and to say that Dr. COOK must have gone where he said he went, merely because he claimed to have found the only conditions which would have made the trip possible for anybody—that is to put a terrible strain on logic. Capt. PEARY's claim, fortunately for him, rests in no degree upon the fact that he found the traveling unusually good, and his story shows clearly enough that with no other facilities and resources than those possessed by Dr. COOK, the journey to the pole could not have been made, even during that phenomenally favorable season.

His one argument made, the Admiral wanders off into some amiable irrelevancies. He has never believed, it seems, that either PEARY or COOK got within a "pin-point" of the pole, but as nobody ever asserted or supposed that either of them did, there can be no argument about that. He is likewise broad enough to believe that there is room for two at the pole—except at the pin-point, of course—and not so narrow as to believe that only one man got there. The fact remains, however, that only one man could get there first, and which of them did get there is a matter, not of narrowness, but of evidence. Capt. PEARY happens to have abundant and conclusive evidence, in the opinion of expert scientific geographers, while they have decided that Dr. COOK has none at all. For everybody except Admiral SCHLEY and a few other last-ditch Cookites, that settles the question.

Seeking Signs in Vain.

It grieves as well as surprises us that travelers by the Subway who alight from the trains at the Fulton Street Station are still likely to find themselves in Dey Street when they emerge upon the surface, even though their wish and intention was to come out on the other street.

To do this is not, of course, an appalling disaster. The mistake has been made and survived by many an occasional visitor to that part of the city, but it is one which could so easily be rendered impossible by the placing of accurate signs over the several stairways from that station's long platform that their continuous absence is inexplicable. Weeks and weeks ago we suggested this small reform, partly because it was rightful and needed, and partly because it would remove one of many small causes of unpopularity from which the managers of the Subway suffer. They have, however, done nothing to help the wandering stranger on his way. Instead, they have persisted in sending him, not infrequently, out of his way.

And every time this has happened there has been scolding and irritation. Once or twice, it is reported, several dollars of real money have thus been diverted from the financial district, and it is easy to imagine what the brokers think of that in times like these.

The Proper Test Would Be in an Epidemic.

The redoubtable JOSEPH F. RINN, exposer of PALLADINO, believes the doctors who vaccinate are fakers, too. We print his challenge to the doctors:

> Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 10, 1911.
>
> To the Editor of The New York Times:
>
> Having been for many years an exposer of fakes of all kinds, I believe it is now time that the real facts about vaccination should be either scientifically proved or disproved by the medical profession, and in order to do this and test the faith of the medical profession as to the efficacy of vaccination, I hereby offer a reward of $1,000 to any hospital that will furnish five physicians who will submit to vaccination under scientific conditions, with vaccine virus attested by the Board of Health of New York City as being pure, and who after being declared perfectly vaccinated shall permit physicians selected by me to inject into their systems pure smallpox matter. No preventive or means of any kind, but vaccination shall be used, and if at least 60 per cent. of those inoculated with the smallpox matter do not contract smallpox I shall forfeit $1,000. JOSEPH F. RINN.
>
> President Brooklyn Philosophical Association.

It may seem strange to Mr. RINN, but we think if he would ask any qualified vaccinator he would be quickly told that, provided a sufficient quantity of pure smallpox matter were injected, hardly any immunized patient would survive his test. Vaccination heightens the power of resistance to infection; no one pretends that it makes the resistance absolute. But physicians are content with its efficacy in the ordinary and extraordinary risks of an epidemic. During the first half of the decade just passed, Philadelphia had 500 deaths from smallpox, but not one of a patient successfully vaccinated within ten years. Before JENNER almost every adult face was pitted and scarred; now almost everybody has a single beneficent scar, well concealed. A better challenge than Mr. RINN's is this of Dr. OSLER's:

> I will go into the next severe epidemic with ten selected vaccinated persons and ten selected unvaccinated persons. I should prefer to choose the latter—three members of Parliament, three anti-vaccination doctors, if they could be found, and four anti-vaccination propagandists. And I will make this promise—neither to jeer nor to gibe when they catch the disease, but to look after them as brothers, and for the four or five who are certain to die I will try to arrange the funerals with all the pomp and ceremony of an anti-vaccination demonstration.

Mr. RINN should not refuse to accept any risk that a vaccinated person would encounter. Instead of erecting men of straw, we suggest that he "go up against" the real thing implied in Dr. OSLER's challenge.

MR. CARNEGIE ON SPELLING.

Would Have Wellesley Students and The Times Adopt His Methods.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Admirable and up-to-date as THE TIMES is, generally speaking, the editorial upon spelling at Wellesley in to-day's issue is truly lamentable. It seems to hav been ritten by one who new nothing about the subject. These young ladies were no dout taut first that "though" was pronounced tho, with spelling in brackets to giv the pronunciation; "physics," pronounced fisiks; "taught," pronounced taut, &c. Having become accustomd to this natural way, no wonder it is difficult for them to spell these words as they are still printed. They are to be complimented upon this, and if they continue their spelling as taut to pronounce, they will soon improve our language.

A leading institution recently had before it the adoption of simplified spelling for its reports, which are sent to other societies thruout the world. Three of the Directors, very old but eminent men, were strongly opposed thereto until they herd the reasons for the change, when one said: "Oh! we admit you hav all the arguments and we hav only our prejudices." The resolution was carried.

When "The Tale of a Tub" was printed, "spite" was printed "spighte." We hav changed that. Even the slow old fogy TIMES (in this respect only) now prints it in the simplified spelling; but we don't yet spell "bright," b-r-i-t-e; or "slight," s-l-i-t-e, &c., tho we shall soon. The useless "-gh's" are at least doomd. Only this morning I learnd that the Modern Language Association of America has resolvd to use a large number of simplified spellings in its numerous publications. The work goes bravely on.

Even the Smithsonian Institution has adopted many of these alredy in its reports, and so has the Carnegie Institution at Washington. Won't THE TIMES just begin by spelling "though" tho, dropping the superfluous "-gh," as it now does in "spite"?

It is the stupid old fogy educationalists who force the teachers at Wellesley to spell wrongly and annoy the students, not the young ladies who are at fault. They hav my sympathy. I hope they will continue to show their good sens.

The Personal Tax.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You are dead right in your excellent editorial article of to-day on "The Personal Tax." The law which calls for it attempts an impossibility, and, not to put a fine point on it, is a great big bluff! J. R. D. L.

BEREA'S NEEDS.

It Is Sending Away Young Women for Lack of Space.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many of your readers have been interested in the work of Berea College in the Southern mountains. All such will remember the high value which this institution places upon the mountaineer as a British descendant, unspoiled though undeveloped, and a hopeful offset to undesirable foreign elements. Especially is this population, so vigorous and prolific, of significance as the beginning of a middle class in the South.

About a year ago, at the close of our "adjustment troubles," I was ordered abroad by my physicians for prolonged rest. Returning with fair recovery last Fall, I found a condition of such unusual need as to justify this public statement.

Berea was the first institution to call attention to the extent of this mountain field and the peculiar educational treatment which it required, and it has made great progress toward meeting this unusual situation by a variety of adaptations like the extension service, the mountain agriculture, the department of health, the normal department, &c. More than 1,000 mountain students, besides some 100 from outside the mountains, and 200 children in the "model schools," were instructed last year.

We have a fine landed domain, eight good buildings, wings of a hospital, and a science hall, and a whole village of barracks. Our business management is believed to be the very best. Some slips occur because of the use of students as clerks and custodians, but the employment of a registrar and a purchasing agent, and the keeping of departmental accounts so as to show the occasion of each surplus or deficit, and the other arrangements suggested in the recent Carnegie Foundation bulletin on "Academic Efficiency," were long since provided for at Berea.

Home income from endowment and fees	33,000
Amount to be raised in annual gifts	$56,000

The arrearages due to my absence amount to some $22,000, and as much more will be required to complete the heating plant and other projects in hand. Our Holstein cattle are sheltered in most inadequate sheds. But what is worse, we lack bedding and shelter for our young men, and are sending away young women because we cannot find space for them even by putting four persons into all dormitory rooms with two windows. The renewed heating plant will keep us warm, but new engines must be provided before the power will be sufficient for our industries.

The falling off in donations during my absence seems partly due to an impression that Berea was pretty well provided for. In 1909 we completed an "adjustment fund" of $400,000, and some have supposed that this enriched the institution. The fact is, however, that this simply restored resources which were sequestered for the benefit of the colored people when a new State law required us to dismiss our colored students. We have honorably met all our obligations to the colored people by establishing the new Lincoln Institute of Kentucky, and Berea can now give concentrated attention to the needs of the mountains. But we are exhausted by this long adjustment struggle, and our "riches" are only as stated above. The majority of our young men are in unplastered barracks, and we must raise over $1,000 a week just for our daily bread.

In these circumstances we are grateful to all who will acquaint themselves with the facts and contribute any amount large or small. We are also grateful for bedding, and for pictures to help "furnish" the somewhat cheerless barracks, and for gifts to the "Students' Aid and Loan Fund." Each giver of $100 is called an "effective helper." A "sustaining scholarship" of $40 makes up the difference between what a student pays and what his education costs us. Further particulars, with facts about the mountain region, on application.

Standpat Sophistry.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Speaking of Canadian reciprocity Congressman Dalzell said to a representative of The Toronto Globe recently:

> We don't want any reciprocity unless we can get more than we give, for why should we give you a market of ninety millions for a market of seven millions on equal terms?

Surely of all the sophistry of which the Standpatters have such a large stock in trade this is the most contemptible specimen. In 1803, when we bought Louisiana, we gave that territory a market of seven millions of people, in exchange for a market of fifty thousand, and paid $15,000,000 for the privilege. In 1867, when we bought Alaska, we gave the Alaskans a market of forty millions of people in exchange for one of a few thousand Indian hunters and fishermen. And we thought the bargain so good that we paid $7,000,000 to Russia for the territory.

The idea of comparing the size of our market with the size of the Canadian market, as if the relative sizes made any difference in the merits of the case, can only come from the ingrained habit of our protected manufacturers of regarding the consumers as their chattel slaves to be traded as their owners see fit.

Savings Banks and Others.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am prompted to ask you to advocate an amendment to the banking law which will entirely divorce the management of savings banks from all other banks and banking institutions, National and State, by prohibiting any person from becoming an officer or trustee in a savings bank who is an officer or Director in any National or State bank or trust company. It is a fact well known to the public now that intimate relations exist between the management of savings banks and other institutions; that there is a mingling of officers, Directors, and trustees of these various institutions, which enables one institution to help out the other, somewhat after the methods adopted by the man who unlawfully takes funds not his own for the first time, hoping that by chance something will turn up to enable him to make up his defalcation.

Gov. Dix in his message to the Legislature calls attention to the fact that something should be done along these lines, but unfortunately "what is everybody's business is nobody's business," and unless pressure is brought to bear on the Legislature nothing will be done to correct an evil which should be stamped out without delay.

The Absent Treatment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A contemporary remarks that Mrs. Stetson, the Christian Scientist, should call at the City Chamberlain's office, 280 Broadway, Manhattan, where the "absent treatment" is given.

Mrs. Stetson would be pleased at its success, I have no doubt, and Deputy City Chamberlain Walsh might get some comfort from her.

ADVISES DIRECT TAX FOR CITY PENSIONS

Present System Unfair to Municipality, Says Citizens' Union Committee.

PAY FOR DISABLED EMPLOYES

Wants Board of Pensions to Administer Funds to Which Civil Service Employes Should Make Reasonable Contributions.

A report of the special committee of the Citizens' Union, which has been working almost a year on the question of retirement pensions for civil service employes, was made public yesterday. The committee finds the present pension system unfair to the city, giving special and unwarranted privileges to employes in some departments, especially in the Police and Fire Departments, and tending toward constantly increasing cost to the city. The report declares it in the range of possibility that "if continued on the present basis, the pension rolls of the Police and Fire Departments will in time reach or exceed the active payrolls."

The committee favors the establishment of pension funds by direct taxation for a direct appropriation as an item of expenditure in the annual budget. The report contains thirteen specific recommendations as to what should be contained in "a fair, adequate, and comprehensive law" for retirement pensions for all civil service employes.

Of the sixteen city departments, the report points out, only three—Education, Fire, and Police—have extensive pension systems; a fourth—the Health Department—has one of limited application, and that of Finance has a law designed to meet its particular case. The report presents an analysis of the pension payments of the several departments, showing the percentage of active members in each that are pensioners and the percentage of the active payroll paid out in pensions, as follows:

	P. C. of Pensioners.	P. C. of Pensions on Payroll.
Police	31.8	12.7
Fire	29.7	12.8
Education	6.2	3.4
Health	2.0	1.9

Toward these pensions contributions are made by employes in the several departments as follows:

	P. C. of Salary.	P. C. of Pension.
Police	2	14.7
Education	1	28.4
Health	1	44.2

Contrasting the large percentage of cost of administering pensions in the Police and Fire Departments with the small percentage in the Department of Education, the report says:

"In industrial enterprises of a private character, where employes do not contribute, pensions appear to average not more than 1 per cent. of the payroll, and it would seem possible, with a reasonable contribution by city employes, to make very liberal provision within a cost to the city of 2 per cent. of the payroll.

The committee makes the following recommendations:

1. The fundamental consideration in any pension plan supported in any part by public moneys should be the interest of the whole public, not the interest of any particular class less than the whole public.
2. The public interest can be served by a plan which first attracts to public employment persons of superior character, ability and industry, and second retains such persons in public employment so long as their efficiency continues.
3. The public interest will be injured by the retention in public employment of employes of inferior efficiency.
4. Public expenditure for pensions should be based on principles of sound economy. No plan should be adopted until the cost to the public treasury is definitely ascertained. The public can pay too much for increased efficiency.
5. No form of pension plan should be adopted which does not include a contribution by the beneficiary.
6. No pension plan should be adopted which would impede the right of the city to discharge inefficient employes, but in the event of discharge or resignation the contribution of the employe should be returned to him with the interest earned thereon.
7. Any pension plan adopted should be based on the length of service of the employe and a certain attained age of retirement.
8. The plan, when adopted, should apply alike to all employes in the competitive service of the city.
9. Any scheme of pension with contributions from employes should be obligatory and based upon a uniform percentage of the wages or salary received.
10. All contributions for pensions made by the city should be derived from the usual sources of city revenue and appear as a single item in the city's annual budget.
11. Any pension plan should provide that in the case of death before reaching the age of retirement for the employe's contributions with all interest credited thereon should be paid to his next of kin.
12. In the event of temporary injury in the performance of duty, salary or wages should be continued to the injured employe; in the event of permanent disability resulting from injury a pension should begin immediately; in the event of death from injury in the performance of duty reasonable provision should be made for the dependents. Such allowances should be provided from the public treasury.
13. Provision should be made for a "Board of Pensions" which should receive and administer all funds from whatever source derived and applicable to the payment of pensions.

The report is made by a committee consisting of Arthur Williams, Superintendent of the New York Edison Company, Chairman; Henry W. Hardon, Chairman of the Committee on Civil Pensions of the National Civil Service Reform League; Lee K. Frankel, Assistant Secretary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; E. H. Outerbridge, an insurance Director and large employer of labor; Horace E. Deming of the Committee on Pensions of the New York State Civil Service Reform League, Charles C. Burlingham of Burlingham, Montgomery & Beecher, and David Parks Fackler. To the report and recommendations is appended a series of historical reviews of the pension laws and a detailed statistical statement of the salaries and pension funds in several departments.

SENATOR HUGHES DEAD.

Physically Frail, He Succumbs to Year-Long Illness.

DENVER, Jan. 11.—Charles James Hughes, Jr., Democratic United States Senator from Colorado, died in his home here to-day after nearly a year's illness. He had been unconscious since yesterday, and passed from coma almost imperceptibly into death. The immediate cause of demise was pernicious anaemia, with complications of myelitis. A trip to the Hawaiian Islands last Fall failed to improve his health, and shortly after his return he was confined to his bed and remained there until the end. Senator Hughes left a widow and four children.

The news caused general sorrow throughout the city. At the State House the flag was half-masted and House and Senate soon adjourned. No funeral arrangements have been made.

The death of Senator Hughes adds importance to the present session of the Democratic Legislature which will choose his successor to serve until March 3, 1915. Even at this hour plans for the election are making, but tentative candidates remain in the background.

Recently there has been much newspaper discussion of Mayor Robert W. Speer of Denver and former Gov. Alva Adams of Pueblo, both Democrats, as possible successors to the Senatorship, should there be a vacancy, but yesterday Mayor Speer announced that he was not a candidate.

Gov. John F. Shafroth has been frequently mentioned as a possible choice of the Democrats for the seat of Senator Guggenheim, whose term expires two years hence, but he has never publicly authorized the use of his name.

Other prominent Democrats classed as Senatorial timber in the past include former Gov. Charles J. Thomas and Thomas J. O'Donnell, both of Denver.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—While Mr. Hughes had occupied his seat in the Senate for less than two years he had attained a high place in the esteem of his colleagues, and universal regret was expressed over his demise.

The Colorado Senator gave especial attention to legal and public land questions, and during the last session devoted much time to the railroad bill, which also occupied the attention of Senator Elkins, whose death so shortly preceded that of the Colorado Senator. He had shown special aptitude for debate.

Senator Hughes's death was not announced in the Senate to-day because Mr. Guggenheim, his colleague, had not received word from the family as to their wishes for the funeral.

Mr. Hughes was born in Kingston, Mo., Feb. 16, 1853, his father being an attorney and the family prominent in Missouri politics. He was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1873. He taught school for a time, but abandoned it for the law in 1877, coming to Colorado.

He became one of the most noted mining lawyers in the country. From 1903 to 1906 he was Professor of Mining Law in the Harvard Law School. He was indorsed in 1908 by the Democratic State Convention for United States Senator and elected to that office by the next Legislature. Senator Hughes was never strong physically, but overcame physical frailty by remarkable energy. He suffered a broken leg during a tornado in Missouri in his youth, and this accident left him a cripple.

He married Miss Lucy Menefee, of a Virginia family, in Richmond, Mo., in 1874. Four of their children are living—three sons, who are lawyers in Denver, and one daughter, Mrs. W. Woodruff of Knoxville, Tenn. Mr. Hughes was a member of the Strollers' Club of New York.

Mrs. Caroline Hyatt Pell.

Mrs. Caroline Hyatt Pell, widow of John Howland Pell, and a sister of Mrs. Walden Pell, who was Miss Melissa Hyatt, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Cornell Hopkins, Catskill, N. Y. Her sons are S. Osgood Pell, Howland Haggerty Pell, H. Archibald Pell, and Theodore Roosevelt Pell.

DEMAND ROYALTY FOR FRENCH MUSIC

Society of Authors Established Here to Collect Fees from Managers of Concerts.

ORCHESTRAS ARE INCLUDED

When They Play French Compositions Copyrighted in America—Tax Imposed on Lilla Ormond.

Managers of concerts in New York are encountering a curious obstacle to the making of programmes just now in the sudden advent of the Société des Auteurs, Compositeurs, et Editeurs de Musique of Paris, which has recently established an office at 1,265 Broadway, with one Ovide Robbilard as its reprensentative head.

This society proposes in the future to exact a royalty for every performance at any concert of any description whatsoever where money is taken in at the door, or by hotel or restaurant orchestras, of any French composition which is copyrighted in America and the composer of which belongs to the society.

Miss Lilla Ormond sang an air from Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue" at her concert at Mendelssohn Hall yesterday, and the Societé des Auteurs decided that she must pay one-half of 1 per cent. of the gross receipts of her concert for this privilege. This of course meant only one-half a cent on the dollar, but it would mean a good deal, say, if the receipts were $500, to pay for one song.

The society has sent notifications of its purpose to every musical manager in New York and also a slip containing quotations from the copyright law, which, however, cannot be said to apply very distinctly to the matter in hand. It is probable that one of two things will occur as a result—either some one will go to law about the matter or French music will not be put on concert programmes.

The situation has existed, of course, in Paris for some years. There every concert giver or theatrical manager must pay 5 per cent. of the gross receipts of his concert to the society. In England quite the reverse situation exists. There singers are paid for singing the songs, as the English publishers realize that it makes the sale of the music greater.

Of course there would be little demand for the published music of the French composers in New York if it were never played here, and the managers say that rather than pay royalties for performances of these works they will not play them and their artists will not sing them.

Mr. Robbilard explains the matter by saying that in the first place the law exists and should be enforced and that in the second place the French composers see no reason why they should not be receiving royalties for American performances of their works. The outcome of all this is likely to be extremely interesting.

WIGGIN NOW HEAD OF CHASE NATIONAL

Succeeds President A. Barton Hepburn, Who Becomes Chairman of the Directors.

RAPID RISE TO THE TOP

In First Place Among the "Young Men" of Finance—John Alvin Young Resigns as Head of Windsor Trust.

Notable changes in bank officers were made yesterday following the usual annual meetings of National banks. Albert H. Wiggin, Vice President since 1904 of the Chase National Bank and Secretary of the Clearing House in the trying days of the panic, was elected President of the Chase National to succeed A. Barton Hepburn. His election does not mean the retirement of Mr. Hepburn from active work as a head of affairs in the bank. A change in the by-laws was made by resolution of the Directors making Mr. Hepburn Chairman of the board with full executive powers. His new position is described fully in the resolution, which read:

> Resolved, That A. Barton Hepburn be and he hereby is elected Chairman of the board, and is authorized and empowered to manage the affairs and business of the bank as an executive officer, and is authorized to bind the bank by his acts and signature with the same effect as if he were President of the bank.

Mr. Hepburn is one of the most active of the workers in Wall Street. He is President of the Clearing House and of the Chamber of Commerce, and has been one of the dominant figures in banking and economic affairs for a number of years past. Albert H. Wiggin has been one of the most influential of the "young men" tested in the panic, among whom are the three new partners of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Mr. Wiggin, being Secretary of the Clearing House, was also an active member of its Loan Committee. It was on the Loan Committee that the chief burden of caring for the banking situation fell. His recognition in the affairs of Wall Street is shown by his connection with a number of the Street's chief banking institutions. Besides his place in the Chase bank he is in the Executive Committees of the Bankers' Trust Company, Guaranty Trust Company, Astor Trust Company, Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company, and Union Exchange National Bank. When the affairs of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company were to be straightened out following the receivership, the largest receivership brought about by the panic, Mr. Wiggin was one of the committee which framed the plan of reorganization. He is now a member of the Executive Committee of the corporation.

Two other of the large corporations with which he is identified are the International Paper Company and the International Agricultural Corporation. He is a Director of many other corporations. He is 42 years old.

He was born in Medfield, Mass., in 1868, and after graduating from the Dwight School and the English High School in Boston, started his business career as a bank clerk in that city. From 1885 to 1891 he held minor positions in Boston banks and was for three years after 1891 a National Bank Examiner in Boston. From 1894 to 1897 he was assistant cashier of the Third National Bank in Boston, and between 1897 and 1899 Vice President of the Eliot National Bank. He came to New York in 1899, and before becoming Vice President of the Chase National Bank in 1904 was Vice President of the National Park Bank, the Mutual Bank, and the Mount Morris Bank.

Another of the changes announced yesterday in which Wall Street was interested was the retirement of President John Alvin Young from the Windsor Trust Company. Mr. Young retains his place in the Directorate. George W. Young, brother of the President of the Windsor Trust Company, retired on Tuesday from the Directorate of the National Bank of Commerce. August Heckshер, who has been a Director of the Windsor Trust Company for a number of years, was elected to succeed Mr. Young in the Presidency.

Mr. Heckshеr is President of the Central Foundry Company and of the Commonwealth Real Estate Company, and is Vice President of the American La France Fire Engine Company. He is a Director or officer of fifteen other corporations.

Senator Frank O. Briggs of New Jersey and George P. Butler were added to the Windsor board to fill vacancies.

Other bank changes announced yesterday were:

Clarence O. Bigelow, Vice President, of the West Side Savings Bank, was elected President to succeed the late Stephen G. Cook. Mr. Bigelow has served as a trustee of the bank for upward of twenty years and has been Chairman of the Executive Committee since 1904.

At the annual meeting of the Jefferson Bank, former Directors were re-elected and the bord increased to eighteen by the addition of S. G. Beals, F. N. Behnan, Stuyvesant Fish, Jr., Morgan Jones, W. H. Leupp, and Charles Otis.

At the annual meeting of the Madison Safe Deposit Company Charles E. Calhoun and Breckinridge Caroll were elected Directors to fill vacancies.

Frederick W Allen, formerly connected with the Simmons Hardware Company of St. Louis, and not Everett Alan, as erroneously stated yesterday, was elected on Tuesday to the Directorate of the Mechanics' and Metals National Bank, along with Stanley Field, a nephew of the late arshall Field, and a member of the firm of Marshill Field & Co. of Chicago.

The only change in the Directorate of the Plaza Bank was the addition of William M. V. Hoffman to the board.

R. Henry Depew of the New York insurance brokerage corporation of Abram S. See & Depew was elected President of the State Trust Company of Plainfield, N. J. He is President of several civic, political, and business organizations in Plainfield. He succeeds William A. Clark.

PRESIDENT SNYDER RETIRES.

Head of Bank of Commerce and 40 Years in New York Banking.

Valentine P. Snyder, President of the National Bank of Commerce, announced his determination to retire yesterday after more than forty years of continuous service in the banking field of New York. President Snyder has had it in mind for several years past to give up active work, and retained the Presidency of the National Bank of Commerce during the past year only at the solicitation of the Board of Directors. The board at their meeting yesterday accepted his resignation, to become effective April 1, and passed resolutions extolling his services, saying that during the entire period of his Presidency the bank had in volume of business been second to only one other in this country, and "in point of character second to none."

No successor to President Snyder has yet been determined on, it was said yesterday. The National Bank of Commerce is the second largest banking institution in New York. It has a capital of $25,000,000, surplus of more than $16,000,000, and deposits and loans ranging around $116,000,000 and $138,000,000 respectively. The retiring President came to the institution as Vice President when it absorbed the Western National Bank of the United States. That bank was in itself the result of the merger in 1903 of the Western National Bank with the United States National Bank, and Mr. Snyder had been President of the former.

His life training has been in banking, and he has held pretty nearly every position from messenger up. In his years as head of one of Wall Street's largest institutions he never relaxed the strict habits acquired during his long apprenticeship and seldom failed to appear at his desk promptly at 8 o'clock. He was born at Hudson, N. Y., and when he was very young went into the Hudson River Bank of that place as a messenger boy.

After rising to the position of junior clerk he moved to Fishkill and got employment in a minor position in the First National Bank there. His first banking connection in New York was with the Chatham National, and from there he went into the old Third National Bank. He remained at the Third National Bank until Daniel Manning, Secretary of the Treasury under Cleveland, took him to Washington as his private secretary. He was for a time chief clerk in the Treasurer's office and later Deputy Controller of the Currency.

In 1897 he was appointed a National Bank Examiner in New York, and it was out of this service that he entered the First National Bank as Assistant Cashier. The Western National Bank was organized by Daniel Manning about that time, and he took Mr. Snyder in as Vice President. His direct rise from that position to the head of the National Bank of Commerce was only interrupted during a brief period after the merger while Joseph C. Hendrix was President. Mr. Snyder succeeded him.

The National Bank of Commerce was closely identified with interests identified with the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and President Snyder has been for years one of its Directors. He is Director in the Audit Company, the Casualty Company of America, the Mercantile Trust Company, the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, the Morton Trust Company, and a number of other important institutions.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Wheat advanced to new high levels with limited trading. Opening prices were higher with renewed activity of shorts. The Liverpool market was a little better than expected, but the Argentine market was disappointing. There was, however, quite a little apprehension regarding the weather conditions through the West. It is severely cold in the Northwest, and this cold weather has reached slowly down into the Winter wheat belt. The crop is bare of snow in the Central West, and very little precipitation has accompanied the drop in temperatures. After the early advance the market was slow. There was a little buying at some decline owing to the smaller receipts in the Northwest and decrease in the Minneapolis stocks. Flour output is fairly active in the Northwest, and at three points the production last week was 315,000 barrels. Water power is very low at Minneapolis, not over 40 per cent. of the normal at this time of the year. There has been a little better flour demand at the Northwest owing to the advance in wheat, more orders booked and more shipping directions. After midday support again developed in the market and prices were carried up still higher with final quotations at new high levels. There were some reports of export business at Winnipeg, 100,000 bushels, and Chicago reported 15,000 bushels of No. 2 red, sold to go to Texas. At first this was reported as sold to go to Kansas. Cash wheat locally was dull. Cash wheat quoted No. 2 red Winter, $1.01½, elevator, and No. 2 red, $1.01⅞, free on board, afloat, for export; No. 2 hard, $1.08, free on board, afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.23½; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.08⅞.

CORN was very steady and at times active. It opened stronger on firm cables and a gain of nearly 3c a bushel at Buenos Ayres Tuesday, advancing May corn at the close there to 70⅝c per bushel of fifty-six pounds. About midday the Argentine opening for the day came in 8⅞ to 4c per bushel down due to rains. This induced some selling of the future market, but later the market was very steady at about the best prices. The West reported rather free selling by the country as a result of the recent advance, but on the whole offerings were not so great as on Monday or early Tuesday. Western receipts are increasing. Exporters were fairly good buyers and sales of 160,000 bushels were reported. Cash corn was firm, No. 2, nominal, for new, to arrive, elevator, domestic basis, and No. 2, free on board, afloat, for export, to arrive next week, 52½c.

OATS.—Trade in oats was quiet with the market about steady. Late there was some buying with the advance in other grain. Cash oats were firm and Western receipts have been rather moderate so far this week, while shipments from the interior have increased quite heavily. Cash oats were very steady. Cash oats quoted standards, 39½c; No. 2 white, 40c; No. 3 white, 39c.

PROVISIONS were fairly active and lower at the opening on a decline in hogs, and the fact that a good many hogs were left over in the stock yards. Later there was a good demand for hogs, prices recovered, and futures were quite firm the last hour, closing at best prices for the day.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Trading was of fair proportions in the local market during yesterday's session, but as has been the case recently, there was no special significance in the operations. Dealings were largely composed of switching and professional trading, with the undertone steady. Crude oil in the South is quoted at levels practically unchanged from the beginning of the week, and there is little disposition to sell aggressively in the face of the holding tendency at Southern mills, although on the other hand the absence of speculation is restricting bull enthusiasm. The weakness in cotton and early heaviness in lard had little effect.

COTTON.

Prices during yesterday's session were at lower levels than for many days, and at one time showed losses of from 50 to 65 points as compared with the high of the season made just at the time of the issuance of the Government crop report. There was general liquidation during the day, while support from the bulls that was in evidence heretofore just below the 15c level was missing, and stop loss orders were encountered, adding to the extent of the weakness, with short covering responsible for the slight rallies.

Advices received from Liverpool were rather encouraging to holders, with continued favorable trade reports at hand from Lancashire, but these advices were more than offset by trade conditions in this country. Bears laid stress upon curtailment "talk," and room traders were disposed to hammer values, encouraged in their operations by the continued lack of outside demand.

Wall Street was a free seller, and it was thought that important lines were being liquidated inasmuch as recently public speculation has been small, with the failure of Tuesday's ginning figures to inspire demand also accounting for the pressure. In fact, overnight interpretations placed upon the ginning figures were bearish, and as a result crop ideas were being raised, notwithstanding assertions made by the bulls that ginning as given in the last Government statement represented practically the full crop.

Movement is in somewhat smaller volume, but as yet cannot be construed as a bull argument showing totals above last year, and these liberal receipts tend to offset private bullish spot advices from the South.

There are some complaints emanating from Texas and Oklahoma relative to dry weather conditions in those States, but many are of the opinion that if moisture materializes in the near future the soil will be improved to a good extent. Southern spots were ⅛c decline to 3-16c advance, and New York spot cotton was 15 points decline from previous closing. Middling quoted at 14.80.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Money was strong on demand and discounts were firmer today. No change in the bank rate is expected to-morrow.

The settlement commenced on the Stock Exchange with easier charges, and as traders showed no inclination for fresh commitments, prices dropped, except for foreign issues, especially Honduras bonds and diamond shares, which ruled firm.

The American section opened steady and prices advanced, but the market reacted. There was a slight improvement in the early afternoon on repurchases, but prices sagged off again and closed irregular.

Bar silver steady at 25 5-16d. per ounce.

Money, 2¾@3 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3½@4⅝ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 3⅝ per cent.

Gold premium at Madrid, 7.45, and at Lisbon, 8.50.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—Prices on the Bourse to-day opened firm, but later reacted and closed heavy.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

6,072. ALUMINIUM IN INGOTS.—An American Consular officer in Italy reports that a business firm in his district has requested to be placed in communication with American manufacturers of aluminium in ingots, with a view to representing such manufacturers in that country. The firm desires only the names of such firms as are not already represented in Italy.

6,073. KITCHEN UTENSILS.—A report from an American Consular officer in a European country states that a business house in his district desires to secure the local representation of American manufacturers of all kinds of kitchen utensils and articles of household use generally, consisting principally of cooking utensils in aluminium, copper, granite ware &c.

6,074. GAS WATER HEATERS.—A European business firm advises an American Consular officer that it desires to represent American manufacturers of automatic gas water heaters. The heater wanted is for use in heating water for the bath. At present the water supply for household use is not constant, and each apartment or house usually has a tank to hold a reserve supply, which is sometimes exhausted. A gas heater which will automatically close the gas jets when the water supply fails, and thus prevent bursting, is required. Such heaters made in Germany are sold in large quantities, and there is a good opportunity to introduce those of American design. This house is in a position to handle them extensively. Prices, illustrated catalogues, and terms should be given. Bank references will be furnished. Correspondence may be in English.

6,075. AGRICULTURAL AND MINING MACHINERY.—The American correspondent of a Persian publication informs the Bureau of Manufactures that he would like to secure from manufacturers in the United States catalogues, price lists, and full particulars in regard to all kinds of agricultural and mining machinery. The American address of the inquirer can be obtained by interested firms from the Bureau of Manufactures.

6,076. RAILWAY MATERIAL.—Deputy Consul General Ulysses J. Bywater of Dresden, Germany, reports that the rolling stock of the Danish State Railroads is to be increased, and the Government intends to purchase 23 locomotives from abroad. For this purpose $402,000 has been appropriated.

6,077. AGRICULTURAL AND OTHER MACHINERY.—An American Consul in Russia reports that a local business man in a recent interview stated that he was anxious to secure the agency of American firms manufacturing the following lines of machinery: Portable engines, steam thrashers, motor thrashers, horse power thrashers, chaff cutters, simple cutters and grinders, mowers, reapers, binders, potato diggers, horserakes, with and without seats; elevators, hay pressers and straw pressers, peat exploiting machinery, and peat pressers. Bank references are furnished, and correspondence is preferred in German.

6,078. DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a communication from a business man in a group of islands in the North Atlantic Ocean, stating that he makes a specialty of importing drugs and chemicals of all kinds, and would like to get in touch with American manufacturers of these lines. He is especially interested in white and yellow vaseline, all degrees of hardness. Prices should be quoted, cost, insurance, and freight, certain city. Cash payments will be made against bills of lading in New York. Attention is called to the direct steamship service to the port in question.

6,079. LUMP AND LOAF SUGARS.—An inquiry has been received by the Bureau of Manufactures from a British firm regarding the exportation of American sugars. This house desires the names of sugar refiners who export pure cane American lump sugar and Cuban loaf sugar. If these compare favorably with the qualities at present offered, preference will be given to the American and Cuban makes, as the style is liked better.

PENNSYLVANIA PLANS BIG NEW STOCK ISSUE

Directors of Road Ask Stockholders' Authorization to Extent of $100,000,000.

CAUSES DROP IN MARKET

Ten Per Cent. Allotment at Par to Cover $40,000,000 Needs of Year—Rest for Future Needs.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—At a meeting of the Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to-day it was decided to present to the stockholders at their annual meeting in March a resolution authorizing an increase of $100,000,000 in the capital stock.

At present the authorized capital stock of the company is $500,000,000, of which $412,610,000 has been issued. All of the difference between the amount issued and the amount authorized is at present reserved for the possible conversion of the company's outstanding convertible bonds, excepting $22,000,000.

The company's needs of this year, to provide for maturing obligations and necessary improvements, require the raising of between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000, according to a statement issued by the company. It is, therefore, proposed, should the resolution submitted by the Directors to the stockholders meet with favorable action, to make a stock allotment of 10 per cent. at par, payable one-half on May 31 and the remaining half on Aug. 31.

It is not the intention at this time to issue any part of the $100,000,000 for which authorization is asked, except so much as is necessary to supply this proposed issue of 10 per cent., but the authority is now asked for that the Directors may be able to make further issues of stock from time to time in the future, as the requirements of the company may make such issues necessary.

Announcement of the new Pennsylvania stock issue resulted in a decline in the stock on the New York market from 129⅛ to 127⅞, where the stock closed for the day, with a net loss of 1⅜ points. The rights to subscribe to the new stock were figured both here and in Philadelphia to be worth about 2½. The last stock issue by the Pennsylvania was announced in the Fall of 1909. It amounted to over $82,000,000, or 25 per cent. of the then outstanding stock, and, like the present issue, was offered at par. The right to subscribe was given from Dec. 8 to Dec. 18, and during this period the price of the stock rose about 7 points, to above 136. At the beginning of the period it was selling just about at the price at which it was selling when the announcement was made yesterday, which broke the stock about 2 points.

The previous stock offering by the Pennsylvania was in 1903, when $75,000,000 was offered to the stockholders at 120. At that time the stock was selling much above the subscription price, but following the underwriting of the stock by a syndicate and the termination of the subscription period the price declined considerably under 120. From 1903 to 1907 all the Pennsylvania's financing was done by bond issues, principally by issues of convertible bonds.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Good Export Business Helping to Equalize Falling Demand at Home.

Commenting on the situation in the trade, the Iron Age says:

Export business in steel products has been unusually good of late, excellent, as it was throughout 1910, and it is particularly welcome in the present halt of new demand at home. A significant order recently placed is for 250,000 boxes of tin plate for the export oil trade. Welsh tin plate, as is well known, has long been imported for this trade, but the crowded condition of Welsh mills and the consequent advances in tin plates abroad have temporarily thrown business to American mills.

From the railroad standpoint the immediate situation is considered to be better, to the extent that 220 locomotives have been placed in the past week, and that rail and bridge demand shows more promise. The acceptance of the Pennsylvania rail order for a total of 150,000 tons has been assured by an agreement on the price to be paid for the extra discard. The price basis of the New York Central contract is also near adjustment, an extra being asked by the mills for meeting the ductility requirements on high carbon open-hearth rails. The Great Northern has bought 3,800 tons of open-hearth rails, and an Eastern coal road with Western connections has bought 10,000 tons. An inquiry for 28,000 tons for a Western line and one for 25,000 tons for a Southern road are pending.

The Iron Trade Review says:

The controversy concerning specifications of Pennsylvania Railroad for steel rails has been adjusted, but the order for 150,000 tons has not been formally entered. The Pennsylvania system has withdrawn its inquiry for 2,000 cars. Cast-iron pipe interests have been active buyers of pig iron and leading interests are reported to have puchased more than 40,000 tons, but this has not been positively confirmed. It is understood that cast-iron pipe interests in the East are willing to buy about 20,000 tons if a satisfactory quotation can be obtained. Inquiries have increased in Eastern territory, where some low prices are being made.

PENNSYLVANIA'S STOCK ISSUE

News of Impending Offering Followed by General Declines—Money Easing as Banks Accumulate Cash.

Announcement in the final hour of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday of the intention of the Pennsylvania Railroad Directors to ask the stockholders to authorize an increase of $100,000,000 in the company's capital stock turned an irregular and dull market into a weak and active one, with Pennsylvania shares leading the decline. This stock fell nearly 2 points from the day's high before the close, and losses nearly as large were suffered by the stocks of several other roads which are expected to appeal for capital in the near future. The weakest features of the late dealings, however, were once more the industrial shares, in which there seems to be going forward genuine liquidation. This is notably true of Central Leather preferred, but the dealings in this and shares undergoing proportionate declines were small, and in some cases were said to be connected with recent developments in the local banking situation. Trading was heavy at the close and stocks, as a rule, at the lowest prices of the day.

While the Pennsylvania's announcement of a new issue of stock was accompanied by the statement that no more than $40,000,000 or thereabout would be put out in the immediate future, the financing, particularly along such lines, was quite unexpected and, therefore, in the prevailing mood of Wall Street rather unsettling. Nothing will erase from the minds of speculators and traders the somewhat unpleasant sequences of the Pennsylvania's stock offering of 1903, which involved the formation of an underwriting syndicate before the transaction was finally concluded, although that episode ought not, of course, to serve as a guide in the present case. From that time until December, 1909, financing was done through issues of convertible bonds, and a very large amount of stock is now held in the road's treasury to care for such bonds. As a rule, the financing undertaken by the Pennsylvania has been so carefully gone about that the presumption is warranted in this instance that the method now adopted is justified by existing conditions, and, if so, this is a fact of prime importance. Other developments of the day of a financial bearing were of minor consequence, including routine earnings statements from the railroads, disclosing no change in tendencies, and reiteration by the leading authority in the iron and steel trades of the indisposition of manufacturers to make any change in prices at this time.

Another substantial gain from the Sub-Treasury was reported by the local banks, bringing the amount secured since Friday last up to $5,296,000, and following this the highest quotation for call money was 3½ per cent., against 4 per cent. on Tuesday. The foreign exchange market was weak for the first time in several days. Demand sterling declined 20 points in the course of the day.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—Comparatively narrow fluctuations marked the movement in prices on the local Exchange to-day. The tone was fairly firm until the announcement of the Pennsylvania stock increase, when the whole list eased off to a rather heavy close. Profit taking from the outset was evident in United Gas Improvement and General Asphalt. The preferred was inactive. Philadelphia Company showed a disposition to harden to-day, and this was also true of Lehigh Valley and Reading.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

Business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange increased in volume, although the trading list was not as broad as on Tuesday. Much of the gain in the total was accounted for by heavier dealings in United States Steel common and Reading. Early in the day speculative sentiment rather favored higher prices, but the session ended with a selling movement, which gathered impetus with the publication of the news that the Pennsylvania Railroad planned a $100,000,000 new stock issue. Transactions totaled 71,670 shares, with forty-five different issues represented.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Transactions were small, as a rule, although considerable activity was displayed in a few stocks. Match was under some pressure and lost for the day almost a point. Sears-Roebuck, after opening on a large fractional decline at 187¼, lost more than a point further to 186. In common with these there were lower prices also in Swift, American Can, Booth common and preferred, and Chicago Telephone.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Missouri Pacific Wants a President.

George J. Gould, it became known yesterday, has consented to turn the Presidency of the Missouri Pacific over to some railroad man of recognized ability, who would give to the Missouri Pacific more time than Mr. Gould is disposed to give to it, and who would bring to the service of the company the practical railroad ability and experience which Mr. Gould does not possess. In this connection it is learned that the Missouri Pacific Presidency, at a salary reported to be nearly $100,000 a year, was recently offered to President Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and that he declined the post. No other man, it is understood, has yet been offered the place, but it will be given, it is said, to the best railroad man who can be found and who will accept it.

⁂

Looking for Directors Too.

The proposed changes in the Missouri Pacific, it is understood, will go a little further than the choice of a new President, and will include, in all probability, the election of several new Directors. The significance attached in the financial district to these prospective changes is that the Missouri Pacific will be placed in a position to share to a greater extent than it has done in the past in the prosperity enjoyed by a number of other Western roads. While it is specifically stated that any changes which may be made will be with the consent of Mr. Gould, as he could not be dislodged against his will, it is, nevertheless, regarded as probable that the new men shall be acceptable also to the banking interests which financed the Missouri Pacific and to the Rockefeller interests, which are understood to have resumed an important position.

⁂

Reading May Issue Bonds.

The fact that the Reading Company will be called upon in June to pay off more than $18,000,000 of bonds, which mature in that month, has given rise to reports of a new bond issue by the company. It has been regarded as likely that bonds would be employed to provide the funds needed for this purpose, and yesterday's reports were, therefore, accepted as probable despite the absence of any actual confirmation of the new financing.

⁂

Rumored Bank Changes.

Since the closing up of the Carnegie Trust stories have been persistent in the Street of a further consolidation of banking interests which will bring under the wings of the powerful institutions downtown some of the smaller banks and trust companies in the commercial field in the upper stretches of the city. Two of the smaller National banks are spoken of as contemplating a merger, and a further consolidation of trust companies is predicted.

Market Off on Pennsylvania News.

The announcement of the new Pennsylvania issued had an immediate effect on that stock in the last hour of the market yesterday and was influential in depressing the rest of the list. Pennsylvania shares declined from 129⅛ to 127⅝ in the last hour of trading and were comparatively active after a long day of neglect. Only a few hundred shares appeared on the tape up to 2 o'clock. New York Central behaved oddly before and after the news. Shortly after the opening there was a decline of ⅞ in th estock, and then the shares disappeared from the tape. There was no transaction in New York Central between 12 and 2, but during the fall in Pennsylvania the decline started in again and in the last hour another ⅞ loss was added to the day's record, making the net loss in New York Central at the close 1⅝.

BONDS have fallen steadily for the past five years. The most obvious reason is that lower bond prices are an inevitable concomitant of higher interest rates. Why are interest rates higher? The favored explanation is the enormous production of gold which raises the price of money as well as of all other commodities. How long will the enormous production of gold continue? Experts say not less than thirty years. What is the moral. Buy GUARANTEED MORTGAGES—thus obtaining in addition to absolute security and a good rate of interest, the control of your capital for reinvestment every three or five years, enabling you to take advantage of interest fluctuations.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Contractors Advocate Changes in Building Code—Temple Hall in a $450,000 Deal—First Transfer of Maiden Lane Parcel in One Hundred Years.

A meeting of builders was held this week in the office of the Buckley Construction Company, 103 Park Avenue, to discuss the necessity of changing the building code so as to bring it up to the requirements of modern day construction. In addition to the code changes, it was suggested that a law should be enacted licensing all builders, the plan being that every builder should serve an apprenticeship of at least ten years as a mason, carpenter, architect, or civil engineer, and then be examined by a committee consisting of a member of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, the Board of Fire Underwriters, the Society of Architects, the Society of Civil Engineers, and three reputable builders.

It was also suggested that the salaries of the Building Inspectors should be increased from $1,500 to $2,000. The necessity of some of these changes is to be brought before the attention of the Mayor and the Board of Estimate. The committee appointed at the meeting to further the plan consists of Francis X. Grady, Thomas B. Leahy, Thomas J. Buckley, Edward J. Middleton, and James Whiskerman, formerly assistant engineer in the Manhattan Building Department.

De Forest Co. Buys Temple Hall.

Temple Hall, the recently completed six-story elevator apartment house on the southwest corner of 121st Street and Lenox Avenue, has been purchased by the De Forest Corporation for investment. In part payment the owners, John Palmer and Harry Goodstein, accepted the property at the corner of 164th Street and St. Nicholas 9venue, consisting of about seven and a half lots. The transaction involves about $450,000. Edward L. King & Co. negotiated the sale. The heights parcel will probably be improved with an apartment house.

Two Deals on Lower West Side.

Two parcels on the lower west side were disposed of yesterday to investors. The Duross Company sold for the O'Neill estate 271 West Tenth Street, an old dwelling on a plot 27 by 95. The buyer, David Nangle, will improve the property. The six-story stable at 75 Ludlow Street was sold by Pierre M. Clear & Co. for Theodore Palumbo. The building occupies a lot 25 by 100.

Quick Resale in Front Street.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has resold for a client to Harry K. Grigg, 74 Front Street, a five-story and basement building, with elevator, covering a lot 18.8 by 86.7. It adjoins four buildings in Old Slip. This is the third sale of the property in six months. It was first taken by C. M. Silverman & Son at $35,000 in exchange, and recently sold to the present seller. Mr. Grigg, the purchaser, through the same brokers recently purchased 75 Front Street, corner of Old Slip.

First Sale in 100 Years.

A piece of property in the insurance section which has not changed hands for over 100 years has been sold by the Charles F. Noyes Company for F. J. Davison, representing the estate of Susan J. Palmer. The property is at 121 Maiden Lane, extending through to 5 Fletcher Street, occupied by an old five-story building, on a lot 23.8 by 85. Another interesting feature is that the buyers have paid all cash, the assessed valuation being $42,500. Plans are being prepared by the architect, Frederick Putnam Platt, to alter the building into a seven-story loft, and negotiations are pending for its lease at $6,000 per year.

$1,700,000 Fifth Avenue Lease.

A twenty-one-year lease has been made of the eleven-story Howard Building, on the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue and [illegible]-seventh Street, the aggregate rental being $1,700,000. The property is owned by Michael Dreicer and Ralph L. Shainwald. It was transferred to the present owners by Simon Frankel in December, 1908, subject to a mortgage of $1,000,000. It was rumored that the lessee is Theodore B. Starr, but the principals in the deal refused to confirm the report.

Sale in East 80th Street.

Edward S. Beach has purchased from Daniel Rosenbaum 175 East Eightieth Street, a three-story dwelling, on a lot 16.8 by 100. The Douglas Robinson Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the sale.

Bronx Sales.

Shaw & Co. have sold 2,486 Tiebout Avenue, a four-story double flat, 31 by 68 by 100, to a client for investment.

Dr. Cook's Old Brooklyn Home Sold.

Max Lacker of Manhattan has taken title to the old home of Dr. Cook, the arctic explorer, at Bushwick and Willoughby Avenues, Brooklyn. The property was purchased about two years ago by the Brooklyn Ladies' Hebrew Home for the Aged, which recently sold it to erect a new building on a plot of twelve lots lately purchased at Howard and Dumont Avenues. The society is four years old.

Suburban Sales.

S. Osgood Pell & Co. have sold at Sands Point, L. I., for the Hillview Land Company, to Mrs. Albert G. McDonald, a tract of acreage, adjoining the property which the same brokers recently sold for Mrs. McDonald to Mr. Frank N. Hoffstot and on which he is erecting one of the handsomest country residences on the North Shore of Long Island.

The executors of the estate of William Ziegler have sold to Thomas Fermatrye of 1,356 Avenue A, Manhattan, one lot at Ingleside, L. I., for $625.

Theodore A. Smith has sold to Charles H. Ryan a parcel having a frontage of 188 feet on the east side of Drew Avenue and 100 feet on the north side of Broadway, South Woodhaven, L. I., subject to a mortgage of $5,500.

Recent Buyers.

Solomon Manheimer is the buyer of 142 and 144 West Twenty-eighth Street, sold Tuesday by Aaron Coleman. The buyer owns the adjoining parcel and now controls a plot 76.10 by 98.9.

Foreclosure Offerings.

The new-law tenements known as 522-526 West 174th Street, five story and basement each, occupying a plot 37.6 by 100, and a six-story and basement new-law tenement at 231 East Ninety-ninth Street, occupying a lot 37.6 by 100.11, will be offered at the stand of Joseph P. Day to-day in the Vesey Street Salesroom.

Cruickshank for the destruction of twenty two and three story old-fashioned brick and frame dwellings, at 92 to 95 Morton Street, 617 to 629 Washington Street, 115 Barrow Street, and 635 to 654 Greenwich Street, to make room for the $900,000 eight-story warehouse which is to be erected on the site.

$200,000 East Side Loft.

Plans have been filed with Building Supt. Miller for a seven-story factory to be built on the southeast corner of Broome and Lewis Streets at a cost of $200,000 for the Minsker Realty Company, of which Louis Minsky is President. The building will have a frontage of 150 feet on Broome Street and 125.11 feet on Lewis Street. Sommerfeld & Steckler are the architects.

Duty on Schappe Silk Yarns Cannot Be Raised by Government.

Notwithstanding the submission of a "new case" and the presentment of additional testimony, the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday declined to uphold the Government in an attempt to exact higher duty on importations of Schappe silk yarns imported by Max Bouchsein of this city. When a similar issue was up before the tribunal under the Tariff act of 1909 several months ago the board in its decision found against the Government.

General Appraiser Howell, who writes the decision for the board in the latest case decided yesterday, is again unable to uphold the claims of the Government, the importer's contentions being sustained. Judge Howell lays down four rules, which are to govern the entry and classification of merchandise of this kind into this country. The first principle enunciated by the General Appraiser is that Schappe silk yarns are dutiable under Paragraph 337, act of 1909, according to "number" to be ascertained by the metric or French system. The next, or second, proposition laid down is that in determining the size or "number" of the yarn according to the metric or French system, the absolutely dry weight of the yarns should be ascertained, to which 11 per cent. must be added for moisture, and the weight thus obtained is the basis for calculating the number of the yarn.

Situations Wanted.

Time was when the early Puritan posted a notice by the whipping post or the church door if he wanted anything—now the accepted order of things is to send a Situation Wanted Advertisement to the newspaper.

Are you taking advantage of this most important and useful department? Do you keep in close touch with the Want columns? There's hardly a housekeeper or business house that can't gain something by reading the Situations Wanted advertisements each day and turning them to account.

It's a long step in advance from the posted notice to the modern want advertisement—the advancement that puts a Want before thousands when in ye olden times scores only could see it.

The modern Want Advertisement does its work—accomplishes its object—quickly and effectively at a minimum expense.

FINDING A PROFIT IN WELFARE WORK

Better Conditions for Employes Mean Less Expense to a Firm, Says Dr. Lucy Bannister.

HEAD "WORKERS" MEET HERE

Resent Being Called Social Secretaries—Civic Federation to Take Up Trust Regulation To-day.

Men and women engaged in bettering the working and living conditions of those employed in the large mining and manufacturing plants of the country held an all-day conference yesterday at 1 Madison Avenue, introductory to the annual meeting, beginning to-day, of the National Civic Federation, when such and kindred problems will be discussed by the employers themselves.

The men and women so engaged are known as Welfare Workers, and their President, William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, told in his address of welcome how they had rebelled against being called "social secretaries" so vigorously that all haste was made to change the name. Mr. Willcox implied that there was equal repugnance to the idea that those employed in mitigating the hardships of the factory workers were dispensing charity.

Chairman Willcox declared that the essential reason for the promotion of welfare work was to bring about mutual benefit to employer and employed. Mr. Willcox was sure that not only was this being accomplished, but that even the consumer was reaping benefits from this welfare work. Real welfare work, Mr. Willcox said, related to sanitary work places, recreation, educational opportunities, housing, and provident funds.

One of the most interesting talkers at the morning session, Dr. Lucy A. Bannister, Welfare Manager of the Westinghouse Lamp Company, Bloomfield, N. J., said it was the first problem, and no easy one, to convince employers that the comfort of the wage earners reduced expenses. As a matter of fact, however, Dr. Bannister said, it was not philanthropy, but sound investment. She declared also that there should be a hospital in every big factory for the prompt treatment of emergency cases, particularly to treat the common complaint of weariness on the part of employes, thus enabling them to give better attention to their work. She favored proper lunch and recreation rooms as a means of bettering the health of employes, and at the same time increasing their value to their employers.

She surprised many by saying she knew of instances where impure air was pumped from one factory room to another merely to save the expense of heating. She added, however, that she did not believe there were many employers left who believed this to be a good form of economy.

"Fresh air and proper ventilation," declared Mr. Bannister, "are now admitted to be essential to the best industrial conditions, and in all places where many are employed as a medical department is in line with economy."

Arthur A. Ernst, a consulting engineer of light of this city, said the danger of eye-strain, with many consequent evils, was great in improperly lighted workrooms. With a little attention, he said, the lights in these rooms might be scientifically adjusted and utilized so as to provide general safety in health, with a reduction of fatigue, the whole having a tendency to increase the efficiency and output of the workers.

Mr. Ernst said the problem of lighting large plants was so serious in results unless properly solved that a bill was already in preparation for presentation to the Legislature to regulate or standardize the lighting of all factories.

There is real economy for employers in the prompt care of injured employés, according to Dr. J. M. Wainwright of the Moses Taylor Hospital, Scranton, Penn. He also advocated an emergency hospital in every big plant, and the instruction of the employés themselves in giving "first aid."

Some of the other speakers were Miss Mary L. Goss of Chicago; Dr. George H. Halberstadt, Philadelphia; D. C. Lowles, Cleveland, and Miss Anna A. E. Van De Carr, Boston.

Late in the afternoon the delegates were guests at tea of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman. Among those who spoke there was Mrs. L. R. Ray of the Siegel-Cooper-Greenhut Company of this city, who described the welfare work in this company's department stores.

"Our first step in welfare work," said Mrs. Ray, "was taken when we started the employés' association, and that for a time filled all the needs. This included the doctor's services any day during the year while at the store, all of their medicines free and half of their salaries for six weeks in the year. A few years later, through the inspiration of Miss Gertrude Beeks, Mr. Greenhut started welfare work on a systematic basis. Miss Beeks convinced him that it was advisable to have a welfare secretary or manager to do for his employés what he would like to do but hadn't time. One can readily see that with 7,000 employés there is a field for thought and a great deal to be done.

"Since this step was taken there have been improvements throughout the store in general. We have a sick-room, a restaurant, and better dressing-rooms, and, best of all, a lunch-room where food is served to the employes for less than cost. The milk is examined and the food inspected and we are always glad to have others come and test it. Since we have broadened out it has enabled the welfare manager or secretary to come in touch with the home environment, where we can better see the needs of the employés."

When the National Civic Federation meets in annual session this morning at 10 o'clock at the Hotel Astor President Seth Low will present his annual report. Following him the regulation of trusts from both the State and Federal viewpoint will be taken up. The speakers will be W. L. McKenzie King, Minister of Commerce and Labor, Canada; William Dudley Foulke of Indiana; Samuel Untermyer, Samuel Gompers, J. W. Jenks, Gilbert H. Montague, T. J. Brooks of Tennessee, and others.

This afternoon industrial efficiency will be discussed by Harrington Emerson, H. L. Gannt, Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and James O'Connell, President of the International Association of Machinists.

To Exhibit Hebrew Children's Work.

The Sanitarium for Hebrew Children will make an exhibit of its work in connection with its annual meetin, to the delegates of the Twenty-second Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations next Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the United Hebrew Charities nection with its annual meeting to the Building, 356 Second Avenue. There will be addresses by Maximilian Toch, President of the sanitarium; C. Richard Davis, Louis J. Halle, and others.

CAUGHT IN BLAZING HALL.

Flames Swept In Behind Firemen Through an Open Door.

From the third floor windows of the five-story brick factory building at 108-110 Duane Street, at the corner of Church Street, flames and smoke suddenly burst at 10:30 o clock last night and a passing truckman, seeing them, turned in an alarm. As he ran toward the box on the corner, he shouted too, and Deputy Chief Binns heard his cries from his quarters in Engine 7, adjoining the burning building.

Chief Binns and the men of the engine company were in the street before the alarm had sounded, and the Chief led his men up through the building to the third floor, where a pair of heavy doors giving into the factory rooms barred progress. Within could be heard the roar of the flames, and in response to Binns's shouts the crew of Truck 1, under Capt. John Sullivan, bounded up the stairs, carrying axes and crowbars.

While the hosemen waited the truckmen swung their axes at the double doors. Presently the woodwork gave way and the big doors fell in with a crash. Binns, Sullivan, and Battalion Chief Davin, who had joined them, darted forward with their men. And then there came a sudden rush of flame. The open doorway seemed to act as a flue.

Tongues of flame leaped forth from the opening and the firemen were flung back by it, their eyebrows and hair singed, and were sent headlong down the long flight of stairs to the second floor. From the sidewalk other firemen came to their aid and Chief Davin was carried into the engine house next door badly burned about the face and body. Sullivan's back was sprained by his fall and Fireman McCabe appeared to be suffering with internal injuries. Department surgeons hurried to the engine house, and long after the fire was out they were still at work over the injured men.

Binns, who had escaped with a slight singeing, sent in a second alarm, which brought Chief Croker and additional fire apparatus. Capt. John Tighe of Engine 29 led his men up the fire escapes to the third floor and was directing two streams through the windows when two other companies got to work in the rear of the building.

The pressure from the two engines in the back drove the flames out on the men on the fire escape. They dropped flat on the iron grating, but there was not one reached the sidewalk without singed hair and eyebrows.

It was not until nearly midnight that the fire was got under control. Then it had done about $100,000 damage. How it started could not be learned.

The building was occupied on the ground floor by the Merchants' Dining Room, on the second by Smith & Heminway, hardware dealers; on the third, where the fire started, by the Wholesale Typewriter Company, whose offices included the fourth floor also, and on the top floor by the Gathberg Manufacturing Company, metal workers.

WANTS WOLTER EXECUTED.

District Attorney Seeks Action on Ruth Wheeler's Slayer.

District Attorney Whitman yesterday filed a petition in the Court of Appeals to dismiss the appeal in the case of Albert W. Wolter, the slayer of Ruth Wheeler, which has been dragging along for months with no apparent action by Wolter's counsel, Wallace D. Scott.

Wolter was convicted before Judge Foster of the murder of the young girl and was sentenced to be executed on April 27 last. The case caused intense feeling, for it was shown that Wolter, after strangling the girl in his apartment at 345 East Seventy-fifth Street, had attempted to burn the body, and, failing in that, had wrapped it up in burlap and put it on the fire escape.

Wolter was defended by Mr. Scott, who filed a notice of appeal on May 26 last. The six months allowed for the filing of the brief in the appeal have expired without the final documents being delivered at the District Attorney's office. Mr. Whitman yesterday served notice on Scott that at the term of the Court of Appeals beginning Jan. 27 he would ask that Wolter's sentence of death be confirmed.

Mr. Scott, according to the District Attorney, has excused his delay in filing the papers by declaring that the payments for the stenographic work have not been made. He said, however, that he would furnish the necessary papers on or before next Monday.

FIREMAN MORTALLY HURT.

Fell from Tenement Roof While Helping to Save Tenants.

Fireman Leo Hackbach of Truck 32 was helping tenants of 3,825 Third Avenue to cross from the roof of the tenement to that of 3,827 yesterday afternoon, because of the thick smoke from a cellar fire which filled all the halls, when he slipped and fell from the five-story building. He struck several clotheslines and finally carromed off a one-story extension into the rear window of Mrs. A. S. Munt's flat.

Later Hackbach was taken to Fordham Hospital, where it was said that he probably would die before morning. Six other firemen were overcome in the cellar but were rescued by their comrades.

The fire originated in a heap of rubbish in the cellar.

TOLD CLERGYMAN HIS DUTY.

Court Surprised He Suppressed His Knowledge of Bigamy.

A clergyman was called as a witness in the Supreme Court yesterday in the hearing on the divorce action brought against Edward Bennett by Mrs. Lena Bennett. He was the Rev. Stedwell Applegate, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Asbury Park, N. J. He had married the Bennetts in September, 1908, he testified, and about a year ago he learned that Bennett had had a wife living at the time.

"And you didn't report the fact to the Public Prosecutor?" asked Justice Blanchard, with some surprise.

The clergyman looked embarrassed. He had not, he said.

"Well, don't you think it about time that you did report it? You owe it to your country, to yourself, and to your church to do so."

Dr. Applegate flushed and said that he had not considered that any part of his business.

GIVES Y. M. C. A. $60,000 MORE

Wanamaker Provides for Construction of His Sixth Building in Far East.

John Wanamaker has just promised to erect his sixth Y. M. C. A. building in the Far East. It was announced yesterday at the international headquarters here that he had pledged $60,000 to provide a building for Peking, China.

It was also announced that of the $2,000,000 fund recently started to erect fifty or sixty association buildings in centres in foreign lands, $1,800,000 has been pledged, and an American architect is just sailing to the East to make a study of conditions preparatory to the erection of the buildings.

JUDGE ADVISES LAW STUDENTS

Tells Them the Pugnacious Lawyer Hurts His Client's Case.

United States District Court Judge Holt gave the young men of the Columbia Law School yesterday some hints about how to examine witnesses when they get out and get some cases. He believed that most witnesses tell the truth, or try to tell it, and that the fiery, pugnacious lawyer who browbeats witnesses is discourteous and does damage to his client's cause. A lawyer often affects a pugnacity that he doesn't actually feel, went on Judge Holt, in the belief that he will thus impress the client with his zeal. Besides, the fighting character of a trial lawyer's business encourages this attitude on his part.

Judge Holt advised young lawyers to be easy, gentle and conciliatory with a nervous witness when he takes the stand, and to make much use of the direct examination as possible, because, he said, the direct is more important than the cross-examination although it is less showy.

When a lawyer feels pretty certain that he has a liar against his client, however, he will do well to keep him talking as long as possible, for a liar will reveal himself if given chance enough, said the Judge.

UPHOLDS PROF. WHITE'S WILL

His Aunt Fails to Break Trust Fund for Boys' Club.

Supreme Court Justice Bischoff decided yesterday against Mrs. Harriet B. Selleck in refusing to hold void the provision in the will of her nephew, Prof. Theodore Greeley White, which set aside the residuary estate for the maintenance of a clubhouse for boys on the west side. On the contrary, he held that she is estopped from contesting the validity of the trust.

Her contention arose from the action for an accounting brought by Louis M. Starr and Howard W. Starr, as executors under the will of their father, Theodore B. Starr, one of the Trustees named by Prof. White, who died in 1901. Mrs. Selleck inherited a $1,500 annuity from her nephew, and subsequently she signed an agreement not to contest the validity of the trust which Prof. White established with the residue of his estate.
